VANDERBILT HOLDS YALE.

Eight to Score by Rushing or Any Other Way.

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 22.—Poor judgment and slow playing of the Yale team against the Vanderbilt eleven this afternoon at Yale Field cost Yale scoring. Capt. Fred Daly's goals from drop kicks, not to mention a game near the mark. Three times the Yale team was held for downs within striking distance and once two yards to gain in the third period a Vanderbilt player scrouched the ball away from Daly.

Yale kicked off for Vale at the start and Vanderbilt kicked back the punt. His gain of eight yards was followed by short gains by Williams and then Williams and Reilly could make only short gains. Daly and Reilly smashing against the Vanderbilt line without making any impression. Eager was taken out. Deming came in and did some nice punting, one of the prettiest features of the game. He and Stevens held over the line and kept Williams had made a safety.

[illegible] decided, however, that it was [illegible]

Yale team played listlessly through [illegible] the men slipping all over the [illegible] field and seeming at a loss in the rain. [illegible] fourth period Yale was again held [illegible] within the 10 yard line. The [illegible] through the game and Daly's [illegible] goals from the field showed that [illegible] them for a dry day.

The right tackle for [illegible] was Oscar Noel, who was graduated [illegible] the Yale law school last year [illegible] captain of the Yale wrestling [illegible] winter. PENN MEETS A STRONG RIVAL.

State College Fights Hard in the Second Half, Score 10 to 0.

STATE COLLEGE, Oct. 22.—Pennsylvania [illegible] college to-day in the mind [illegible] Five of these points [illegible] the first period and five in [illegible] the second half. State outplayed the visitors, [illegible] their goal line crossed. Twice [illegible] to fight for the ball [illegible] their goal. State also defeated the latter part of the [illegible] fall from Penn on downs [illegible]

[illegible] that score was the result [illegible] Pickett. The field was very [illegible] slippery, therefore, [illegible] and fumbles were [illegible] on them, [illegible] there were none [illegible] unaccounted for the [illegible] Mills, who ran [illegible] yard line. Pickett [illegible] on the next play. [illegible] the ball and trying to get [illegible] pocket, picked up and ran [illegible] the goal without [illegible] failed to kick the [illegible]

[illegible] Penn's plays that started [illegible] were skipped [illegible] for thirty yards carrying [illegible] Then hammering [illegible]

ing by Sommer and Mercer got a first down on the 12 yard line. Scott made a forward pass to Mercer, who made a pretty catch and skipped over the line almost on the edge of the field. Coxens kicked out to Scott, but he failed to kick the goal.

In the second half Thayer replaced Scott and did the kicking. His work was not to be compared in any way to that of Scott and it was largely through his comparative weakness in kicking and his failure to get into the play on defence that Pennsylvania was kept busy in her own territory most of the time. The lineup:

Pennsylvania.	Positions.	State College.
Marks	Left end	Pickett
Seifert	Left guard	Johnson
Owens	Centre	Watson
Cramer	Right guard	Gelb
Irish	Right tackle	Weaver
Jennings	Right end	Marlow
Scott	Quarterback	Miller
Clements	Left halfback	Very
Sommer	Right halfback	Engle
Mercer	Fullback	Garrett

Score—Pennsylvania, 10; State College, 0. Touchdowns—Jennings, Mercer. Substitutions—Pennsylvania, Sprouses for Marks, Morris for Irish, Hauch for Scott, Thayer for Hauch, Barrington for Clements, Young for Sommer, State, Keller for Johnson, Barron for Harlow, Harlow for Barron. VERMONT SCORES FIRST.

But Cornell Awakened by This Comes Back Hard at Rivals.

ITHACA, Oct. 22.—Cornell got its second lesson in the evils of overconfidence this afternoon, having the goal line crossed for the first time this year by Vermont and finding the score 5 to 0 against it at the close of the first half. Then the Ithacans woke up with a rush, and scored two touchdowns and a field goal, the final score being 15 to 5.

With Quarterback Butler and Pitcher Right end out of the lineup the Ithacans did not present the strongest team they have, but the men felt Vermont would be easy picking. They were startled to find Vermont hammering at their very goal line inside of five minutes after a Cornell fumble. The Ithacans held them, however, on the 1 yard line, but got careless again.

With Cornell rushing the ball in Vermont territory Smith snapped a forward pass toward Blackwell. The latter was slow in getting to position and Big Daly, the Vermont end, caught it on the jump and hurled down the field for a touchdown. He ran seventy five yards, closely pursued by Blackwell, who made a vain effort to tackle him on the 5 yard line. Cornell started to get even then, but was held scoreless the first half.

When the Ithacans came back in four minutes they rushed the ball down the field, aided by a thirty yard run by Smith. They then massed on centre for several plays and Simson took it over.

In the fourth period Bates and O'Connor bewildered the visitors by tackle plays, both halfbacks giving a splendid exhibition of darting through holes, making ten yards a time. Vermont stopped one of these advances on the 1 foot line, but Cornell started all over again and the second time Bates took it over. The Cornell team then latinned its way to the 25 yard line, where Vermont held, but Kerrich dropped back and scored with a drop kick. This ended the scoring.

Cornell's line in the second half charged better than at any time this year, but early in the game the right side played sluggishly. Blackwell at right end is not in Pitcher's class. The team also missed the zinger and fire of Quarterback Butler.

Vermont played a stubborn game throughout, three times holding Cornell inside of the 5 yard line. Capt. MacIntosh starred. For Cornell the backfield played brilliantly. The lineup:

Cornell.	Positions.	Vermont.
Lynch	Left end	Daly
Monk	Left tackle	Dare
Champion	Left guard	Waterman
Seagrave	Centre	Walker
Hale	Right guard	Buckmiller
Zeller	Right tackle	Squires
Blackwell	Right end	Dillon
Smith	Quarterback	Pierce
O'Connor	Left halfback	Sexton
Butler	Right halfback	MacIntosh
Simson	Fullback	Whalen

Score—Cornell, 15; Vermont, 5. Touchdowns—O'Connor, Bates, Daly. Goals from touchdowns—Simson, Eyrich. Goal from field—Eyrich. Substitutions—O'Rourke for Monk, Delano for Zeller, Teagle for Blackwell, White for O'Connor, Simons for Bates, Wilson for Simson, for Cornell; Lord for Waterman, O'Brien for MacIntosh, for Vermont. Referee—Jones. Umpire—Wright. Field judge—Scott. Head linesman—Baker. Time of periods—15 minutes.

GOOD GAME TO WESLEYAN.

Union Fights Hard, but is Beaten at Home, 6 to 0.

SCHENECTADY, Oct. 22.—On a muddy field Wesleyan defeated Union here to-day, 6 to 0. The game was filled with long runs and gains by trick plays. The forward pass was used for substantial gains by both teams. Wesleyan was heavier than Union, but the latter's speed made up for its lack of weight. Quarterback runs were responsible for big gains by Union.

The first period failed to show where either had the advantage. In the second period, with the ball on Union's 25 yard line, Wesleyan executed a forward pass and with a run over for a touchdown.

In the second half Union showed improvement in offence and also was strong on the defence. Penalties inflicted on Wesleyan and three successive forward passes by Union got the ball within striking distance of Wesleyan's goal. The Connecticut men held and Brown, Union's captain, tried a drop kick for goal. The ball went about a foot wide. The lineup:

Wesleyan.	Positions.	Union.
McCarthy	Left end	Illey
Mitchell	Left guard	Schoen
Ide	Centre	Vedder
Gillie	Right guard	Griffin
Bernhard	Right tackle	O'Connor

N. Y. U. NOT EXTENDED.

Fumbles by Stevens Account for Two Touchdowns for Locals.

New York University defeated its old rival Stevens yesterday on this field, 17 to 6. Although the game was not hard for New York the big score was due more to Stevens's fumbling of kicks than to any brilliant playing of the Violet team. The New York team gave an excellent exhibition of forward passing, in which both Vale and Crawford were conspicuous. Time and time again the New Yorkers gained twelve and fifteen yards with this play, and in one instance in a double pass to Yule, Scott and Wheeler gained at least twenty yards.

New York made much ground at the old style game. Murphy, in particular making two forty yard runs. Yule was effective in both at the line. He also punted for the home eleven and outkicked Howe every time. Wheeler and Crawford at the ends were quick in covering and at no time did they let the Stevens men get started.

No scoring was done in the first quarter. In the first part of the second period Yule tried a goal from placement, which failed. In the next play Stevens fumbled and Yule made a run through a broken field for a gain of thirty yards. This left New York on the Stevens 12 yard line. Elliffe, who took Moore's place at half in the beginning of the period, made it first down on the Stevens two yard line following two unsuccessful attempts by the other backs. Murphy smashed his way over the last chalk line, scoring for New York. Yule kicked an easy goal.

In the first quarter of the third quarter Harris caught a forward pass from Burfield and made a run for a touchdown. New York braced and once more forged ahead when Stevens fumbled an outside kick on the 20 yard line. Elliffe recovered it and crossed their goal line. Elliffe failed to catch the kickout and the score was 11 to 6.

Murphy was hurt and at this point Gorsch took his place at halfback. In the middle of the last quarter Stevens muffed a punt and Vesley got the leather and scored. Stevens made a desperate effort to score in the last part of the period but Yule's punts kept Stevens at a safe distance.

