GIANTS WIN A CLOSE SCRAP

SECOND GAME WITH PIRATES A SNAPPY AFFAIR.

Devore and Wiltse Retire Injured and Bridwell Fired—Spurting Brooklyns Blank Reds—Gloom in Philadelphia—Boston's Losing Streak Unbroken.

The Giants yesterday floored the Pittsburgs in the second battle and terminated their losing streak, which was three games long. They gained on the Pittsburgs and on the Phillies too, for that matter, the leaders dropping another game to the Cubs. The four first division teams are now fairly well bunched. The Brooklyns continued their spurt and blanked the Reds, bringing the latter team to the debit side of the half way mark. The Cardinals shoved the Boston Rustlers deeper into the tail end pit. The results:

New York, 4; Pittsburg, 3.
Brooklyn, 2; Cincinnati, 0.
Chicago, 7; Philadelphia, 2.
St. Louis, 5; Boston, 3.

NEW YORK (N. L.), 4; PITTSBURG, 3.

The Giants forced the Pirates to surrender yesterday in as snappy a game as the Giants have been seen in this year. Fielding flaws were not wanting, the Giants making a couple of plays in the field of decidedly bonehead breed and the eminent Wagner making one which if not to be classified exactly as in the division of cranial density was sufficiently careless to come under the heading of foolish misplays. However, the game was closely fought and there was spruce work in the infield, with Wagner and Bridwell shining brightest.

Wagner's careless error was committed in the seventh inning and the upshot of it was a run for New York which broke a tie and won for the Gotham allies. In the fifth inning Honus made a dazzling stop which bordered on the phenomenal and shut off one New York run. On three different occasions Bridwell's rapidity of diagnosis after scooping ground balls turned men away from the plate or from points near enough to that goal to be within close striking distance. That is, he threw out three runners after they had passed second base.

Bridwell did not finish the game. He kicked on a called strike in the sixth inning, dropped his bat, glared at Umpire Eason and maybe said something in keeping with his frowning mien. Eason fired him on the instant. As a matter of fact Eason had a bad day. His decisions on balls and strikes grated on the sense of justice of batters on both sides and it looked as if he miscalled not a few. He had Fred Clarke sore, but Fred instead of blunt manifestation of temper a la New York was more inclined to sarcastic smiles. Johnstone in the field had a couple of tough decisions at first, they being so close, and in the fourth inning it looked to those in a position to see that he erred when he called Hunter out at first. On the whole the erroneous findings of the umpirical court were impartially bestowed on friend and foe. One of the kickers, Merkle, found fault with a perfectly good strike.

Two of the New York players, Devore and Wiltse, were hurt and sent to the rear for repairs. Devore was spiked at the plate in the first inning. As Herr Becker clouted the ball to purpose the injury to Devore made no difference in the game. Wiltse was wounded in the hand in the seventh inning. A swift liner from Clarke's bat smashed a finger. Raymond, relief pitcher, had more on his spit ball than he has shown this season and finished out the game with much glory. The hitting on both sides was intermittent, the Giants, however, doing the better bunching, such bunching as there was, and the Pittsburgs often being weak with men on base.

A fumble by Wilson in the first inning was costly. Devore singled to right and Doyle to the same field. Wilson fumbled Doyle's hit and allowed Devore to go to third and Doyle to second. Snodgrass bounced to Steele and Devore hustled home on Steele's throw to Hunter. In sliding to beat Hunter's return throw he was spiked. Murray's hit brought in Doyle. Murray was left at third on Merkle's strike out and Bridwell's grounder to Hunter.

Wiltse struck out Wagner in the first inning and left Clarke repining at first. The Pirates made a lucky haul of one run in the second inning. Hunter doubled to the bleachers. Snodgrass misjudged Wilson's liner in the sun and Hunter scored. Wilson's career was snipped off when Bridwell gobbled Gibson's grounder and made the play at third base.

Tommy Leach hit safely in the third inning and then outwitted Doyle on Clarke's roller to the second baseman. Doyle tried to run Leach back and Tommy let him try. All Doyle had to do for a sure out was to keep on after Leach, but he was bent on making a double play even though every minute he held the ball made a double play less likely. He didn't get Leach and he threw to first wildly and didn't get anybody. Bridwell, using his wits and thereby offering a great contrast to Doyle, took Wagner's grounder on the run and threw to Devlin for a force, a clever play.

The Pirates scored twice in the fifth and Bridwell's nimbleness cut off a third run. Byrne singled. Leach hit to Wiltse, and there was a twofold display of poor judgment right then. Wiltse threw to second for a force. He threw to Bridwell, who was in front of the bag and who didn't want the ball thrown there because he thought Leach couldn't be collared. Wiltse made a mistake in throwing to second as things turned out, but Bridwell was not blameless. Had he covered second Wiltse's throw probably would have beaten Leach. Clarke's triple cleaned up a couple of runs. This hit, like several others, was handled in a slovenly manner in the outfield, but when Wagner trickled a grounder to Bridwell the latter made a tuberculous heave from deep short and nipped the flying Clarke at Port Meyers.

The most gorgeous feat of the game was enacted by Wagner in the second half of the fifth. Devlin jammed a screaming double past Hunter. Meyers headed an equally torrid hit in the other direction. Wagner took three flying leaps for the ball and with his bare hand extended to superhuman length impaled it as it was about to escape into the outer clearing. From the same cramped position he threw to Byrne and Devlin was run down. Wiltse's out advanced Meyers, and Becker's wicked wallop through Hunter brought the Chief home.

Wagner had a chance in the seventh which was as easy as his other one was hard, but he lobbed Devlin's grounder to first and Devlin ducked under Hunter when the latter was pulled off the base. Hits by Raymond and Becker chaperoned Meyers to the home base.

BROOKLYN, 2; CINCINNATI, 0.

The spurting Brooklyns put up another good game yesterday and shut out the Cincinnati Reds. Nap Rucker pitched for the Brooklyns and brought home his first victory of the season. He had to pitch at high tension all the way to do it, for the game was close and the Brooklyns were up against stiff pitching too.

The first inning told the tale. Smith ladled out a base on balls to Stark and Daubert and Wheat followed on with hits. Daubert's a two bagger. Two runs accrued from the shot but spirited Gaslaught and there was nothing but zeros the rest of the way. Each team backed up its pitcher in the highest style of the fielding art and there was no concentration of bingles to break through the air tight defence.

Burch, just now very much in the limelight, added further lustre to his name by his great work in centre field. He made six catches and they weren't all cinches. His most spectacular feat was in the second inning. He rambled to the centre field outskirts and pulled down Mitchell's fly. The score:

BOSTON, May 19.—St. Louis outbatted Boston to day and won by the score of 5 to 3. One of the features was a triple steal by Sweeney, Ingerton and Goode. The first scored. New Yorks Hammer Out a Victory Base Hits No Good to Athletics.

The Highlanders hammered out another victory in St. Louis yesterday and shook off the Athletics, who were beaten by the Detroits, notwithstanding the fact that they made seventeen hits to the latter's eight. The Bostons checked the White Sox in their mad career, although the latter made the Red Sox go twelve innings to turn the trick. The Washingtons are still in the slough of despond. The Clevelands downed them again. The results:

NEW YORK (A. L.), 10; ST. LOUIS (A. L.), 6.

St. Louis, May 19.—New York came from far behind St. Louis this afternoon and won by 10 to 6. With the score 6 to 1 in the Browns' favor in the seventh inning and one man out Sweeney rapped a single straight to centre field. Shotton, who up to Wednesday had been playing sensational ball, stood still and allowed the sphere to roll through his legs, with the result that three runs were scored, placing the contending clubs on even terms.

The New Yorkers' batting rally was continued even after Pitcher Bailey had been sent in to relieve Lake. Myers, who had not been charged with an error since joining the Browns, dropped a thrown ball from Laporte. Daniels sent a little easy roller to Wallace and the Brown manager suddenly was unable to hold the ball to make the throw. Hogan in left headed off a single sent his way and then made a poor shot to the plate in an effort to catch a runner. It was in the same inning in which the Browns made four errors, the Highlanders made six hits and Bailey uncorked a wild pitch.

Wallace and his men had pounded Quinn all over the lot, collecting ten hits and scoring six runs during his stay on the mound, which lasted six innings. Acting Manager Hemphill sent Brockett in starting the seventh and the latter proved to be a very capable twirler in finishing the game. Hemphill inserted himself into the game in the dreadful seventh, batting in place of Knight, and doubled to the busted flagpole. A few others who Hemphill slipped into the battle were Fred Bailey as a pinch hitter, Blair, who relieved Sweeney, and Brockett.

Knight started the second for New York with a triple to centre, which Shotton misjudged. Gardner rolled to Lake for an out at first. Johnson hit to Wallace and Knight was declared safe at the plate by Mullin, although the runner never did touch the rubber. Laporte singled to left in the Browns' second, and as Hogan fanned stole second, continuing to third when Sweeney threw to centre field. Stephens singled to centre, scoring Laporte.

The Browns gained the lead in the third. Lake flanned Sweeney, singled to centre and stole second. Austin doubled to right, Lake scoring. Meloan walked. Laporte hit into a double play, Johnson to Gardner to Knight.

In the sixth for the Browns Laporte singled to centre. Hogan bunted and was safe on Quinn's error. Stephens hit straight to Johnson for a force of Hogan. Laporte taking third. Wallace tapped to Quinn and Laporte was nipped at the plate. Myers beat out a hit to Johnson. Lake singled to centre, scoring Stephens, Wallace and Myers, while Joe made third on Daniels's error. Shotton singled to centre, Lake scoring. Shotton expired stealing, Sweeney to Gardner.

Now for the sad eighth. Hartzell hit to left. Lake fled to Shotton. Hemphill, batting for Knight, doubled to centre, Hartzell moving to third. Gardner's single sent Hartzell and Hemphill home. Johnson beat out a bunt, which Stephens was slow in handling. Sweeney singled to centre, and when Shotton let the ball roll past him Gardner, Johnson and Sweeney scored. Brockett hit to Laporte and Myers dropped the throw home. Wallace doubled Daniels's roller to Bodie. Blair, who relieved Lake, batting for Bailey, uncorked a wild pitch. Hartzell singled to left, scoring Brockett and Daniels. Hogan making a poor return to the plate, Blair fanned.

Hemphill walked in the ninth and Gardner beat out a hit. Alan Bailey failed to pick up a little roller. Johnson sacrificed, Bailey to Laporte. Blair, batting for Sweeney, hit to Wallace for an out at first, Hemphill scoring. Brockett singled to centre, Gardner scoring. Daniels popped to Laporte. The score:

CORNELL'S UPHILL GAME.

Ithacans Defeat Williams in Hard Hitting Contest.

WILLIAMSTOWN, May 19.—Cornell won an uphill ten inning game from Williams to day by 5 to 4. Both teams hammered the ball all over the lot. Poor judgment on the bench in the sixth, when Cornell got after Ainslee, the freshman pitcher, really lost the game. A double and three singles gave the visitors three runs. Davis should have been sent in sooner. For three innings Davis held the Ithacans safely, but in the tenth three hits and an error gave the game away.

Hightower struck out all three of the Purple batters in the last of the tenth. Two doubles and the single by Shons out of four times up figured in all of Williams's runs. O'Connell and Clute connected for two timely hits sensational fielding by Ainslee and Shons marked the contest.
