FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

MONDAY, April 17.

The only matter that differentiated Stock Exchange business to-day from that of many lifeless days in the immediate past was a much lessened display of interest in the possibility of the announcement of the decisions by the Supreme Court in the anti-trust cases. For at least six weeks back the feature of Monday life in Wall Street has been a state of nervous tension on this particular point. But anxiety, apprehension, interest or whatever else it may be called in this regard clearly reached its height two weeks ago to-day. Last Monday there was a visible quieting down and to-day the matter seemed to excite only passing notice. Dealings in the stock market were only 111,000 shares, as against the low record for the year to date of 109,000 shares. The tone of the market was, so far as it deserved any characterization at all, a little heavy. Yet, after all, rather favorable general comment was evoked by the strength with which, in a market in which such a small number of stocks was bought and sold, prices resisted a continuation of weakness except in one specific quarter, namely, the Cotton Oil and so-called fertilizer stocks. Reasons for the decline in the American Cotton Oil common shares were, so far as they were heard, no more than those which have been common knowledge for a long time. The cotton oil business has not been good in the last year because cotton oil producers have been to a certain extent whipsawed between the lowered prices for lard products and the high prices for cotton seed. There was also a renewal of heaviness in Missouri Pacific stock, although transactions in this issue were quite limited.

The London market was closed for the Easter Monday holiday, but business originating on the other side of the Atlantic affecting American shares has been so insignificant of late that it is doubtful if the entire suspension of business in London in any way materially affected dealings here. Since Thursday afternoon, when our own Stock Exchange closed, there were a few occurrences having a more or less direct financial bearing, but they were none of them highly important. In both the actual and average forms of Saturday's bank statement a large increase in surplus reserve was exhibited, bringing the volume of reserve up to the highest figure seen at this time, save in the year 1908, since 1898. Practically the same conditions are currently shown in Chicago and the other large interior centres, so that critics who have been contending that bank reserves are still not large enough to sustain a pronounced forward movement in business and finance seem to be in a fair way of having their objections answered. The country's foreign trade statement for March, published last Friday, recorded the smallest excess of exports over imports for any month in the present year. The excess was $23,000,000. This compared with an excess of $19,000,000 of imports over exports in March last year, and the general export balance for the nine months of the fiscal year is $440,000,000, a figure from which no pessimistic deductions can be drawn. It was noted to-day that imports are beginning to fall off very rapidly. Thus at this port, that is to say the largest importing centre of the country, the total for the last week was but $15,528,000, as compared with nearly $20,000,000 in the corresponding week in 1910. The issue of $10,000,000 New York State bonds offered for sale at the end of last week was very heavily oversubscribed at high figures. Finally, to-day thoughtful people in the financial district began to pay some heed to the fact that the question of tariff revision at the present session of Congress, that has been held up as a bugaboo for a long time, is rapidly becoming shorn of its terrors. The full Democratic programme for tariff revision is now known and it is in no way drastic or alarming. Moreover evidences are accumulating that even the moderate revision that is contemplated may fail of accomplishment. Trustworthy advices from Washington are to the effect that it is very doubtful if the reduction in wool duties that has been suggested by the Democratic leaders can pass even the House of Representatives, and whether it does or not it is altogether plain that the tariff revision bills, including perhaps that providing for Canadian reciprocity itself, will meet with most serious obstacles in their way through the United States Senate. The situation is, in other words, one in which the worst that can happen regarding the tariff is already known; that this worst is in no way substantially disturbing and that in the final upshot it may receive considerable amendment.

THE CURB MARKET.

Business on the curb yesterday was a shade more active, even if it was still extremely limited. Standard Oil on transactions of some 100 shares rose to 670 and trading in American Tobacco also increased at higher prices. In the bond and note department there developed a particularly strong demand for the New York State improvement 4s, which rose 1⅛ points. Among other issues in this quarter were the Ann Arbor notes, which were traded in for the first time. Some little selling of Tonopah of Nevada appeared.

Transactions in detail in the market yesterday were as follows:

THE BOSTON MARKET.

BOSTON, April 17.—The copper shares showed a weak tone to-day and under moderate offerings prices yielded easily. Kerr Lake showed a loss of ⅜ on fairly active trading. North Butte declined ¾, while the balance of the list showed only fractional changes where any occurred.

American Agricultural Chemical common was weak in the industrial list, more in sympathy with the New York decline than to any specific news. The balance of the industrial and rail lists were dull and unworthy of comment. The summary:
