NEW YORK, N. Y., 5; CINCINNATI, 4. FIRST GAME.

The Giants made three home runs against the fretful Reds yesterday afternoon and made effective use of all three. They won two games from the crabbed Cincinnatians and has had only one run the better of it in each game, the helpfulness of the home runs in question. It was a home run day. Besides those delivered by Devore, Doyle and Snodgrass, Downey of Cincinnati made one. They were all over the fence wallops. Each cleared the arena and came to rest somewhere in the stadium seats.

The first was the more interesting game, though both were good. Strong hitting and glistening fielding flourished in the first. The Reds landed on Mathewson off times and hard in the first, but the glory of the setto was his, for twice he prevented scoring with the bases filled. In the last inning he kept the Reds from scoring despite three on bases and none out. That is where he pitched his prettiest, manipulating the cork pea so that three batters in succession couldn't more than wrape it with their flails.

Had the Reds gone about the business of the day with less tendency to find fault with Johnstone's verdicts on balls and strikes they might have fared better through concentration on the game itself. The fadeaway fooled two of them completely, Paskert and Egan, each of whom was called out on strikes but blamed the umpire therefor. Theirs was the mistaken eye, not Johnstone's. The called strike on Egan in the ninth and which left three on bases was as fair a strike as ever severed a saucer, and by not offering at it it was Egan's fault that the Reds sank in the Styx.

Scattered among outs in the first inning were a hit, a walk and an error by Bridwell, filling the bases. There were two out, and McLean made the third with a fly to centre. Downey hit into the left field bleachers for a homer in the second inning. Bowman doubled with one out, but in trying to score the slant was tossed at third. Devore to Bridwell to Devlin. A superb catch by Becher took a long hit away from Devlin in the second. Egan walked in the third and scored on a bad throw by Meyers and a hit by Mitchell, who topped off five during the afternoon. Again overcast on the bases brought the Reds to grief. Devore's run off Mitchell's triple. Bridwell hitting the lame for second and Matheweson passed the ball on to Doyle ahead of Mr. Mike.

An infield hit by Matheweson, an outfield prod by Devore, who also beat a five hit rhapsody on the leather, and a four base masterpiece to right by Doyle brought in three runs for New York in the fourth. Snodgrass caught hold and there could have been more runs if Hobitzel hadn't made a great stop of Murray's hard hit along the base line. The next short fielding play was made by Devlin, so McLean to the fourth, a scoop of the ball running in and the out possible because Long Larry is slow of foot.

Devore bunted his way to first in the fifth and was the lead horse in a tandem to the plate when Snodgrass scaled the left field fence with a hit which brought down a piece of the clouds. Hobitzel took first to the bunt process in the sixth and was batted home by Mitchell's triple. Paskert tabbed and McLean singled and scored Mr. Mike.

McLean and Downey made hits in the ninth and Miller was passed. Two force outs at the plate relieved the strain. Bridwell threw out McLean on Clarke's bounder and Matheweson threw out Downey on a sweet poke by Becher. Three strikes disposed of Egan.

Ames wavered only once in the second game, pitching splendidly in eight of the nine innings. The Reds didn't get on Allen Bridwell's rapid movements in covering ground and clever catches in the infield had their effect. A hit, a force, which was the second out, a wild pitch and two singles in succession by Mitchell, Paskert and Downey were the extent of Ames's lapse and produced two runs. The only Red who reached first after that was Dooley in the ninth with two out. He eager to steal, was in motion too soon, was caught between the bases and was run out.

The Giants made two in the first on a single by Devore, triple by Doyle and Murray out at first. McMillan fumbled Murray's grounder or he would have thrown Doyle at the plate. Devore fired a home run into the right field bleachers in the fifth. Murray was on the way to a double in the eighth but Snigg and McMillan caught him asleep and while he was deep in his astronomical studies.

PITTSBURG, 3; BROOKLYN, 0.

Good work was on tap in the game between Brooklyn and Pittsburgs yesterday, the fielding much provided one of the improved games of the season at Washington Park. The Pittsburgs won. The Bees were right up alongside of them in fast fielding, but with the nub the Pirates were several too many for the Brooks and the latter was shut out.

Double plays were touched off in large reason for the scarcity of runs. The Pittsburgers were doubled off first because John Hummel speared line drives, a thing one is going up in the air for it. Bat batting suffered through the depredations of little Tommy Leach. A wonderful running catch by Tim Turner took a homebagger away from Hummel and the visiting Pirate was guilty of other highway robbery.

Quite a different game these Pirates from the lamentable wreckers of last week who were busy giving away games with a generosity that should cost them the pennant. Wagner was the leader of the Pirate hitters, getting three of the hits, one being a home run into the right field bleachers off Miller, who was hard hit by the Pittsburgers. Wagner also made the only error of the game, a throw which let in the Brooks' run in the seventh. Leach was the only Pirate to make two hits, one being a triple off Miller, who was relieved by Wagner's Sleepy Hollow.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

Highlanders Win in Tenth in St. Louis Athletics Drop One.

The first division teams in the American League fared up a little closer yesterday. The New Yorks won in St. Louis, bagging the victory in the tenth inning, a deserved victory for the hardworking and earnest Warhop, who pitches in a good deal of hard luck. The Athletics were beaten in Detroit, but the fight they are making there has been anything but that of quitters, a title best used on them in envious Detroit. The Bostons are still getting their bumps, the White Sox shutting them out yesterday. The Washingtons, always a hoodoo for Cleveland, whose opponents this year are mostly hoodoos for them, beat the Naps twice. The results:

New York, 3; St. Louis, 1.
Detroit, 5; Philadelphia, 4.
Chicago, 1; Boston, 0.
Washington, 6; Cleveland, 0. First game.
Washington, 4; Cleveland, 3. Second game.

NEW YORK, N. Y., 3; ST. LOUIS, 1. 1st game.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 11. — Good steady pitching for New York finally resulted in a victory for the Nationals's men today in a ten inning game. A lapse on balls dished out to Walker, the pitch proved disastrous for Lake in winding up to pitch to Crosby. Walker was in charge of the opportunity, to wit, second. Killifer was forced to make a hurried throw to second and in scooping caused the ball to go to centre field, enabling Walker to advance to third. Laporte then came along with a single to centre and Walker scored the run that sent the battle into extra innings.

New York had the easiest kind of a time slamming Lake's slants out in the added inning. Foster singled to left. Austin attempted a sacrifice, and when Harzell threw wild to Newnam Foster went to third and Austin took second. Mitchell, who had been inserted into the game in the eighth round, after Gardner had battled for a liger, singled to deep left, scoring Foster and Austin. Warhop sacrificed, Newnam to Truesdale. Daniels was out Wallace to Newnam and Wolter ended the inning with a fly to Griggs. St. Louis could do nothing in their half of the tenth.

The lone run scored by the locals was pushed over in the seventh and would never have counted had not Warhop made a wild throw to third trying to catch Newnam, who had opened the round with a triple to left. Griggs sent a short fly to Crete and Newnam remained on third. Then Warhop made his wild heave to Austin and Newnam raced home. Hoffman fanned and Wallace flied to Wolter.

In the fourth inning Wolter ran over to right centre and by a sensational catch took a triple away from Hartzell, saving the game for the Highlanders, as a single by Griggs before the locals were retired would have brought in a run that would have given the Browns the game.
