Other Big Teams Get Through the Mid-Fall Rush, but It Was a Tear Thing for Princeton, Harvard and Yale, Including the Last Two.

Comparative scores sometimes do show Yale beat Fordham by so and that Princeton beat Lafayette. Therefore when Yale and the Tigers met yesterday a defeat for the Blue was in order. And Yale got it, too. The New Haven players were outplayed on Yale Field. By [illegible] a Princeton team plainly superior. Hard luck was away the winner for us. The Tigers got out of a small hole to beat the Lafayette by a goal from the field. Apparently Lafayette is a tough one.

Pennsylvania had an inning of all with Brown last either team is nothing among or have to anything to brown. Harvard didn't play against quite as badly as it did Williams. [illegible] enough. Dartmouth [illegible] Williams and the results 7 to 0. [illegible] made a touchdown and fast [illegible] making the only touchdown. Yale [illegible] and Fordham have not played.

Brown allowed Yale Indians [illegible] to the Bears of the Yale [illegible] against Yale. The Yale defeated Brown [illegible] and Syracuse. Brown [illegible] and Rutgers [illegible] Brown.

HARVARD DEFEATS AMHERST

Roberts, of Visiting Team, Has an Ankle Broken in the Game.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 15.—In beating Amherst 17 to 0 this afternoon Harvard not only had the worst scare she has had this year but also played splendid football. The Harvard defence was splendid, and the offence tore holes in their opponents' lines at will until the last quarter, when substitutes were in every position but one.

Wind, rain and lightning were an accompaniment to the fray, and soon after the start of the game lightning struck Harvard. Roberts, of Amherst, blocked a kick, scooped the ball and carried it to Harvard's 2 yard line. But the crimson met that unexpected emergency heroically. Three times the Amherst backs pounded the line, and three times they ran into a band of steel. That was Amherst's only chance, and the Purple never gained a first down.

Roberts was badly hurt in the play when he took the ball. His ankle was broken. He is one of Amherst's best men, and it was thought he was without the services of Campbell and Shiel, two other regulars. Still, Amherst was no match for Harvard in running back kicks, interfering for the runner, sharp dashes through the big holes, quick charging and fast running under punts, and deadly tackling by the ends. Smith and Douglas were Harvard's stars, while Amherst and Worrell were the performers in the backfield and the whole first string line was together, effectively charging.

Roberts blocked Corbett's punt on Harvard's 35 yard line; this failure of the Harvard line to hold was the only weakness displayed by the crimson in the game. Harvard blocked two kicks on Amherst, so that in protecting that punter the crimson was the better. Morrison hailed Roberts with a low tackle through Roberts is a crack sprinter. Amherst had no resourcefulness on attack, and straight slams on both sides of the line were stopped dead.

The ball went to Harvard on downs and Corbett punted out to the 20 yard line, a dands kick under trying circumstances. Harvard got the ball in midfield on a kick and Corbett and Morrison ripped through a weak spot in Amherst's left wing. They went yards every clip until Morrison went over for a touchdown and Withington kicked the goal.

Amherst's only hope of a score was to kick Yand recover the ball on a fumble, but Amherst never kicked until the third down, trying rushes on the first two and being beaten back every time. A twenty-five yard dash by Corbett, then ten more by the same player were followed by a touchdown in the second quarter. Morrison took the ball over the line by a straight buck. The goal was kicked, making the score 14 to 0.

There was a lot of punting in the third period until Wendell began to pierce the opposition with bull rushes. An offside penalty checked Harvard, but from the 25 yard line a forward pass to I. Smith was carried over for a touchdown. A thirty yard flight by Graustein came before the period ended.

The fourth quarter was bloodless and Amherst put up a better defence against the substitutes. Harvard tried several forward passes, which were wild and incompleted, but might have scored, but for being offside near the goal line. The news of Yale's defeat was received without any marked evidence of sorrow.

PRINCETON'S CLOSE CALL.

Just Able to Defeat Lafayette in Hard Fought Game.

EASTON, Oct. 15.—Princeton won in a tremendous football battle with Lafayette on Marshall Field this afternoon by a score of 3 to 0. Pendleton, kicking a field goal from the 25 yard line in the fourth quarter of the game with but five minutes more of play left. For the first half of the contest Lafayette outplayed Princeton but with the opening of the second half misfortune came. Capt. Forsman was injured and O'Brien took his place at centre. O'Brien is a good player, but his passes were bad, the effect being that Lafayette frequently lost ground. Princeton appeared to gain strength and fortune favored her. Lafayette had stopped Pendleton's attempts to run around the ends repeatedly, but toward the last weakened in this respect. It was this that enabled Princeton to get well into Lafayette's territory and finally to score.

The game opened with Lafayette kicking off, then came the trial of strength, Princeton being held punted. Lafayette could not gain and punted also. This was repeated. Bard and Boland each doing good work with the toe. Norris and Spiegel for Lafayette made small gains, and Lafayette made her first down.

The ball was on Princeton's 3 yard line when Lafayette fumbled and Princeton [illegible] the ball out safely. [illegible] Princeton's [illegible] Lafayette's [illegible] Princeton [illegible] Lafayette [illegible] Princeton [illegible] Lafayette [illegible] Princeton [illegible] Lafayette
