CARDINALS STICK FOR A WHILE

THEN GIANTS DRAW AWAY AND DEFEAT THEM.

Follow Up Bases on Balls With Hits—Cubs Make Their Safeties Count Against Brooklyns—Quakers Overwhelm the Reds—Pirates Win From the Bostons.

Some day the Pirates may lose and the Giants win, or vice versa, but for the present they are both winning on the same days and the tie for second place remains unbroken. Yesterday the Giants took the St. Louis team into camp again and the Pirates walloped the Bostons. Every day the leaders widen the already wide distance between first and last places, for the Brooklyns lost to the Cubs yesterday while the Phillies were annihilating the Reds. Hitting continues with unabated fury, the Phillies amassing over a score each of base hits and runs. Other teams did some heavy poling too. The results:

New York, 10; St. Louis, 6.

Chicago, 6; Brooklyn, 2.

Philadelphia, 21; Cincinnati, 5.

Pittsburg, 12; Boston, 10.

The Cardinals clung on manfully for five and a half innings in the ball game at American League Park yesterday, then slipped and sank. They exchanged blow for blow until the Giants got in a mortal punch in the sixth which sent Bresnahan and company back staggering and defeated. Closeness and sharp fielding made the first half of a game which in its entirety was intolerably long drawn out pass quickly enough, but the remaining half dragged and stretched the game out to nearly half past 6. Arlie Latham kept yelling "Hurry it up, hurry it up" but he does that every day, generally when there is no occasion for it, so the competing athletes may have thought he was crying wolf. Anyway, President Lynch's inquiries of Sunday as to why games are growing longer didn't result in any improvement in this particular instance. Don't see that anybody was to blame, though. The game was just long, that's all.

Louis Drucke suffered from bunched hits by the Cardinals and had to do his best to prevent more scoring. He kept himself well in hand, however, and with care and coolness handled his end of the playing creditably. Golden for the Cardinals went along smoothly until his lavishness with bases on balls told against him. He passed nine batters, and in the sixth and seventh innings the Giants followed on with hits and landed the game in these two rounds. Drucke's sins included not only nine bases on balls, but a balk, a wild pitch and a hit batsman. Drucke, too, festooned his twirling with incursions into the realm of the erratic. He made a balk and hit two batsmen.

The first man winged by Drucke was Ellis, third man up in the first inning, but Chief Meyers threw the Kube out stealing with a perfect hurl. Devore negotiated the ringstrasse in the first inning on one of Golden's innumerable passes, a single by Doyle and a double play. He came in from third while the double play was going on. The Cardinals went to the front in their half of the second inning. Konetchy, who laruped the ball on its leptorhinal nose, drove a whistling two bagger to left. Evans was hit, Mowrey beat out a bunt and after Oakes had subsided on a fly to Doyle Bresnahan made an infield single and scored Konetchy. Evans scored on Golden's force of Byrne.

The Giants evened up in their half of the second on a prodigious drive by Merkle. The ball caromed from the centrefield fence into the centre field seats. Nine pitching by Golden blanked the Giants in the third. With one out Doyle and Snodgrass walked and made a double steal. Golden's deliberate swing gave them a long lead. McGraw flashed the steal signal while Golden was drawing back for the pitch. They went no further. Murray hit on high to Konetchy and Merkle swung wildly and fanned.

In the fourth the Giants see-sawed to the lead, making a run on a double by Bridwell down the right field line, a sacrifice by Devlin and a hit off the handle of his bat by Meyers. The Cardinals took the score in the fifth on a base on balls to Byrne and Bagby to Konetchy and Evans. The Giants at once drew up alongside. They took a run into themselves on hits by Snodgrass and Murray, a force at third, a pass to Bridwell and Devlin's line fly to Oakes.

The Cardinals swung into the lead a gain in the sixth, but they wouldn't have made just one run if Murray hadn't made a senseless throw. Devore reached Mowrey's hit and Oakes fouled to Devlin. Bresnahan hit safely into centre and brought Mowrey home, the latter having reached second on Devore's muff. Roger's drive was a long one and Murray merely wasted his arm in trying to head Mowrey off at the plate. Had he thrown to second, as common sense prompted, he would have held Bresnahan at first. As it was Roger took second on the throwin and scored on a single by Golden.

In the sixth the Giants made up the deficiency and took a permanent lead. Drucke fled out. Devore walked and stole and Doyle walked. Both moved along on a balk. Snodgrass's single brought the walkers in and Murray whisked a two bagger to the score board and brought in Snodgrass. Murray thought he had a three bagger, but charged his mind to third to shuffle back to second. He was run down. McGraw claimed a three bagger on the strength of the ball hitting a boy on the score board platform and said a few burning words when Rigler refused to allow the triple.

Three more runs in the seventh put the Cardinals down for keens. Bridwell drew four balls and Devlin made an infield hit. Drucke brushed Meyers's single to centre. Devore drew four balls and Doyle obliged with a sacrifice fly. The Cardinals made a run in the ninth. It was the shank of the evening and two were out when Ellis sent the ball volleying to deep right. Devore all but caught it. The hit was good for three bases. Ellis to fe home on a second two base shot by Konetchy.

CHICAGO (N. L.), 6; BROOKLYN, 2.

Chicago hits were not many yesterday in the game with the tottering Brooklyns, but they were placed to deadly purpose and the Brooklyns tottered some more. What hitting the Cubs did do they made good to the last shred. Swat fests in the first and sixth innings gave them trilogies of tallies which the Brooklyns couldn't equal. Ed Reulbach, pitching on sufferance, went through the Brooklyns with telling effect for five innings. He was shelled in the seventh, but wasn't in any serious difficulties when taken out. Howard Ehmke, just to make assurance doubly sure, had a chance put in his warhorse, Mordecai Brown.

An insidious base on balls was the first error in Hucker's undoing. It was bestowed on Stock in the first inning. The lissome shortstop nonchalantly whacked a two bagger to left. Steckard pulling up at third. Hofman was cured ardently, bunted a strike to centre and Steck and Schulte tallied on the throw to Hofman (scratch). On the second trip Chance's single put him on third and an error by Tinker on Doyle's double allowed Hofman to come in.

Innings intervening between the first and the sixth were comparatively uneventful save that in the fifth Jawn Hummel, after reaching second on a stroll and Lejeune's hit, locked horns with Morpheus and was tossed out by the wakeful Archer ere he could shake off the embraces of the slumber god. Coulson walked just afterward and but for Hummel's soporific séance the bases would have been filled with nobody out.

It came to pass in the sixth inning that Hofman retreated, Hummel to Daubert, but Chance was hit by a pitched ball. Doyle ran into his own batted ball and was thus numbered among the defunct. Chance stole second and beguiled a throw from Bergen, which went merrily to centre field. Tinker walked and stole second. Rucker had the ball in his hand as Tinker stole, but was mesmerized. Then up strode strapping Heinie Zimmerman, the pride of The Bronx. He thumped the horsehide so far afield that he trailed Chance and Tinker over the plate without pausing for breath.

Stark took four balls in Brooklyn's half of the sixth and Daubert dealt the ball a one base blow. Hummel poked a safety over short and brought Stark home and Zimmerman's fumble of Lejeune's lawn trimmer allowed Daubert to caress the plate.

Ragon was the alpha and omega of a unique double play in the eighth inning. Doyle was on third when H. Zimmerman lumped the ball to Ragon. The pitcher grabbed it and dashed over and touched Doyle on the line. He turned and found Zimmerman midway between the bases and started a run down of the latter which ended successfully when Ragon tagged him. Ragon got two put outs and an assist out of the play.

PHILADELPHIA (N. L.), 21; CINCINNATI, 5.

PHILADELPHIA, May 15.—The Phillies slaughtered the Cincinnati Reds to the tune of 21 to 5 today, hitting Gaspar and McQuillen out of the box and giving Schreiber an unmerciful drubbing during his stay on the mound. Four home runs were made, Titus, Knabe, Lobert and Hoblitzel hitting for one each. It was the largest score made in this city since the 21 to 2 beating given the Athletics by Detroit four years ago.

TORONTO, May 15.—Teseran, late of the New York Giants, pitched Toronto to his second straight victory to-day when he beat the Newark squad and in addition Wyatt Lee. Highlanders Down Naps in Third Engagement—Athletics Lose, Detroits Win.

After two setbacks in Cleveland the patched up Highlanders, with Ford pitching, won a game from the Clevelands yesterday. Frank Farrell, owner of the New York club, has gone to Cleveland. He will be with the team and look after things until Chase recovers and the team gets on its feet again. The report that Arthur Irwin will take charge of the club during Chase's absence is incorrect. Irwin will stick to scouting. The Detroits improved their position by beating the Bostons in a ten inning game. The White Sox tripped up the Athletics again and the Browns shut out the Washingtons. The results:

New York, 6; Cleveland, 3.

Detroit, 5; Boston, 4.

NEW YORK (A. L.), 6; CLEVELAND, 3.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 15.—The pitching of Ford, combined with Nap errors and a bit of slow work in the field combined to bring victory to the Highlanders to-day by the score of 6 to 3. The New Yorks are still in a crippled condition as to their infield, but gave Ford excellent support. He pitched a magnificent game. The Naps got twelve hits but they were all scattered. One of the Naps runs was due directly to Ford himself, a runner scoring on a wild pitch. Chase is confined to his bed still but his condition showed a little improvement. Hartzell played third in place of Bailey and fielded his position fine. He also got two of the Highlanders nine hits.

Blanding, who pitched a good game, opened by passing Daniels. Wolter flied to right and a quick bit of work on the part of Stovall nipped Hartzell. Daniels found Fisher's throwing arm in good shape and died stealing. Cree in the second inning rolled to Stovall and Knight was passed. Gardner's single advanced him to second. Fisher threw out Roach, advancing Knight and Gardner. Then Olson juggled Sweeney's hot grounder, Knight scoring, Sweeney stole and Ford's single to right scored Gardner and Sweeney. Daniels grounded to Blanding.

The New Yorks went hitless until the fifth inning, when Wolter beat out a bunt. When Hartzell doubled to centre Jackson didn't hurry much to get the ball and misjudged it. He relayed the ball to Ball as Hartzell tried for third and the runner was safe on Ball's wild throw. Hartzell scored on Cree's single to left. Knight ended the inning by popping to Ball.

Good fielding by Olson held the New Yorks to one hit in the sixth and one in the seventh, but in the eighth a hit by Roach, which landed near the fence in right field and a single by Sweeney scored another run.

The Naps had several chances to score, but in each case the much needed hit was not forthcoming. In the third inning Graney got to third on two singles after two were down. Jackson swung as if he had a triple concealed in his system, but could produce only a puny grounder to Gardner. A single, a pass and two more singles netted the Naps one run in the fourth and then, with men on second and third and two down, Blanding struck out. In the fifth Graney walked, Olson flied to left and Jackson walked. Graney and Jackson worked the double steal and then Ford tightened up, striking out Easterly. Stovall's grounder was easy for Gardner. The Naps did not become dangerous again until the eighth, when three singles were produced, scoring one run. Olson opened the ninth with a triple to left and scored on Ford's wild pitch. Two flies and a grounder ended the Naps' hopes.
