DIVISION OF THROUGH RATES.

Test Case Between Trunk Lines of the South and So-Called Tap Lines.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—What is designated as a test case between the trunk lines of the South and the so-called tap lines was filed at the Interstate Commerce Commission to-day by the Paragould and Memphis Railway against the St. Louis and San Francisco Railway. Some time ago the Interstate Commerce Commission in a decision held that allowances on through rates made to tap lines, chiefly operated by lumber companies, were illegal and in the nature of rebates, and prohibited them in the future.

The petition filed to-day by the Paragould and Memphis Railway, which runs from Manila, Ark., to Cardwell, Mo., a distance of about thirty miles, is directed against the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad, which has cancelled the joint rates heretofore applying from points on this short line, effective September 8.

After that date the combination rates will be in effect. These rates are, it is alleged, higher than the through rates and will ruin the industries along the line of the petitioner. The petitioner says that it is a bona fide corporation, acts as a common carrier, reports to the Interstate Commerce Commission and is not owned by any industry or industries along its line; that it has for years maintained a freight and passenger schedule and served the public in every respect and for all commodities tendered to it as a common carrier.

This is one of the first cases to be filed in respect to the authority of a carrier, termed "tap line," to receive division of through rates from a connecting carrier. The petition says that the divisions which the complainant has received are no more than the cost of the service performed and that none of the divisions has gone other than directly into the treasury of the corporation and then paid out in accordance with law and good business principles; and that no industry along the line served by the petitioner has any interest therein. It is also stated that the petitioner has complied with and obeyed all of the requirements of the act to regulate commerce and that it has practised no preference, discrimination or disadvantage to any one.

The commission is asked to set aside and suspend the operation of the cancellation of the rates heretofore in effect and to approve the present existing rates and to establish joint rates and through routes between the defendant and complainant.

PRIVATE BANKERS.

Concerns Doing Business in This City Rush to Albany to Reincorporate.

ALBANY, Sept. 1.—Following closely on the recent decision of Judge Lacombe of the United States Circuit Court in New York holding constitutional the private bankers bill there was a rush of concerns formerly engaged in that business on the East Side of New York city to reincorporate to-day with the Secretary of State. About twenty such private banking concerns filed incorporation papers to-day through the firm of Mayer & Gilbert, attorneys of New York city, the head of the firm being ex-Attorney-General Julius M. Mayer.

It is doubtless hoped by the former private bankers that they may in some way continue their business without the burdensome restrictions which the new law imposes, but as the State Comptroller has announced his decision to watch closely for any infractions of the law it is doubted whether the newly incorporated companies will be able to do more than the business of an express company in the receiving of moneys for transportation. Some time ago an attempt to secure the incorporation of a former private banking concern with the Secretary of State was frustrated because the Secretary of State declined to receive the papers for filing in his office, holding that under the new law private bankers must be licensed by the State Comptroller and file heavy bonds with that department.

When Mr. Gilbert of Mayer & Gilbert, who brought his papers incorporating the numerous concerns to Albany to-day, learned the situation he struck out of the incorporation papers he offered for filing the provision to authorize the concerns to receive deposits for safe keeping. With this section out of the papers the certificates were accepted for filing.

As the new law only exempts regularly organized express companies which do a business in transmitting money and money orders the State Comptroller has asked the Attorney-General to rule upon the question as to whether or not the new companies' certificates filed to-day are within the law. It is believed that the Attorney-General may decide that the new companies are within the law, but it is doubtful whether many of the concerns will continue the fight for business along the old lines in view of the determination of the State to see that no evasion of the new statute will be permitted.

KEEPS ITS $893,000 NOTE.

Central Trust Co.'s Move in New York City Railway Litigation Denied.

The petition of the Central Trust Company asking Judge Lacombe of the United States Circuit Court to direct the receiver of the New York City Railway Company to turn over to the purchaser of the Third Avenue Railroad property a promissory note of the Forty-second Street, Manhattanville and St. Nicholas Avenue Railroad Company for $893,433.30 and also an open account against that company for $112,523.91 was denied yesterday. A claim on the note and the open account was prosecuted against the Forty-second street road, but the latter set up counter-charges.

The master before whom these claims were prosecuted held that certain items of interest which figured in them should not be credited to the New York City company and that if these items of interest were deducted there would be no balance of the claims in excess of the counter charges. The claims were therefore dismissed.

The matter was taken to the Circuit Court of Appeals, which held that the receiver of the City company was bound to account to the mortgagee for the note and the open account balance down to September 24, 1907, "the sole right of the mortgagee being to enforce the covenant contained in the mortgage as to the indebtedness of the controlled companies, of which the Forty-second street company was one." This the Central Trust Company contends is equivalent to a direction that the note and the claim should be turned over to it or to the purchaser of the Third avenue road. Judge Lacombe does not accept this view and denied the petition.
