GIANTS BEAT CUBS BY A RUN

DEVORE SCORES IT ON DOYLE'S TIMELY SINGLE.

New Yorks Take Early Lead, but the Fans Have a Scare—Brooklyns and Cardinals Break Even in Double Header—Pittsburg and Cincinnati Succeed.

The Giants made it three out of four in their final series with the Cubs yesterday, but in the entire series between those teams the Chicagos captured fourteen games and lost eight. As the Pittsburgs also scored a triumph in Philadelphia there still is a tie for second place. Brooklyn and St. Louis each won a ball at Washington Park, and Cincinnati, by taking Boston into camp, again reached the .500 mark. The results:

New York, 6; Chicago, 5.
Brooklyn, 4; St. Louis, 3—First game.
St. Louis, 4; Brooklyn, 2—Second game.
Pittsburg, 6; Philadelphia, 1.
Cincinnati, 4; Boston, 2.

NEW YORK (N. L.), 6, CHICAGO (N. L.), 5.

The Giants will not win the pennant this year, but they enjoy the distinction of having captured three out of four games from the Cubs in the final series that ended yesterday. Their victory at the Polo Grounds yesterday was sensationally achieved. It was a game replete with exciting situations, and when Devore scooted home with the deciding run in the last inning more than 15,000 spectators went wild with delight. Larry Doyle made the hit that scored Devore and incidentally redeemed himself in the estimation of the fans who had scored him rather severely for a couple of misplays that might have resulted in disaster.

Mathewson and Brown, old rivals, were pitted against each other and the former came out ahead. But neither displayed the invincible form of days gone by. Brown was an easy mark in the first inning and the Giants rolled up four runs. After he had made two wild throws on bunted balls in the sixth inning he gave way to Weaver, a new Cub, who held the home team in check until the crucial moment arrived.

Mathewson had the Chicagos on the hip until the eighth inning, when they began to solve his curves. They batted him heavily too and came within an ace of getting away with the game, but a stupid bit of base running by Steinfeldt and a dazzling throw by Murray resulted disastrously for the visitors. The weather was threatening all the afternoon until the Giants had won. Then the sun came out gloriously.

Matty struck out Evers and Sheckard as a starter, but Hofman shot a lucky single to right which bounded just out of Doyle's clutches. Hofman stole second and cantered to third on a wild pitch, where he remained, as Capt. Chance grounded to the New York pitcher.

The Giants went at Miner Brown in the last half with much ferocity. Devore singled to right and Doyle's solid well got away from Steinfeldt, who was looking for a bunt. Brown handed a base on balls to Snodgrass and the bags were covered. Murray pounded a vicious liner that bounded off Brown's leg and Devore made the first run. On Bridwell's rap to Chance Doyle was shot off at the plate, but Snodgrass scored the second run when Devlin grounded to Evers. Then Merkle lifted a pretty two bagger over Steinfeldt's head, scoring Murray and Bridwell and causing much joy among the 15,000 fans. Meyers retired the side on a grass cutter which Tinker deftly handled.

With one down in Chicago's second Schulte clouted the ball far over Snodgrass's head for an easy three bagger and scored on Tinker's hot base hit to centre. Then Devlin scooped a crashing grounder from Kling's bat, shot it to Doyle, who in turn doubled up the batsman at first in brilliant style. The Giants went out in quick order in their half, Brown catching a deadly liner from Devore, a play that was rapturously applauded.

The New Yorks chalked up another run in the third, which was due to Murray's energy. The redtopped right fielder unhooked a fine two bagger along the left foul line and Bridwell got four balls. Murray stole third and kept on to the plate as Steinfeldt muffed Kling's throw. Then Devlin and Merkle were easy victims.

The Cubs were stowed away in rapid succession in the fourth, Merkle's catch of Devlin's rather high throw off Chance bringing the rooters to their feet in the last half Matty singled to centre with one out, but was doubled up with Devore on the latter's crack to Steinfeldt, which got around to Chance, with Evers as the middleman, a very fast play.

After Meyers had collared Schulte's foul in the fifth, Tinker beat out a bunt, his sixth consecutive safe hit, but he remained glued to Chance's corner as Devlin made a superb catch of Kling's long foul in left field and Brown struck out. The Giants couldn't get a man on first in their turn, Doyle grounding to Evers, Snodgrass lining one into Schulte's mitt and Murray being stopped by Steinfeldt's great handling of his sharp roller.

Two Cubs were smothered when Hofman made a puny single to right in the sixth. Chance's grounder was juggled by Bridwell, but no harm came of it as Steinfeldt forced Chance on a quick drive to Bridwell. The New Yorks had two men left in the last half. Bridwell dropped a single in short right and Devlin bunted. Brown threw low to Bridwell at second and both runners were safe. Merkle also bunted and Brown, high in the clouds, threw wide to Chance. Evers picked the ball up, threw to Tinker and the latter ran Snodgrass down near third, where Bridwell was anchored, while Merkle kept on to second. Meyers popped fluted to Sheckard in short left and Matty's grounder was gobbled by Evers, who played deep and made a beautiful play.

Both teams were blanked in the seventh, although each got a man to the initial corner. Then the Windy City bear cats began to solve Mathewson in the eighth, and the crowd became intensely worried. Evers flied to Devore and Sheckard punched a single to right. He skipped to second on Hofman's out, which was a twisting grounder to Mathewson, and raced to the plate when Doyle made an excusable fumble of Chance's cannon shot. Chance was under way when Steinfeldt put all his weight into a swing that sent the ball hurtling against the grand stand in right field. As a result the Cubs leader reached third and Steinfeldt got a two bagger.

Up came Schulte, the big hitter, and hammered the ball far up into the top of the right field structure. It was a foul by a yard and the crowd roared for joy. But Schulte connected a moment later and drove a long single in the same direction. Chance scored, and Steinfeldt forgetting that two were out jogged leisurely behind him. Murray made a perfect throw to Bridwell, however, and nailed Schulte, who was trying to stretch his hit into a double. The latter was retired a fraction of a second, it seemed, before Steinfeldt reached the plate, so that Judge Klem refused to allow his run.

Weaver was full of steam in New York's half, and the Giants fell before him so readily that the Cubs were again at the bat before the crowd had recovered from the exciting incidents of the previous inning.

Tinker began with a solid welt straight at Doyle, who fumbled, and the fickle fans jeered. Kling made a mighty swipe at one of Matty's slow balls and knocked it on a line to right centre. Snodgrass got his finger tips on the flying leather and fell. The ball rolled clear to the fence and Kling scored a home run, with Tinker counting ahead of him.

The score was tied then and the Cubs were in rare good humor. Weaver flied to Devore and Evers fouled to Meyers. Sheckard jumped a bit through the box but when he tried to steal Meyers stopped him with a magnificent throw.

Two Giants succumbed to Weaver's swift curves in the last half after which Devore rapped one at Steinfeldt that went as a lucky scratch. The little New Yorker promptly made a sensational steal of second, and the crowd forgetting all about Doyle's errors begged him to win the game. The young Chicago pitcher as he heard the volcanic roar from the wild eyed fans took his time. He got two strikes on Doyle and then pitched a fast one over the saucer. Doyle's bat hit the seam and the ball twisted past Tinker, while Devore sprinting at top speed scored the necessary tally. The crowd cheered the home team to the echo and went home delighted with the result. The score:

BROOKLYN, 4, ST. LOUIS (N. L.), 3.—FIRST GAME.

An even break was the result of the double header between the Brooklyns and St. Louis Cardinals at Washington Park yesterday. The first contest was a pitchers' battle between Knetzer and Steele and the deciding run was not scored until the tenth inning. The second encounter was called at the end of the eighth inning, with the score 4 to 2 in favor of Brosnahan's young men, the Brooklyns finding Harmon's curves a puzzling proposition all the way.

The Cardinals began the first game by scoring two runs on a base on balls to Huggins, Ellis's two bagger and Mowrey's single. They garnered another run in the third on Huggins's scratch, an error by Hummel and Mowrey's sacrifice bunt, on which Huggins ran all the way home from second.

Dahlen's men tied the score in the sixth with three runs produced by Daubert's single, a force, Hummel's three bagger, an error by Mowrey and McElveen's single. In the tenth Daubert got around when Steele hit him, which was followed by a stolen base and two passed balls by Phelps.

Brooklyn lost the second game because Harmon pitched steady ball and kept the hits scattered. Brosnahan's players, on the other hand, connected with Bell's curves when singles were needed, and securing an early advantage they were never in danger. The home team made a weak rally in the eighth, but it netted only one run. The score:

INTERCITY BASEBALL.

A Washington Team Wins From New York and Philadelphia.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Cornell Company won a double header to-day, and thereby landed an intercity baseball series in which New York, Philadelphia and Washington clubs competed. The Washington team won all its games in the series. The St. Ignatius, Philadelphia, was beaten first, 4 to 1, and in the second game the St. Nicholas club of New York was defeated, 17 to 2.

Owing to the good pitching of Muldowney Cornell Company only made five hits in the first contest, but in the New York game the paperhangers fell on Finday's shoots for sixteen safe swats. Priest led at the bat with two home runs and a triple out of three times at the plate. Neither club played good ball in the field in the New York-Washington game, but Erhard and Compton did the best for the Gotham aggregation.

CHICAGO (A. L.), 8, PHILADELPHIA (A. L.), 4.—FIRST GAME.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24. The White Sox defeated the champion Athletics twice this afternoon. Philadelphia should have won both games, but stupid base running and indifferent playing killed what chances they may have had. Dygert was not hit particularly hard in the first game, but the White Sox bunched their hits together with the visitors' errors and won easily. Krause was hit freely in the second contest. He managed to keep the bingles pretty well scattered, however, and on fifteen safe hits the locals made but three runs. The scores:
