FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

MONDAY, September 5.

To-day was the last of a triple holiday for the Stock Exchange and the other important markets in this country. It was a dull day for American securities in London, and the few transactions that occurred were at only fractional changes and confined mostly to Canadian rails, Kaffirs and Russian bonds at more steady prices occupied most of the time of the exchange there.

There was £750,000 gold available and of this the Bank of England secured half. The remainder went to India and the Continent. Cons is closed at 80⅞ for money and 80 9-16 for account. London quotations for American securities were:

COIN BOTH QUEER AND "QUEER"

VIEWED BY NUMISMATISTS IN CONVENTION HERE.

Famous American Collections Displayed—Victorian Decorations From Pawnshops—Some Ancient Chinese Spearheads and a "Lucky C" Medal of 1860.

The 1910 convention of the American Numismatic Association opened yesterday. About fifty out of town members from all over the United States and Canada have registered, and many more are expected. The afternoon was given over mostly to the arrangement of the exhibits in showcases which will be displayed all week in the American Numismatic Society building at 156th street near Broadway.

On the main floor of the building are exhibits of a part of the society's collection of medals. Among them are a Great George garter, an undress garter of the Order of the Garter with the legend "Honi Soit Qui Mal y Pense," two Victoria crosses, and a New Zealand cross, of which only twenty were issued.

Altogether the main floor holds a collection of gorgeous decorations that would make a general of a Central American army weep for envy. A member of the association said that many such medals are picked up in the pawnshops of Europe. He said that not long ago he had bought for $2.50 in a Buffalo pawnshop a Victorian decoration given in the Abyssinian campaign. The decoration had nine bars, meaning that the recipient had saved nine lives.

Upstairs in the galleries are arranged the collections of the members of the Numismatic Association, ranging from the most ancient coins down to those of the present day. Among the collections shown were selections from the Titcomb collection of Confederate money, comprising 2,200 specimens. Other currency of civil war interest was encased postage stamps owned by Ben G. Green of Chicago. This fractional currency was merely postage stamps ranging in value through 1, 3, 5, 10, 12, 24, 30 and 90 cents, encased in a little round brass covering to preserve the stamp. On the back little advertisements were printed, the front was covered with isinglass. The patent on this little invention was taken out by J. Gault, 1 Park place, this city, on August 12, 1862. The coins disappeared from circulation about 1871.

Another collection of interest is that of B. H. Collins of Washington, D. C. It is a complete collection of United States cents issued from 1793 to 1857 and is the most famous of its kind. A strange thing about coin collecting is that copper becomes more valuable than either gold or silver, being less durable. Coppers dug out of the ground or which have been exposed to the elements are worthless for such collections as that of Mr. Collins. A collector said that the oldest cents of the Collins sort were only such as might have been put away by somebody's grandmother in a pill box.

There are thousands of other interesting coins in the collections, such as Chinese spearhead money, razor cash, dating back 600 years B. C., and Japanese slugs. The last named are oval bars of silver which passed from one firm, say the House of God, to another firm, perhaps the Sons of God, as checks. On them are what are known as chop marks, which are the indorsement of the different houses receiving them.

H. O. Granberg of Oshkosh, Wis., has the greatest collection of privately issued gold coins in the United States. In one of the collections is a $50 gold slug issued by the United States assay office in San Francisco in 1852 in the gold rush days. There are also ancient Grecian and Roman coins and a collection of 150 gold ducats, mostly of the ancient German principalities.

Of more recent interest is a collection of anti-free silver burlesque coins. One of them is a huge aluminum "coin" three inches in diameter. Under "In God We Trust" the legend reads "For the Other 47 Cents." Between is a caricature of William J. Bryan. Another "coin" reads "In Bryan We Trust," "Free Silver," "One Dam." Then there is a "Lucky C" medal struck off last year by a coin dealer of New York. It reads somewhat as follows:

The Lucky Letter of the Year
Anniversary of Hudson's Discovery
C. Anniversary of Clermont
Cortlas Conquers the Aztec
Cook Discovers the North Pole
Their Flag Flings Free From C to C

FRENCH EXPORTERS COMPLAIN.

Dissatisfaction Due to Misunderstanding of Our Consular Regulations.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. Officers of the State and Treasury departments are at a loss to explain the reported dissatisfaction among French exporters with the consular regulation requiring that when woollens or textiles are shipped to the United States samples should be filed in the consulate with the invoice of the goods. In recent years this regulation was not enforced and as a result there has been difficulty in ascertaining the value of the goods shipped to the United States.

Consular officers were recently instructed that the regulation must be enforced. As it was desired to impose no onerous burden on shippers the old regulation was amended to minimize the trouble to the shipper. Where formerly three samples were required of each piece of goods shipped, the samples to be not less than about five by seven inches in size, the amended regulations require only two samples, and these only of each type of goods and not of each piece or pattern as heretofore. The samples also are to be much smaller, two by three inches for fancy goods and four by three inches for staple goods.

Samples are required only of goods sold by meter or yard and are not required of figured cloths made up in set patterns, which cannot be sampled without spoiling the whole pattern, such as tablecloths, napkins, &c., nor for shipments of one meter (yard) or less in length.

A report seems to have gained ground in France and Great Britain that one sample of each piece of cloth may be required for each city in the United States. This it was said is incorrect. It might happen that an exporter would make shipments of the same cloth to two or three American ports, in which case an additional sample for each of these ports would be necessary. However it was explained that inasmuch as all the woollens and textiles imported into the United States are entered at a very limited number of ports this will not materially increase the number of samples to be furnished.

ENGINEERS FEAR WAGE CUT.

Freight Drivers From Eastern Roads Are to Confer Here This Month.

It is expected that representatives of locomotive engineers from all the roads running into New York will meet in New York late this month to agree on a standard rate of wages on the freight engines. They fear that the railroads in making their freight rates conform with the rulings of the Interstate Commerce Commission may try to cut wages. The engineers believe there will be no trouble, that the companies will be willing to strain a point to avoid it.

The adjustment committee of the New York Central engineers, which has been at the Broadway Central Hotel conferring about freight rates, left the city yesterday but is expected back in a day or two.

NEWBURGH REPUBLICAN RALLY

Mass Meeting Addressed by Dr. Lyman Abbott and Senator Davenport.

NEWBURGH, Sept. 5. The return of former Governor B. B. Odell, Jr., from Europe did not prevent the regular Republican organization of Newburgh from holding a political rally here to-day. This organization has been formed principally to wrest control from Odell in this city. Senator John B. Rose of this district is at the head of the movement.

The speakers at the mass meeting to-day were Dr. Lyman Abbott, editor of Outlook, and State Senator Frederick M. Davenport of Oneida county, a colleague of Senator Rose. Senator Davenport made an earnest appeal for direct primaries and the restoration of the Rose party organization and true leadership. Senator Davenport attributed all of the insurgency in American politics to the interference of party bosses.

Dr. Lyman Abbott criticised William Barnes Jr. of Albany for his attack on Col. Roosevelt relative to the appointment of Federal Judges.

APPLE CROP A FAILURE.

Yield in the Mohawk Valley and Adjacent Counties Smallest in Years.

UTICA, Sept. 5. One of the smallest apple crops in many years will be harvested in the Mohawk Valley and adjacent counties this fall. In most cases the apple trees are barren of fruit, and where there has been a partial yield the apples are so small and wormeaten as to be hardly worth the picking. The crop in other years has given many hundreds of persons employment in the cider mills, but this fall very few of these mills will be in operation.

William Jackson, who owns an apple orchard of 500 acres in the southern part of Oneida county, figures that he will harvest less than one bushel to the acre. The late spring frosts caused this falling off of the crop. The pears and potatoes also suffered severely from the frosts.

UNIONS FOR BEVERIDGE.

Booklet Telling Senator's Friendly Record Written for Circulation.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 5. A booklet written by Theodore Perry of Indianapolis Typographical Union No. 1, setting forth and approving the attitude of Senator Beveridge toward labor, will soon be off the press and ready for circulation.

Mr. Perry said that the Republican State committee would distribute a number of the pamphlets and that it was probable that he and several other labor union men associated with him would send a number of them to labor union centres in the State.
