SUNDAY SCHOOL ATHLETICS

TOMPKINS AVENUE BOYS WIN POINT TROPHY.

Twenty-four Events Run Off in Thirteenth Regiment Armory With 500 Competitors—Mile Handicap Furnishes a Surprise for Scratch Man E. Herd, Jr.

The annual handicap meet of the Sunday School Athletic League of Brooklyn took place last night in the Thirteenth Regiment Armory, where the enormous programme of twenty-four events was run off. A few of these were closed to regimentals. In all about 500 boys of all ages competed and there were all sizes from big, strapping fellows to midgets hardly knee high. They were all keen on their respective competitions, but what absorbed most chief attention was the point trophy, and there was some great work done scrambling for the points. Almost from the start it was a close fight between Tompkins Avenue Congregational and Central Congregational, the former school finally winning by 29 points to 26 for their opponents. James Methodist Episcopal came third with 17 points and Wyckoff Heights Presbyterian a close fourth with 16.

WILL NEW YORK TRACKS TRY FOR PARI-MUTUELS?

James Butler, Interviewed in San Francisco, Says Jockey Club May Accept the System as a Compromise—Lottery Law Covering Point Not Yet Tested.

With the racing interests under the direction of the Jockey Club try to have the new Legislature at Albany look favorably upon a measure that will permit pari-mutuel betting on the New York tracks, because of reported statements to this effect by James Butler, president of the Empire City Racing Association, while in San Francisco, turfmen are busy discussing the chances for such a measure. Pari-mutuel machines have been installed at Juarez, Mexico, where Mr. Butler is financially interested, and so far they have worked well. This form of betting has saved racing in Kentucky and it will soon be in vogue throughout Canada, it is said. The Toronto and Montreal tracks have already decided to try the mutual machines and so far the bookmakers. As there has been a widespread outcry against the bookmaking element there seems to be an impression that the big men in American racing affairs are ready to turn to pari-mutuel betting, which governs speculation quite widely in France, Germany and Russia. Mr. Butler, after attending the Juarez races, recently visited California and incidentally accepted an invitation from Thomas H. Williams to see the horses run at Emeryville. He was interviewed the other day and was quoted as saying that the mutual system would be accepted by the racing interests in this State if it could be elected as a compromise solution of the present embarrassing situation here. When asked if the mutual system would not be a violation of the State lottery law Mr. Butler was quoted as saying that the lottery law as applied to mutual betting had never been tested in the courts. He stated further that he expected to see a solution of the betting problem in the East in the near future. Mr. Butler refused to admit, however, that steps had been taken to have a pari-mutuel bill introduced at Albany at the coming session of the Legislature. He predicted, though, that all of the New York tracks would race as usual next year.

The rumor will not down that an attempt will soon be made to revive racing in the State of New Jersey. The anti-bookmaking law passed at Trenton in 1908 which closed the Monmouth Park, Elizabeth, Linden, Gloucester and Guttenberg tracks, will become a dead letter in 1912, when new legislation will be necessary. It is commonly believed that at least one track may be opened before that time and that oral betting may be tried, inasmuch as it is claimed there is no law prohibiting individual bookies across the Hudson.

Charley Harvey, Owen Moran's manager, is anxious to hear something definite from Ad Wolgast regarding a night for the world's lightweight championship. Harvey sent this communication to THE SUN yesterday:

Moran is engaged to appear in vaudeville until the middle of February, but he will cancel his contract at any time if Wolgast will agree to fight me. I am willing to put $5,000 down as a side bet that Moran will agree to box all the way, twenty rounds, to a finish as soon as Wolgast is ready. Wolgast said recently he would fight on February 22, the anniversary of his victory over Battling Nelson. That suits Moran down to the ground. It is hard to believe that Wolgast cannot receive the use of his injured wrist before next March. He can fight in other ways than that of a boxer, so the footing that Wolgast is on and Moran is on makes it the easiest matter in the world to box at 147 pounds ringside, and I agree to run the division of the union if Wolgast is not afraid of him. I am willing to sign the papers on a [illegible] or [illegible] and I will also be sure of the coin. Moran has been [illegible] to box Wolgast for the lightweight championship, and is not afraid of him. Wolgast has [illegible] Nelson in twenty rounds, while Moran did the trick in eleven.

WEST POINT BEATS PENN STATE.

Game Tied and an Extra Five Minutes Played.

WEST POINT, Dec. 17. In a game that had ended in a tie and an extra five minutes played the Army defeated Penn State by a score of 21 to 15.

In the first half the visitors played almost entirely on the defense and with the score standing 15 to 6 at the intermission it looked as if the Army would have an easy victory. In the second half the tables were turned and the Pennsylvania boys put the cadets on the defensive and nearly overcome the lead until Hadden shot the goal winning the score as the game ended, out of the thirteen attempts from the foul line. Sutton made nine points for the Army, two of which came in the extra period, and won the game for the soldiers.

The lineup:

[illegible]

Goals from field: Sutton, 7; Hadden, 2; Young, 1. Goals from foul line: Sutton, 5; Hadden, 5; McIntyre, 2. Referee, Young. Umpire, Carmine. Time, 20 minutes.

GOAL IN LAST MINUTE.

Yale Beats N. Y. U. at Basketball by 14 to 12.

The Yale team played a very close game of basketball at University Heights last night with the New York University five, and only succeeded in beating them in the last minute of play, when with the score tied Goodwin of Yale made a pretty basket from the field, making the final score 14 to 12.

The game was in no way gentle, and frequently the players were forced back onto the spectators. The fouls were mostly technical ones, but both Phiessy of Yale and Czerniansky of New York were the out of the game for four personal fouls. Yale outweighed her opponents and this gave her the advantage when there was any backing.

Steensand of New York shot eight out of twelve fouls and one goal from the field, and it was he who played that made the score close as it was, although New York threw off the team work and took more chances than did Yale. For the first three minutes of play the ball was passed around the floor very rapidly, but no goals were made by either team. Goodwin started the shooting by making a basket, but in the next instant Steensand shot a foul.

Yale depended almost entirely on Goodwin for the goals, he going up to the mark by making five goals from field and two from the foul line. For some reason the New York players let up on the swing until the time was half gone, and the first basket for after that they made things even. The score at the end of the first half was 6 to 6 in New York's favor.

The second half opened with Steensand shot a foul, and Goodwin shot a beautiful goal from the middle of the floor, putting Yale in the lead. The score succeeded rapidly for three minutes, Yale having the advantage, and the game was Yale's for a time, although New York's tactics soon had the score tied. Yale then succeeded in getting ahead by a goal from the field. The score was then 10 to 10, and the game stood 12 to 12. In the last minute of play Goodwin made a goal from the field, and the game stood 14 to 12.

The lineup:

[illegible]

Goals from field: Goodwin, 6; Steensand, 4; Smith, 2; Czerniansky, Phiessy, Oliver, 1. Goals from foul: Steensand, 8; Goodwin, 2. Referee, Fletcher Columbia. Umpire, Quigley, Columbia. Time, 20 minutes.

COLUMBIA SWIMMERS WIN.

Visitors From Cornell Unable to Win a Single Event.

Columbia outclassed the Cornell swimming team in a dual meet in the remodeled Columbia pool in the Morningside Heights gymnasium last night, defeating the Ithacans by the score of 41 to 12. The Cornellians failed to win a single first place and did not even make a good contest in any race, excepting the 220 yard swim, which E. H. Schaffle, a Columbia freshman, won by three feet from S. Mace of Cornell. The Blue and White excelled at water polo also and beat the Ithacans by the score of 26 to 0.

The Columbia team got off to a wonderfully good start when it captured the relay race with more than twenty feet to spare. In the fifty yard swim Dunlevy got in the way of Waldmaier of Cornell and was set back from second to third place for the technical foul. Dinkelspiel won the race for Columbia. Waldmaier was twenty feet back of the leader when Dunlevy crowded over into his alley.

F. Coltrane, a Columbia freshman, won the 100 yard swim, Jones, freshman from Cornell, being second. Schaffle finished third. Time, 1:02 2-5.

E. Hefferer, Columbia, dived 80 feet 6 inches, Oliver, Columbia, second, and Schaffle, Columbia, third. Time, 1:12 2-5.

Mace, Cornell, second, S. Rogow, Columbia, third. Time, 3 minutes 17 seconds.
