GIANTS OUTPLAY THE PHILLIES

HAVE A SHADE ON QUAKERS AND BEAT THEM OUT.

Brooklyns and Bostons Have a Lively Scoring Game in Which the Tailenders Do the Winning. Pirates Shut Out the Reds. Another Idle Day for Cubs.

The game regretted was what the Giants wanted in Philadelphia yesterday, but they played a double header and the New Yorks had to be content with one victory. That could be no progress in getting into Pittsburg's lead, as the Pirates made it out about not the Cincinnatis. The Brooklyns were overpowered by the tailenders in Boston. The Cubs ran into their fourth day in succession. Rain kept them off the Philadelphia sport. The results:

New York, 6; Philadelphia, 2.

Boston, 9; Brooklyn, 6.

Pittsburg, 2; Cincinnati, 0.

At Chicago—Rain.

NEW YORK, N. Y., SEPT. 3.—PHILADELPHIA (N. L.), 2.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3. The Giants displayed more class in the muddy, slippery footing than the Phillies this afternoon and won more handily in a game which was well played, considering the poor conditions. There was to have been a double header, but one game took that plan into a cocktail hat, and the teams were barely able to beat the rain in the afternoon. There was little scoring about the game. It was an even, plugging sort of an affair. The steady pitching of Crandall was a substantial performer in the box for the Giants and it was upholdi well all the time for the Phillies.

Merkle introduced some more of his wonderful specialty in the first inning. Strategy was called out at first by Brennan on a close play and McGraw cut loose with a roar. He was ordered to the clubhouse and on his way there went through a pantomime expressive of how rotten he thought Brennan was.

The first run of the game blossomed in the third inning. Merkle waffed a home run into the left field bleachers. The New Yorks picked up their next run also on the four bag process. Doyle trotted around the promontories by virtue of spilling a hit over the right field wall into the adjacent country.

Murray singled in the seventh and a fall in the ninth kept him from getting a two bagger. Bridwell walked, and a wild pitch advanced Murray and Bridwell. On Devlin's smash to Doolan, Murray was nailed at the plate, but Merkle was good for a hit and brought Bridwell in. Crandall batted Devlin home.

A pass and two singles gave the Phillies a tally in the second inning, all three men reaching first with two out. The Phillies had won before good pitching and sharp fielding until the ninth, when Magee broke forth with the third homer of the soiree, a glad one the left field bleachers.

BOSTON (N. L.), 9; BROOKLYN, 6.

BOSTON, Sept. 3.—The Doves turned the tables on Bill Dahlen's Dodgers this afternoon, beating them in a game that was marked with free hitting and loose playing. The Harvard-Boston aviation meeting had nothing on the Columbus avenue grounds for beautiful ascents.

In the very first inning after Hummel threw out Collins Herzog boosted one over the left field fence for four sacks. Shean singled to right, stole second and scored on Miller's single. The latter stole, but was left when Hummel and Stark retired Sweeney, who had walked, on a force.

Shean threw Davidson out in Brooklyn's half of the first and Daubert single to centre. Sweeney tossed Wheat's hard hit to Shean for a force. Hummel walked, sending Wheat to the second station, and when Dalton singled to centre Hummel scored. Not again till the fifth did Brooklyn get a man around the bases. In the meantime Boston managed to gather two in the third on Stark's error, Miller's single and Sweeney's double.

In the next session they repeated with two more on singles by Smith, Collins and Herzog.

In the fifth for Brooklyn Davidson doubled to the left centre fence and went to third when Daubert flied out to Miller. On Wheat's single he scored. The darkness began to gather and raindrops fell with persistency in the eighth, when Aviator Frock started his flight.

Zach Wheat copped his second hit, but was forced when Hummel grounded to Shean. Dalton fanned and Lennox walked, sending Hummel to second, and to third when Stark walked. The ascension looked so good to Dahlen that he sent McKeveen to bat for Bergen. The latter responded to a hit that struck the centre field fence, sending the aforementioned three across the rubber. Burch for Bell came back with one for two more sacks, which sent McKeveen across. Frock glided down and Ferguson took the seat.

In Boston's eighth Dessau walked, Miller and Sweeney singled. Dessau went up another thousand feet when he winged Herzog on the right arm. On Harry Smith's single three runs came across. The score:

Rain Knocked Out Both Games Between New York and Boston.

Instead of two games being played with the Red Sox on the left centerfield mine was played. The teams tried to get a game, but rain came down at the end of the second inning and there was nothing more doing. The score was tied in favor of the Red Hose, who tallied once in the first inning on a three bagger by Hooper and a wild pitch. Hall and Warhop were the opposing pitchers. Honus Wagner wasn't in the Boston lineup. He has been suspended indefinitely by Ban Johnson for his outbreak in Friday's game, when he was chased from the diamond.

Yesterday's game wasn't started until 4:05 o'clock, and the management didn't show good judgment in coping with the threatening weather. It wasn't any worse at 4 o'clock than at 4, and if the game had been started at the former hour it could have been finished before the rain came. With the Highlanders of late it has been a case of good days going to waste and trying to play on a bad one. That it was fair yesterday there would have been a record breaking crowd, for the Hilltops are drawing big these days. The Boston nine here one more day this season, and there will be a double header that day, but one of yesterday's postponements will have to be played in Boston.

The Detroits gained on the New Yorks yesterday, beating the White Sox in an abbreviated battle of five innings. The Washingtons took a fall out of the Athletics and the Clevelands hammered the Browns. The results:

Washington, 3; Philadelphia, 1.

Detroit, 4; Chicago, 2.

Cleveland, 12; St. Louis, 4.

PROVIDENCE, 2; JERSEY CITY, 1.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 3.—The Grays took another from the Skeeters to-day. The game was played in a drizzling rain. Steele and Manser faced the slab, the Providence twirler having the better of the contest. The winning run came in the seventh, when with Arndt on third Rock drove a fly into left field. Hanford threw to Butler, but the ball bounded over the Jersey catcher's head and Arndt counted. The score:

GIANTS-HIGHLANDERS.

Farrell Says Post Season Series Still Is in Abeyance.

Frank Farrell, chief mogul of the Highlanders, returned yesterday from Chicago where he had a conference with John T. Brush, the New York National League magnate, on the proposed post season series between the Highlanders and Giants. Farrell reports that the series has not yet been arranged.

"I told Mr. Brush that our club had been in New York for eight years now," said the Highland chief, "that I thought the time was ripe for a series, that the fans seemed to want it and that I was willing to play. Mr. Brush received me courteously and showed no disposition to impose conditions or to evade the issue.

"He said his health had been poor, but was much better and that he expected to be in New York next week. He wants to look over conditions here, he said, before consenting to the games. I didn't stipulate that a series for other years would have to be agreed to and he hasn't been thinking of doing so. Until Mr. Brush gets here and decides what he wants to do the question is in abeyance."

YACHTS ON GRAVESEND BAY.

Tenth Race to Count on the Championship of These Waters.

In a strong breeze from the south the tenth race to count on the yacht racing championship of Gravesend Bay was sailed under the jurisdiction of the Brooklyn Yacht Club yesterday. As the date came in the middle of the race week of the Atlantic Yacht Club (Commodore L. Boston Chapman of the Brooklyn organization), decided to start the contest off the Brooklyn club. The move not only allowed the racing fleet on Gravesend Bay an opportunity of witnessing the contest without any trouble but it also gave the timing gathered at the river sports of the Sea Gate club a chance to see the yachts on their course.

Although there was only a small fleet, the racing was as interesting as any other contest seen on the water this year. The regatta committee made up of H. T. Breton, chairman, Lewis Wunder, Isaac Dougherty and Dr. C. A. Stimson, decided to send the larger craft around a course made up of a broad reach from the starting line off Sea Gate to a mark off Bensonhurst, a gybe, followed by another broad reach to Fort Hamilton, a reach on the most back to Sea Gate and a long and a short beat across the channel to Sea Gate and a broad reach home.

The one design class of the Bellport Bay Yacht Club was the first division to get away. The boats sailed a shorter course, heading directly to Sea Gate from Fort Hamilton. The division was won by W. D. Walton's Mikado. Lady Claire finished second, but was protested by Lady Eileen, No. 2. Decision was given to the regatta committee.

There was also a protest in the Q class, which sailed over the long outside course. The winner of the division was Gryphon, the property of Lloyd S. Noble. Mona Joy finished second but was protested by Spider. As with the protest in the Bellport Bay division, the committee here not recognized the foul rule, and all scores stand. At the end of the first round the times were: Gryphon, 3:42:32, Spider, 3:43:4, Mona Joy, 3:44:30, Little Rhody II., 3:44:35 and Florence, 3:49:34.

The disappearance of several of the Long Island Sound yachts from the N class fleet of national interest to the Hudson, coming down on the Sea Gate course during the first round, Scylla, one of the starting boats, was leading. The Bonnemer carried her rig and had to give up the contest. Drena was the first to the committee, being timed at 4:02:35. Then came Blue Bill, 4:04:30; M. and F. Kelpie and Nereid at 4:07:48. Going to windward on the second round, Drena increased her lead and won by 3 minutes 27 seconds from Blue Bill. The summary:
