NO BONDSMAN FOR WINTEMUTE

WAITS IN TOMBS FOR LAWYER TO FIND $7,000 FOR HIM.

Post Office Inspectors Think That He Sold 50,000 Shares That He Couldn't Deliver Because the Mining Company Held Up the Certificates.

William F. Wintemute, the mine promoter, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Shields in the Federal Building yesterday. Max Kohler, a former Assistant United States District Attorney, appeared for him, and his examination was set down for October 11. He was held in $5,000 bail. He couldn't get it yesterday and went back to the Tombs. If he can't get it by Monday Commissioner Shields will hear a motion to reduce the bail.

The news of Wintemute's arrest brought to the Commissioner's office yesterday a many persons who said they had invested money with Wintemute and wanted to know what they should do next. One of those who called was Dr. A. C. Kniskern of Mechanicsville, N. Y., who chanced to be in town. He said that some fifteen years ago F. B. Tiffany, secretary of the Gold Run Company, came to Mechanicsville to visit a nephew. Dr. Kniskern met him and heard about the Tamberlane mining stock. As a result Dr. Kniskern invested $5,000 and several friends, including N. T. Porter, a manufacturer, Seth B. Haniy, a farmer, A. D. Overit, a manufacturer, William C. Talmage, and Charles Lee, all of Mechanicsville, Dr. Kniskern says, made the subscription up to some $35,000.

The matter rested for some time, but as the stockholders became dissatisfied with the lack of returns Dr. Kniskern a few years ago went out to the Colorado mines. Meanwhile, the company had been reorganized as the Gold Run Mining and Milling Company. In looking over the books at the mine's offices the Mechanicsville man found W. F. Wintemute's name as a large stockholder which was the first he heard of Mr. Wintemute. The physician has made three trips mail to the mine and himself believes that the property is of some value, but that it has been mismanaged.

According to former friends of Wintemute he came to New York not long after the close of the Spanish-American war, in which he had enlisted. He first worked as a city salesman for a paper house and at that time lived modestly in Brooklyn. In 1901 a cousin of his came to town and with Wintemute went into the printing business on the Lower West Side. The cousin is said to have put up the $1,000. There was trouble between the two partners and finally a fire put the firm out of business.

Following this Wintemute took up the mining game. His first stock, so far as the postal inspectors have learned, was the Standard Mines and Milling Company in 1903. This was followed by the Clonchilula Gold Reef Mines Company, which promised 12 per cent. dividends. The Merchants and Traders Oil Company came next, and was followed by the Nevada Exploration Company, which is said to have made a heap of money for its promoters. Then there was the Founders Pool, which was a trade in all sorts of mining stocks on an extensive scale, and after that the Red Man Mining and Smelting Company. The Red Man was one of the big enterprises. It was run originally by others, as near as a hasty examination of the records shows, and Wintemute took it over. He then formed a new concern, the Red Man Extension. This stock was issued, as it appears, to pay dividends on the original Red Man, and also is said to have been exchanged for that stock in some cases. Then came the Copper King of Arizona, and its successor, the Copper King Mines Company, and finally the Gold Run Company, which seems to have been the best paying of all his ventures.

Outside of his mining business Wintemute ran other little enterprises like the Peanut Coffee Cereal Company, and recently he put out a book booming Roosevelt for the Presidency in 1912, which had some little sale.

The inspectors yesterday came across a lot which they believe shows the dealings of Wintemute with his foreign customers. This list is as follows:

Lady Olivia Tankerville, Glendale Rd., Bromborough, Tunbridge Wells, $15,000; Mrs. Henrietta Eliot, Tunbridge Wells, $5,000; Miss Louise F. Eliot, The Hague, $1,000; Miss Adele M. Eliot, The Hague, $1,000; Miss Anna E. Eliot, The Hague, $1,000; M. Houlley, Durham, England, $2,000; Mary E. Jacobs, London, $2,000; Anna von Meilecke, Nottingham, England, $2,000; Mrs. Jeanette Stopford, London, $2,000; Richard Barrett, Ashton-under-Lyne, $1,000; Mrs. Mary Munro Menzies, 26 Dalziel Drive, Glasgow, $1,000; Robert K. Strong, Glasgow, $1,000; William Calder Coghill, Glasgow, $500; Robert Leiden, Dartermine, $500; Alexander Roger, Port Glasgow, $2,000; Mrs. Mary Roger, Port Glasgow, $2,000; Anderson Roger, Port Glasgow, $5,000; Miss Sophie Sinclair, Glasgow, $2,000; Mrs. M. S. Crosthwaite, Glasgow, $500; Thomas M. Pherson, Glasgow, $500 and the Revd. James Henderson, Edinburgh, $2,500. Altogether the inspectors already have a line on business of Wintemute's which totals up some $600,000.

The inspectors are trying to trace the connection between Wintemute and Hermann Warszawiak, the Polish Jew and sometime Presbyterian minister. Copies of tables sent by Wintemute and Warszawiak to Mrs. Henrietta Eliot were found in the stacks of papers. One dated July 17, 1909, reads:

Remarkable new discovery in mines urgent telegraph appeal from Warszawiak. I have granted 25,000 shares additional for yourself and friends; great excitement prevails; cable acceptance and full remittance or part direct to New York office.

This is signed W. J. Wintemute. Another dated six days later reads: "Estimated intrinsic value fully $5; should command this price [near future upon public advertisement of mine's richness; no stock offered; now have amount allotted you; advise you to accept and hold all for larger profits and dividends." Here is a cablegram sent about the same time and signed "Warszawiak":

Be sure cable Wintemute immediate acceptance; development marvellous; returning England soon; congratulations.

One of the peculiarities shown by Wintemute's books is the varying prices at which he held Gold Run on the same day. His customers in the United Kingdom usually had to pay $1 flat, or par value, for the stock. At the same time his American customers were getting theirs for from $1 down to 10 cents. A favorite price was 20 cents, although on the same day there might be a few sales at 10 or 15 cents.

The inspectors say that Wintemute collected large sums of money, but that it went fast and that some little time ago Secretary Tiffany wrote him refusing to send any more blank stock certificates until he had got his share of those which had preceded. The letters indicate that Wintemute for a time had made his remittances to Colorado promptly and then had lagged behind. For that reason, the post office authorities say, Wintemute has been unable to deliver 50,000 shares for which he collected the money.

One of those present at yesterday's arraignment was a representative of the law firm of Kidder Meleier and Ayres of 37 William street, who appeared for Lady Tankerville. She is the mother of the Earl of Tankerville, who was known in this country at one time as Lord Bennett before the death of his father. His wife was Leonora Sophie Van Marter of Tacoma, Wash., to whom he was married on October 24, 1895, in Tacoma. Both Lord Bennett and his wife were associated at one time with Moody and Sankey in evangelical work. They even now hold revival meetings among their English tenants.

TARRED MAN TELLS ABOUT IT.

Farmer Sichort's Story of His Maltreatment by Neighbors.

MAYS LANDING, N. J., Aug. 12. Charged with atrocious assault and battery and in default of $2,000 bail each Joseph Vaughn, Charles Quinn and Charles Sears were brought to this place this afternoon handcuffed together in custody of a colored constable from Atlantic City and were lodged in the county jail to await the action of the October Grand Jury.

The three men, alleged leaders of the Terrible Ten of McKee City, had a hearing this morning in Magistrate Joshua Jagnetty's court. In the room were women from McKee City and alleged members of the Terrible Ten who were eager to hear the story of Farmer Frank Sichort, who was tarred and feathered and bound to a post early on Wednesday morning last. Assistant Prosecutor G. Arthur Botte conducted the case for the State.

Stiff and trembling from his horrible experience Farmer Sichort walked to the stand and in reply to questions said:

"I had started for Atlantic City with a load of truck and had just reached the railroad crossing at Cardiff when Vaughn and Quinn sprang upon me, crying, 'Now we've got you, you Dutchman!' Sears stood a short distance away and watched them strangle me until I fell to the ground.

"When I cried for help Vaughn stuffed a handkerchief into my mouth, while Quinn tied my hands behind me and lashed my feet together. Then they cut off my shirt and removed all my clothing, tied me fast to a pole near the crossing, where I was kept for nearly an hour, while all three circled around jeering and threatening all sorts of cruel treatment. Later they threw me into a wagon, drove to the McKee City schoolhouse and threw me into the hard cement cellar, where it was very cold.

"About daylight Vaughn remarked that it was time for them to go to work. Then they carried me out near the railroad and pointed to a pole with the remark: 'See that pole, Dutchman? Well, that's where you'll get yours.' Then Vaughn daubed me all over with tar, while Quinn spread on the feathers. When I gasped with pain Quinn told Vaughn to put some tar in my mouth.

"This was about 5 o'clock in the morning and I was tied up to the pole until 6 o'clock, when Vaughn cut me loose. I went to the home of a neighbor for some clothing. I was suffering from the cold. Then I went home and my son drove me to Mays Landing. Later I came to the hospital in Atlantic City."

As Sichort was relating his story his assailants now and then smiled.

The prisoners all pleaded not guilty and refused to have anything to say relative to the affair.

DEATH DUE TO STARVATION.

Result of Autopsy in the Case of Miss Wardlaw.

After an autopsy at Holle's morgue in Newark yesterday afternoon it was announced by County Physician William McKenzie that Miss Virginia O. Wardlaw, indicted with her sisters for the murder of Olcy Snead, had died of starvation. Dr. McKenzie was assisted in making the autopsy by Dr. Walter S. Washington, who had been in attendance on Miss Wardlaw, Dr. Harrison S. Martland, pathologist at the Newark City Hospital, and Jail Physician Oswald H. Roth.

Dr. McKenzie said that while starvation was the primary cause of death Miss Wardlaw was suffering from various maladies, principally congestion of the lungs. The autopsy put at rest vague rumors as to the parentage of Olcy Snead.

Louis Hood, who has been engaged by the State as special counsel in the case, said yesterday that the death of Miss Wardlaw would not prevent the trial of the two other sisters. He said:

"There is no reason why the death of Miss Wardlaw should interfere with the trial of the other defendants. They are indicted jointly, but the death of one of them does not prevent the arraignment of the others. Unless the unforeseen occurs the case against these other defendants will be moved for trial September 21 next."

Chauncey H. Beasley, counsel for Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Mary W. Snead, said it was his opinion that Miss Wardlaw starved herself to death. "The stories about Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Snead having tried to induce their sister to starve herself," he said, "are without foundation. This woman, in my opinion, had deliberately set out to starve herself. She refused to take nourishment, and I don't believe it was because of inability to assimilate it."

POLICEMAN HAD STOLEN GOODS.

Schackne Says He Didn't Know Boy Who Lived With Him Was a Thief.

Henry Schackne, a policeman attached to the East 126th street station, was in the Tombs court yesterday charged with receiving stolen property. Lieut. Kinne, who made the arrest, said that R. C. Guerrin of Riverdale, N. Y., was the complainant. It was stated that Mr. Guerrin visited the county jail at White Plains on Monday and saw a boy named Baumann, who with another youth had been arrested in connection with the robbery of Colber Paine's home at Rye. Mr. Guerrin recognized Baumann as a former employee who had disappeared coincidentally with some of Mr. Guerrin's property, he said.

It is said that Baumann confessed to Mr. Guerrin and gave him a written order on the policeman, who lives at 163 East Ninety-fourth street, for a camera, safety razor and a pistol. Schackne turned over the property. Then Mr. Guerrin called at Police Headquarters and told the Commissioner.

In the Tombs court Schackne denied knowledge of the character of the goods. He said the boy lived with him and had left the property in his care. He said he had thought Baumann honest. A full complaint was not made out against Schackne. He was permitted to go with a summons to return next Wednesday. The arrest suspends Schackne. He has been on the force four years.

PANAMA CANAL PROGRESS.

Report to Washington of Blowing Up of Protecting Dike Near Gatun Dam.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12. Washington was informed to-day of the recent blowing up of two sections of a dike built to keep the Chagres river out of the prism of the Isthmian canal. By this act the engineers in charge of the excavation in the Gatun dam region completed the southernmost parts of the eleven short cuts needed to connect the old canal started by the French. Seven tons of dynamite were required to blow out the dikes. The explosion took place on the afternoon of July 31, as cabled to THE SUN at the time.

The dikes blown out were constructed to keep out the water while the rock excavation was going on. The excavating was begun in January, 1908. The section is 2,500 feet long, 500 feet wide and 45 feet deep, substantially 1,250,000 cubic yards of rock have been removed.

The amount of rock to be removed from the lake region was 12,938,261 cubic yards. Of that mass but 3,249,828 yards remains. To protect the operations from the water of the Chagres river it was necessary to construct levees 65 feet above sea level. Two sets of levees with lower crowns were overtopped by floods in 1908 and 1909, the work being greatly delayed thereby.

DINNER HELPED STOCK DEAL

PERRY TIFFANY HAD FRIENDS AT KNICKERBOCKER CLUB.

One of Those Who Was Let in on the Ground Floor $5,000 Worth Wants to Get It Back. Ice Company That Didn't Get Far, Despite the Fine Prospectus.

A private dinner at the Knickerbocker Club which was attended by a number of the friends of Perry Tiffany, the grandson of Commodore Perry, in the interest of a newly organized concern of which Tiffany was a moving figure was mentioned in papers submitted to Supreme Court Justice Bischoff yesterday in a suit brought by Melville D. Chapman, son of Elverton R. Chapman and member of the Stock Exchange firm of E. R. Chapman & Co., to recover $5,000 invested in stock largely as a result of the dinner.

Mr. Chapman said in an affidavit that many speeches were made at this dinner and the general drift of the speeches was: "We will consider letting a few gentlemen into this deal by permitting them to buy stock at $10 a share." So Mr. Chapman bought 500 shares.

The concern in which "a few gentlemen" were permitted to get in on the ground floor was the United States Pliable Plate Ice Company, which had an office at 50 Church street until a short time after the present suit was brought, where Mr. Tiffany made his headquarters. The corporation is made a defendant along with Mr. Tiffany, Joseph D. Gallagher, J. Bayard Kirkpatrick, William H. Llewellyn and Henry Gilder, who were also officers and directors of the company.

Chapman's original complaint stated that the company was incorporated in 1903 to manufacture and sell artificial ice. Chapman got his stock in 1906, at which time Gallagher was president. Chapman submitted to the court a copy of the company's prospectus containing alleged reports of eminent mechanical engineers who said that the company had a great future because of the commercial value of its ice.

"A perfect cake of ice is like a perfect woman in two respects," said the prospectus. "It is both pure and beautiful." Then followed illustrations showing that the ice manufactured by the company was so transparent that a newspaper could be read through a cake 10 inches thick. It was also stated that the company owned basic mechanical processes patented not only in the United States but abroad. It took only fifty hours to make the ice and the cost was only 50 cents a ton, said the prospectus. "Science unites the Antipodes," concluded the booklet.

Mr. Chapman says that Tiffany came to his office early in January, 1906, and told about the valuable patent the company owned and how it had been indorsed by eminent engineers, and intended to build plants in Newark, Pittsburg and New York city. Chapman got a chance to buy at $10 a share, but Tiffany told him not to let the fact get out. The stock was to advance in value five or six times within the next ninety days. Then followed the Knickerbocker Club dinner, at which Kirkpatrick, Gallagher and Tiffany made speeches, and Mr. Chapman then concluded to buy.

The plaintiff alleges that the company was insolvent at the time he was induced to buy stock and known to be by Tiffany and the others. The company had no patents, he says, but only options on which small payments had been made.

Justice Bischoff granted Chapman permission to serve an amended complaint.

SAYS PALADINO FAKED.

Carrington, Who Brought Medium Here, Admits That She Was a Fraud.

Hereward Carrington, the young man with the long hair who has a library of books about the occult and who brought Eusapia Paladino over here from Naples, gave a lecture at the Berkeley Lyceum yesterday afternoon to expose some of the tricks by which mediums fool the public. Incidentally also Mr. Carrington spoke of his former ward, Mme. Paladino. He was sincere, he said, in bringing her to America last year. He believed she had a great mysterious power which should be displayed here for the benefit of science. And then after several psychologists had interviewed her Carrington found to his bitter disappointment, he admitted, that she used trickery. He still believes, he said, that she sometimes does use a "great mysterious power."

Some of the tricks which were first demonstrated and then exposed yesterday afternoon were the things which Paladino did, table levitating, banjo playing and bell ringing, all without physical contact. But Mr. Carrington was very careful to explain that his were not the methods employed by the medium. He hasn't the slightest idea of how she worked some of her stunts, he said.

Mr. Carrington was assisted by Emil Engleman, whose business is to travel about with magicians. They showed the usual methods adopted by fake spiritual mediums.

U. S. TO OWN MAMMOTH CAVE.

Representative Thomas of Kentucky Aims to Put His Plan Through Congress.

LOUISVILLE, Aug. 12. That the Mammoth Cave, the most wonderful resort in Kentucky, may become a national reservation is the scheme which is being fostered by Congressman Thomas of that district, and he intends putting a measure through Congress making it Government property.

He has looked into the matter and found that it is possible that the Government may purchase the cave, in which event it would vie with the popularity of the Yellowstone Park or other national wonders that are property of the Government. The cave is almost the same as it was 100 years ago, with the exception of names being scratched on its walls by the thousands of visitors who have traversed its depths.

Junior O. U. A. M.'s in a Night Battle.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 12. Members of the Junior O. U. A. M. encamped at Lake Ladore last night had a taste of real riot duty when a company of fifty men charged a large crowd of riotous foreigners and rescued two members of the State constabulary and two of their own officers. Sergt. Herbert Smith and Private Charles Gould of Troop B of the State constabulary were attacked when they tried to stop a fight between foreigners who were picnicking at the lake. Lieut. Bingleberry and Corporal Berry of the Juniors ran to their aid but were also beaten. Several shots were fired by the foreigners and the four men were in danger of losing their lives when a company of the Juniors, armed with Springfield rifles, charged the rioters and drove them off after making a number of arrests. Trooper Gould was badly wounded and the others were bruised and cut.

Came Home to Find House Robbed.

The Brooklyn police are in quest of robbers who broke into the home of Gustave W. Thompson, head chemist of the National Lead Company, at 60 South Portland avenue while the family were in the country and carried off paintings, bric-a-brac, silverware, books, clothing and other articles valued at $5,000. The robbery was discovered on Tuesday afternoon on Mr. Thompson's return to the house.

NEW INTEREST IN RICE INQUEST

Rice's Neighbor and Friend Mr. Brown Called On to Testify.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 12.—The calling of John Hartness Brown as a witness in the Coroner's inquest into the death of William J. Rice, the attorney and clubman, last Friday night, has greatly increased interest in the efforts to unravel the murder mystery. That John Hartness Brown knew anything about the case was not generally known until yesterday afternoon, when it developed at the inquest that Brown was one of the first to arrive on the scene after Rice's body had been discovered and placed in an automobile to be taken to the hospital.

Brown is a neighbor of the murdered man and Rice was his attorney in several large business deals. When his connection with the case became known at the inquest Prosecutor Cline immediately subpœnaed him as a witness. Brown owns considerable property on Euclid avenue and East Ninth street.

A few years ago he tore down the Stillman Hotel, a building that was in fine condition, to make room for an office building on Euclid avenue. The framework of the building was erected at a considerable cost, and owing to financial difficulties it has never been completed. Rice was Brown's attorney pertaining to the settlement of real estate to form a syndicate to complete the unfinished building.

W. H. Phillips, one of the men who found Rice soon after he had been shot, testified before the Coroner that Brown came up just as the injured man had been placed in the ambulance to take him to the hospital and inquired what had happened. When told that a badly injured man had been found Brown nodded and remained standing there when Phillips drove away with Rice.

STABBED BY A STRANGER.

Nelson Got Sixteen Wounds by Obliging a Man Who Wanted to Fight.

Matthew Nelson of 47 Hudson street, Jersey City, was sitting on the front steps of his home early yesterday morning talking with Charles Ericson, one of his neighbors, when he was approached by a strange man who said he wanted to fight. To prove his sincerity the stranger called Nelson some very offensive names and in a moment they were at it. When the stranger suddenly took to his heels Nelson fell to the sidewalk with sixteen stab wounds in his body.

Ericson, who says he was so excited over the fight that he didn't see the knife play until Nelson fell, ran for a policeman. An ambulance was summoned and Nelson was taken to the City Hospital, where it is said that he has slight chance of recovery.

The police have held Ericson as a witness. John Sullivan of 41 Hudson street, John Ogden of 33 Essex street and Benjamin Goodwin of 13 Essex street, who were picked up on the description of Nelson's assailant given by Ericson, were held in $3,000 bail each by Judge Queen for an examination to-day.