The lineup:

New York.	Positions.	Stevens.
Wheeler	Left end	Harris
Brennan	Left tackle	Ford
Rood	Centre	Sass
Markas	Right guard	White
Vesley	Right tackle	Pangburn
Crawford	Right end	Meyer
Hale	Quarterback	Burfield
Scott	Left halfback	Cooks
Murphy	Right halfback	Howe
Moore	Fullback	Kinke
Yule	Fullback	Howe

Score, New York, 17; Stevens, 6. Touchdowns—Murphy, Harris, Vesley. Goals from touchdowns—Yule, 2; Howe, 1. Referee—Williams. Umpire—Flanders. Field judge—Sendel. Linesman—Quill. Substitutes—New York, Booth for Crawford, Gorsch for Murphy, Kennedy for Gorsch, Schultze for McKay. HARVARD MEETS STIFF FIGHT

BROWN, MUCH IMPROVED, ALL THE CRIMSON WANTED.

Graustein's Long Run With Intercepted Forward Pass Just at Close of Game Affects Result Visitors Test the Crimson Very Thoroughly Indeed.

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 22.—Harvard finally ran into a real test of its strong eleven this afternoon and in a game in which the score of 12 to 0 in favor of Harvard is not a fair measure of the closeness of the battling defeated the Brown eleven. It was the best game of the season here and there were many anxious moments for the Harvard supporters before it became assured that Harvard would win.

Harvard didn't score her second touchdown until near the close of the game, and in the meantime had been hard pressed by the Brunonians. The latter improved vastly since they met Pennsylvania, went through Harvard as no other team has done and in the second half was on the verge of a touchdown. A series of forward passes and plunges swept the Crimson back rapidly and just as it looked as if Brown was about to score came the play that saved Harvard from a tie and which is deserving of a place in the annals of gridiron sensations.

Spracklin, the crack Brown quarterback, depended on a forward pass to land the ball across the line, but this time Harvard was alert, desperate in fact, and the ball shot into the arms of Graustein. Graustein is small, but a fast hard runner, and he was under headway as soon as the ball settled in his arms. He slipped by a couple of men and raced down the side line for the far distant goal. Not a Brown man could catch him. Half a dozen of them were laid out by intereferers and Graustein drew further away.

He reeled off the 100 yards for a touchdown through the rain and mud and every Harvard man in the stands rose yelling his head off. It was about the longest run ever made in the stadium and as it brought the score up to 12 points with not much more time to play it created as much relief as it did delight.

It was poor handling of the ball that defeated Brown, and although some said Harvard was lucky to win, a big part of this year's game is quickness in seizing opportunities. This was what Harvard did. The first touchdown being the outcome of a fumbled punt on Brown's part. In actual line play Brown held her own with Harvard except possibly on the ends. The Harvard ends were a more skilful lot in going down under punts and getting to their man.

From tackle to tackle Brown's line was far from as good as Harvard's. They didn't gain as much ground as Harvard, but that was because Harvard gained more in running back kicks and circling the ends than in gaining through the line. Brown ripped off as many plunges as the Crimson. High and T. McKay of Brown slipped through between Minot and B. McKay for numerous gains.

The tired the Harvard defence hard and Harvard could do no consistent gaining against Brown. Corbett and Graustein were stars for Harvard and back of the line, although all Harvard's backs did well as secondary defence. Harvard's handling of the wet ball was excellent.

Harvard was forced to punt soon after the game began and the slippery Spracklin ran back twenty five yards to show Harvard that she was up against the real thing. A moment later Corbett ran a punt back twenty yards and there was action every moment. Wendell tried an end run and was thrown for an eight yard loss. Corbett punted to Spracklin and Fisher hailed Spracklin in his tracks on Brown's 30 yard line. Wendell forced his way along for eighteen yards. Harvard was inside Brown's 20 yard line. Lewis tried to drop kick and missed it.

After Corbett had made a run of thirty yards to Brown's 12 yard station Brown held firmly and a forward pass didn't gain the required distance. It was Brown's ball on downs. Maride turned Harvard's left end for twenty five yards but before the first period ended.

Although had made a couple of plunges for twelve yards in the second period Brown was penalized for holding and B. McKay punted. Corbett punted back. The ball went over Spracklin's head, but he ran back for it and came forward for a net gain of fifteen yards. He made twelve more on a quarterback run, using a trick formation which fooled Harvard, before Harvard stopped the attack.

Harvard's first score came unexpectedly. Maride muffed a punt on Brown's 41 yard line and I. Smith fell on the ball. Harvard had a hard time taking the 41 yards but with a line plunge by Brown there came a shaft which drew the Brown defence over to the right. Corbett doubled up like a ball, jumped through the exposed spot in the left and crossed the line. Withington kicked the goal.

In the first quarter of the second half Corbett came to the rescue when Potter fumbled a punt on Spracklin's intercepted forward pass and went twenty five yards. B. McKay added nine on an end run and was stopped by Corbett's good tackle.

Harvard took no chance on a long drop kick. Potter doing the booting, and the Crimson recovered one of these on Brown's 15 yard line. Not an inch further could Harvard go and Lewis missed his second drop kick.

It was in the fourth quarter that the players ran wild and the Harvard goner. Spracklin made a fair catch on Brown's 30 yard line. High hit Harvard's right wing for twelve yards and High went around left end for eight. Three times in succession Brown made a first down to Adams nailed a forward pass for a twenty yard gain and the ball was on Harvard's 20 yard line. Up it went to the 15 yard line, where on the third down the fatal forward pass was tried.

Brown played quickly even after the game was gone and worked the forward pass a couple of times before there came an uncompleted one. A pretty good chance for Brown to score came when Spracklin sent an onside kick to Harvard's 35 yard line. The Brown man who was on the spot was slower than the Harvard man, however, that he kicked it before he could pick it up and it went out of bounds. Ashbaugh was the man. Before that he had done lots of good work at receiving the forward pass.

Brown worked the forward pass to better purpose than the Crimson. Harvard substitutes went in after the second score and one of them, Gardner, made the best long dash of the game, a long dashes. He burned the damp soil for twenty yards on a fake kick. Both sides used at least two punters and the Harvard men performed more consistently and steadily with the wet ball than their rivals. Harvard's tackling was surer. The lineup:

Harvard.	Positions.	Brown.
Lewis	Left end	Adams
B. McKay	Left tackle	Shatz
Minot	Left guard	Kulp
Huntington	Centre	Sisson
Fisher	Right guard	Goldberg
Withington	Right tackle	Smith

Berkeley and Blake All Square.

The Berkeley School football team played Blake School at Bronxville, N. Y., yesterday morning to a tie game, 0 to 0. Berkeley was on Blake's 5 yard line twice and should have won but for fumbles. For Berkeley Cox, McAleenan, McCarthy, Maxwell and Wagner played well. For Blake M. Mononcle and Donahue played the best. The lineup:

Trinity Fumbles, but Wins.

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 22.—In a soaking rain Norwich University to-day held Trinity to 6 points, showing great improvement over her last week's game with Wesleyan. In each of the first two periods Trinity reached the Vermonters's yard line, but could not hold the slippery ball.

In the third Norwich was twice thrown across her own goal line for safeties. An intercepted forward pass followed by two long runs gave the Hartford boys a touchdown but before time was called. Both teams lost much by fumbling and intercepted forward passes. Lee and Weed excelled for Norwich, Ramsdell and Hudson for Trinity.

SLIPPERY AT WEST POINT.

But the Army Wins Easily Enough From Lehigh at Football.

WEST POINT, Oct. 22.—With the field slippery and drizzling rain falling, making the handling of the ball difficult, the West Point team defeated Lehigh here to-day, 28 to 0. Lehigh could do nothing with the Army line, and only twice got the ball as far as the Army 30 yard line. Once Knox gave the cadets a fright when he got around left end and ran twenty five yards before Browne brought him down. Late in the fourth period Lehigh recovered a fumble on the Army's 20 yard line, but was unable to advance.

The Army ends were down under the punts in great style and many times recovered Dean's punts after Lehigh fumbled. The onside kick, too, was a great ground gainer for the Army to-day and the forward pass was worked for good gains. The visitors tried the delayed pass with fairly good results early in the game. Rouse, the Lehigh left end, was the star of their team and on the defence spoiled more West Point plays than any other man. Ignorbe and Date did work in punching through broken field that bordered on the spectacular.

The Army started scoring a few minutes after the game started. Dean kicked to Lehigh. Dobbins fumbled a delayed pass from Beard and Supies gathered in the ball and ran for a touchdown. Dean kicked the goal. In the second quarter Browne got around left end for a sixty five yard run and would have scored had not Heard raced after him and pulled him down from behind on the 1 yard mark. Supies went through centre on the next play. The balance of the Army's scores were the result of fumbles placing them in position to score.

The Lehigh football team and substitutes went to West Point on the Day Line steamer Robert Fulton. The large Day Line steamer Hendrick Hudson went to West Point to-day as a special for the game. This trip was in aid of the George Junior Republic of Freeville, N. Y. There was a delegation of citizens on board from the republic, including the president, district attorney, judges, etc., as well as an interesting exhibit of the work done at the republic. The lineup:

West Point.	Positions.	Lehigh.
Reed	Left end	Rouse
Date	Left tackle	Vela
Kanaler	Left guard	Reese
Veniel	Centre	Wylie
Kelly	Right guard	Harvig
Littlejohn	Right tackle	Black
