THE NEWS AROUND HOME.

Erick Erickson, an enterprising farmer near Moe post office, has gone into the business of buying hides for which he pays cash, delivered at his place.

During the illness of Mrs. Russell, Miss Lena Goding is teaching this department in the schools and from reports, is filling the place very creditably.

George Olson came into the office Monday morning with a smile on his face as big as that on the face in the full moon. He had his pocket full of cigars and was setting 'em up all around, saying "It is a big boy, sure."

It is understood that Straw Bro's. are selling out their stock of clothing and intend to go out of business the first of January. They are selling goods at a very low figure and farmers will do well to call on them.

THE LEADER wants a good correspondent at Beresford, Lennox, Eden and Brooklyn. Also at Sallina and other places in the north part of the county. Let the friends of the paper respond to its wants and thus help to make it the best in the state.

Mrs. Russell, one of the teachers in the public schools, took sick very suddenly last Friday, while on duty in the school room. Doctors Smith and Rosenbaum were called to her assistance and under their care she has been slowly improving. Mrs. Russell has held a position in the schools here for several years, and has achieved the distinction of being one of the best teachers in the county.

Every laboring man in and about Canton, is invited to be present at the Knights of Labor meeting at the court house next Saturday evening. A great many have expressed their approval of the move and there are already men enough in its favor to form an organization. The laboring men of Canton can help their cause a great deal by joining this assembly.

Secretary Hanson of the county Alliance desires THE LEADER to say that the regular monthly meeting of the Alliance will be held in Canton, on the second Saturday in December, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. As this is the day on which occurs the regular election of officers for the ensuing term, it is desired to have ever local Alliance in the county represented. Remember the day, Saturday, Dec. 13, 1890.

H. B. Lund, the newly elected superintendent of schools, arrived from Valparaiso, college last week and was around among his friends receiving congratulations last Thursday. He paid THE LEADER office a welcome visit. He is getting ready to succeed superintendent Isham, unless his irrepressible opponent wants office bad enough to contest the election. There is a rumor to this effect but it is hoped that the defeated candidate, who was so mercilessly snowed under that he will never come to the political surface again, will not permit his appetite for office to overcome his better judgment.

THE LEADER job printing department has been crowded with business for two months or more, and it is a fact, notwithstanding the slanderous insinuations of the proprietors of the other offices, that this office has yet to turn out its first unsatisfactory piece of work. THE LEADER invites the attention of the public to the fact that it has a first class job office, both in mechanical ability and otherwise and is prepared to turn out work of every description at reasonable rates and in the very best styles of the art. We take no back seat even for Sioux City and Sioux Falls in point of price and workmanship.

The members of the Methodist congregation with a view to getting acquainted with the new minister, joined in a pleasant surprise party for the family of their new minister, Rev. Simmons, last Friday evening. The party gathered at the residence of J. A. Goding, from whence they marched to the parsonage in a body at eight o'clock and found their unsuspecting victims in the midst of their work of preparing their household effects to commence housekeeping. Many of the family delegations in the party carried with them baskets and packages containing many good things to eat which were disposed of at the parsonage. The party were hospitably entertained during the evening by Rev. and Mrs. Simmons and their happy family, and went away feeling much pleased with their sojourn.

Sioux Falls Press: There are ninety-six persons in the penitentiary, there being only one woman in the prison, which certainly speaks well for woman as a law abiding person. Owing to the prison having no contract on hand for work, the prisoners are idle. A great deal of the summer work has been in the prison quarry blasting out stone for the wall around the prison. Most of the approriation, $2,000, has been used already in the furnishing of the quarry. A new mode of tactics has been adopted with reference to the exercise of the prisoners. An hour and a half a day is devoted to military drill, special effort being made in the foot movements. This has afforded a great relief to the prisoners, and on pleasant days they are marched out on the gravel walk and are given a good march.

COLLEGE OULINGS.

The instruction received at the Augustana College this year is as thorough and interesting as it can possibly be made and one good point of instruction are the chapel exercises in the morning when the students in turn deliver a declamation, written composition or short speech.

On account of the recent snow, the students of the Augustana College were obliged to give up their baseball and croquet playing for indoor amusements.

Quite a number of students were enrolled during the past week. Of those who have attended school here before were J. B. Reinertson, R. R. Spande, C. Sandvig, A. Steensland, and Miss Reinertson. The new students were O. Osmundson, from Lincoln county; C. Erickson, of Miner county, and R. W. Olsen, of Yankton. Many more students are expected to attend in the near future, so the prospect for a large attendance is good.

Timber Depredations.

United States Land Commissioner Lewis A. Groff calls attention to the continued poachings on the forests of the public domain. An examination of the reports back as far as July 1, 1881, and extending up to the end of June, 1889, shows that the best timber still belonging to the United States is being ruthlessly destroyed and stolen, and will soon be exhausted. There are laws against this stealing, but the laws are imperfectly enforced, and always have been because citizens of the United States find it difficult to eradicate from their minds the idea that appropriating anything belonging to Uncle Sam is not stealing.

Our laws are utterly inadequate to protect the forests of the public domain, and they are melting away like snow wreaths in spring. Commissioner Groff suggests that whenever the public woods are situated in a locality in which timber is needed for building by settlers in their vicinity, that provision be made for supplying such actual settlers with the needed lumber. But the constant cutting of timber on these lands and shipping it off and selling it elsewhere, putting the money into private pockets, should be stopped at once and forever.

Commissioner Groff says the law should be made stiffer, so as to prevent the cutting and deportation of public timber beyond the neighborhood where it is needed, as stated by him. Also the cutting of any timber at all should be forbidden on mountain sides and near the head waters of streams, or at any other point where for economic, climatic or public reasons the land should be left permanently wooded.

Antarctic Explorations.

It is announced that the Australian states have accepted the offer made to them a year ago by Baron Nordenskiold, the explorer. The baron promised to go on an expedition to the south pole, or as near to it as he could get, if the Australasian countries would contribute $25,000 toward paying the expenses of his trip. The money has been raised, and Barons Nordenskiold and Dickson will accordingly organize and equip during the coming year an expedition to south polar regions. The object of the expedition will be both scientific and commercial. Whales and seals are becoming scarce in the north polar seas. So are the eiderdown ducks and other birds that commerce seeks in the far north.

The Antarctic waters are yet full of these valuable birds and animals. Owing to the severity of the weather and the remoteness from civilization commerce has not yet levied tribute on the waters around the Antarctic circle. Science, too, has lagged in the hugging out of the secrets of this remote region. It was so far away from anywhere and the prospect of succor in case of misfortune was so hopeless. For half a century no explorations have been carried forward in the south polar seas. Birds have whistled, whales have spouted and seals have gambled at will, with no human sound to break the solitude. But a new civilization has sprung up not so far away from these regions now. Australasia has become the center of a great and new civilization, whose millions of men are calling to the South seas, in the interests of both science and of commerce, demanding that they yield up their secrets.
