IN THE FOOTBALL WORLD

WORK OF DIFFERENT TEAMS IN SCORING LINE.

Pennsylvania, Indians and Penn State All Over the Hundred Mark in Total Points—Noted Gridiron Names on This Year's Squads—The Practice.

The Pennsylvania football team has done liberal scoring since it started the season with a defeat, and though it is the only one of the more prominent group with a mark of the debit side of the ledger it is way up in scoring, ahead of Harvard, Yale, Princeton or Cornell. One reason for this is that it has played more games than any of the four named, but in single games the Quakers have made bigger scores than any of the others named except Cornell. The Quakers have gone more than 100 points, a total exceeded only by the Indians and Pennsylvania State.

The Indians are piling up points by leaps and bounds. They had 101 points for their first five games, this not including the game booked for yesterday with Gettysburg. As Syracuse, then Princeton, come next on Carlisle's schedule, we shall soon have a more satisfactory idea of how strong is the Carlisle offence when pitted against a first class defence. The Indians' defence also will be tested, but so far it has been able to preserve a clean slate.

Harvard's offence has produced good results. In the matter of offence and defence combined the Crimson and the Indians have done the most consistent work. Harvard has the respectable total of 75 points for three games and hasn't been in the slightest danger of being scored on, except by the always present danger of a goal from the field. The Cambridge men have been noticeably alert in taking advantage of opponents' errors. Its a squad possessing no little amount of football sense, a quality in which Yale always is way up.

Yale's scores have been produced on a descending scale. The first game was the best for points, although there was a slight improvement between the Syracuse and the Holy Cross games. The attack evidently is coming along slowly, which is bound to be the case more or less when a team is in the stage of trying out many men. There doubtless will be less of that from now on, enabling the team perhaps to crystallize for a better coordinated offence. While the points made against Yale were from field goals, nevertheless the defence hardly has been as consistent as Harvard's or Princeton's, certainly not as good as the former's.

Princeton excels Yale by three in total points, and the two, unless there has been a great difference in the mettle of their opponents, are about on a par in ability at this stage. Besides Harvard, Princeton, Cornell and the Indians teams not scored on are Lafayette, Andover, whose work promises much, Amherst, Brown, Dartmouth, West Point, Annapolis, Yale freshmen, Rutgers, Pittsburg, Georgetown and Lehigh. As Lafayette and Princeton meet this week one of the two is likely to be scored on for the first time.

The Army has more points in one game than the Navy in two. The Rutgers team, while it hasn't been scored on, hasn't been able to score. It has the unique distinction of two scoreless games. Stevens, Villanova and Tufts are other teams that have yet to feel the thrill of a score. In the West Minnesota is a heavy scoring eleven with 93 points in two games.

Total scores to date follow:

Harvard, 75, 0 (three games); Yale, 65, 6 (four games); Princeton, 56, 0 (three games); Penn State, 102, 5 (five games); Cornell, 74, 0 (three games); Army, 29, 0 (one game); Navy, 16, 0 (two games); Dartmouth, 24, 0 (two games); Brown, 56, 0 (three games); Syracuse, 12, 0 (two games); Carlisle, 101, 0 (five games); Pennsylvania State, 119, 0 (two games); Lehigh, 10, 0 (two games); Amherst, 20, 0 (three games); Wesleyan, 16, 3 (three games); Williams, 29, 21 (three games); Lafayette, 17, 0 (three games); Georgetown, 12, 0 (two games); Dickinson, 42, 0 (two games); Holy Cross, 6, 12 (one game); Brown, 40, 3 (three games); Stevens, 0, 18 (two games); N. Y. U., 0, 12 (one game); Rutgers, 0, 0 (two games); Tufts, 0, 6 (three games); Swarthmore, 47, 6 (two games); Pittsburg, 34, 0 (two games); Trinity, 46, 5 (two games); Colgate, 0, 0 (one game); Union, 17, 3 (two games); Villanova, 0, 12 (two games); Annapolis, 8, 15 (two games); Yale freshmen, 29, 0 (two games); Minnesota, 81, 0 (two games); Michigan, 53 (one game); Chicago, 0, 6 (one game); Pennsylvania freshmen, 6, 0 (one game); Dartmouth freshmen, 11, 0 (one game); Andover, 26, 0 (five games); Exeter, 3, 12 (five games).

The Wallers in Princeton football seem to be almost as numerous as were the Poes. There are a couple on the present freshman team. That makes four on the Tiger squad for years. Only last year Tom Waller was guard on the varsity eleven, and he never experienced the pleasurable sensation of a victory over Yale. While the present Wallers be likewise disappointed Princeton also has a Phillips on the freshman team. There was a mighty good centre to that name a few years ago.

Yale has on the varsity squad this year a Philbin, brother of the famous Steve, and a Camp, whom everybody knows is a son of Walter. The game is getting into two when takes in a generation. On the Yale freshman team is a Cooney. He'll be a big help to Eliot if he's as good as Carroll was. There's a Wendell on the Harvard varsity squad, a brother of Jack, a crack halfback of recent years.

The Indians have a Vizedom, a tackle sharpe enough to go back ten years to name her will what a star lineman the father, Wheeler's, was. Playing on the Navy squad is a Douglas. His predecessor of that name was on Hobson's eleven on Navy eleven, and he played three years ago. Colleseple is playing end at West Point. He's the second one to play end for the Army. If memory is right the first Gillespie was captain of the West Point team.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 11.—The Harvard football players were a grimly persisting lot when they came on the field at the end of practice this afternoon. The big team has been through its hard scrimmage work of the season. They were driven at a stiff pace, both Team A and Team B being in scrimmages with the second. Team A was at it for about twenty minutes, and in that time were slammed repeatedly by the second team for scores that not only brought three touchdowns, but made life a burden for the second team.

It was straight, sharp football without any ornate frills. Cornelius Wendell and P. Smith made the touchdowns, the last named making his first appearance on the team, while the other two got their by hitting the best the second team could do was to make one first down. Team B and the second team had a close and spirited contest, the make-up of Team B and Team A:

Teams A and B then had a scrimmage in which there was nothing but kicking. Felton and T. Pennington did the kicking. The latter's injured knee is doing very well.

Corbett's boils did not prevent him from taking part in a somewhat original preliminary drill consisting of being into the dummy to get practice in putting an opponent out of commission. The whole squad spent some time at this. Wiggle-worth and Perkins were not in the scrimmage and H. Leslie, who is limping, was not in uniform. Besides Corbett, Long, Johnson and Bush, who have been slightly hurt, took part in signal practice. Altogether it was a cheerful afternoon.

President Lowell has declared a holiday for to-morrow, Columbus Day, and all lectures and recitations will be suspended. This is the first time Columbus Day has been made a holiday at Harvard and football will go on undisturbed. The second team plays Andover here to-morrow, while the freshmen go to St. Marks and play their first game. There are several from-the-men on the 1914 brigade.

New Haven, Oct. 11.—More scoring was done to-day in the practice of the Yale varsity squad than in any practice game since the season opened. There were two scores by the varsity and two scores by the second team.

The varsity scores were made by Pollion and Reilly. Pollion scored on a fake field goal after a series of line bucks and Reilly got his touchdown after a long and spectacular run around the end. The second team's scores were made by Ellis and Hinkle. Ellis got his touchdown on a long run around the end, and Hinkle made his score on a long run through the line. The second team had the ball on the varsity's five yard line when the time for the game was up.

Coach Fisk's men showed a good deal of ginger in the work, and it looked as if the second team had its work cut out to keep the varsity from scoring. The second team's defence was not strong against the varsity's attack, but it was much better than it was last week against the first team. The second team's attack was not strong, but it showed more life than it did last week against the varsity
