CARDINALS ON THE WARPATH

MILITANT MISSOURIANS TAKE GAME FROM GIANTS.

Mathewson Batted Out of the Box in the First Inning—With Three Hits Reds Beat Brooklyns—Cubs Win From Phillies and Pirates Grab Two in Boston.

The much talked of Cardinals dashed out on the field of play yesterday for the first game of a series with the Giants and dashed away with the game. While they were scoring they made things hum. There was some solace in the fact that the Phillies were beaten by the Cubs, but the latter increased their lead over the New Yorks. The Brooklyns flourished for a few innings against the Reds, but withered in the end, and the Pirates fattened on the easy Bostons picking to the extent of two victories. The results:

St. Louis, 8; New York, 5.

Cincinnati, 4; Brooklyn, 3.

Chicago, 4; Philadelphia, 3.

Pittsburg, 6; Boston, 3—First game.

Pittsburg, 9; Boston, 5—Second game.

ST. LOUIS (N. L.), 8; NEW YORK (N. L.), 5.

As assailants of the concrete citadel the warlike Cardinals yesterday played up to their spreading reputation as a foe of the most formidable sort. They beat their way right into the centre of the New York stronghold, trampling the Giants down in the grass enclosure, winning the game in the first four innings by an irresistible onslaught on the New York pitchers and showing a large gathering of male and sorority rooters just how they happen to be rushing headlong through all sorts of opposition.

The Giants made their presence felt before the game was over and had the militant Missourians on the anxious seat, but they couldn't overhaul the Cardinals, who played a more aggressive and better all around game. Sir Roger de Coverly Bresnahan was cheered heartily when he made his official appearance in his team's practice, and the unremitting hustling of his men compelled more admiration in the game. The advent of the Cardinals stirred up more interest and expectancy than any series on the lowlands this summer. That the Cardinals made a big hit there was no doubt, though the crowd was none the less loyal to the Giants.

The Cardinals were live wires in deeds and words. Although the Giants made a good uphill try they appeared a trifle blase compared to the effervescent visitors. The Cardinals were either saying something or doing something all the time. "Heads up, first man!" "Right at 'em, scatter!" This to Sallee. "Further out, Steve." "Come on, Haus, a little pep," were fragments of the spicy vocalization which flitted up to the stands.

Among the indignities heaped on the Giants was the batting of Mathewson out of the box. This was in the second inning. From the start Mathewson had nothing of his usual equipment. In the first inning he gave two bases on balls, so unusual a thing for him to do that it may be regarded as evidence that he was in for a bad day. Crandall too was pounded at a lively rate for a while. The Cardinals hit the ball so hard that it rang like a bell, but Crandall pitched a first class game after he had warmed up to his task and checked the Cardinals completely in the last five innings.

Sallee was all coils and curves in the early part of the game, but he broke under the pressure and met the same doom that befell Mathewson. He weakened after the fourth inning and was batted out in the seventh. Bresnahan saw what was coming, as did everybody else, and had Harmon warming up. The hitting stopped instantly with Harmon's elevation to the throne, and the switch from Sallee to him sailed away the game for the Cards.

The issue hinged to a certain extent on the way the first batted ball of the game was played. Huggins bunched a liner to middle ground, and had Snodgrass played the ball safe for a single instead of coming in on it the first inning would have been different. The ball bounded through Snodgrass and Huggins made two bases on it. Hauser sacrificed, putting Huggins on third. Ellis walked and Honey hit to Fletcher, who threw Huggins out at home. The Giants were playing in. There was a good chance for a double play had they played back and a still better chance for a double play had Huggins been held at first in the first instance.

Between allowing Huggins to reach second on his hit and the infield playing in two chances for a double play which would have retired the side scoreless were lost. After Huggins had been retired Evans walked and the bases were filled. With two strikes and three balls on Mowrey all hands hustled with the next pitch and Mowrey banged it to centre. Two runs came in. Evans fell in rounding second and would have been thrown out at third had the New Yorks been watchful, but the oversight cost nothing, as McIvor flied to Meyers.

As a rule the Cardinals took long chances, going McGraw one better at his own game, but in the second Bresnahan's caution postponed the arrival of a run. Bres trushed a two bagger down the left foul line and took third on Sallee's safety to Bridwell. He could have scored on Huggins's force of Sallee but held his base. Hauser thumped a hot single to right, scoring Bres and sending Huggins to third. A double steal brought Huggins home and took Hauser to second. Meyers threw too high to Doyle to block the double steal. Mathewson evacuated the box and Crandall began by fanning Ellis. He passed Kopetchy, but Evans sting him for a hit and scored Hauser.

After Bridwell had booted Mowrey's grounder in the third Bresnahan and Sallee brandished their bats for two more hits and two more runs. Bresnahan landed a two bagger against the left field panelling. Chief Meyers jostled a three bagger to the centre field stand in the third and seeped home with New York's first run while Huggins was throwing Devore out. The Cardinals made their next and last run in the fourth on Konetchy's walk and steal and a hit by Evans.

Doyle singled in the sixth and Murray punched a home run into the left field balcony. With two out and nobody on base Sallee gave bases on balls to Bridwell and Fletcher. Meyers was the next batter. Despite the fact that Sallee was wabbly he swung at the first good one put over and went out. It looked like sound policy just then to wait. On an error by Hauser, a hit by Doyle, sacrifice fly by Snodgrass and a screeching triple by Murray the New Yorks made two more runs in the seventh.

Meiyor turned Crandall back in the ninth with a bizarre catch. He misjudged Crandall's long fly in the sun, but got under it in time, then fell on his back. While recumbent the ball came to him and he caught it pivoting on his sixth cervicle vertebra. Mr. Arlie Latham's signal to the group of boys back of third to yell while the last half of the ninth was on was as useless in rattling the opposing pitcher as it was unethical and out of place in real sport.

CINCINNATI, 4; BROOKLYN, 3.

A lead of three runs, all made in the first inning, didn't suffice for the Brooklyns yesterday. The Reds made four runs and won. They won with three hits. These three hits, with costly Brooklyn errors, did the damage. The Brooklyns made only four hits off Suggs, who performed the double rôle of pitching admirably and batting in three runs. Suggs was a good man for the Reds to have around.

The Brooklyn runs in the first were due to a single by Burch, a three bagger by Wheat, a fielder's choice, a late throw to the plate by Egan, an out and a single by Tooley. Scanlan went along swimmingly until the fifth, which began with Grant taking a stroll. Egan hit safely to right and Coulson's wild return allowed Grant and Egan to move a notch each. A couple of sacrifice flies, one by McLean, the other by Suggs, scored Grant and Egan.

A pass to Egan, Tooley's fumble on McLean and a leviathan three bagger by Suggs rounded up a brace of Reds in the seventh and encompassed the overthrow of the Brooklyns.

New Yorks Beat Tigers in Ten Inning Game and Pass Red Sox.

After losing six straight the Highlanders braced long enough yesterday to beat the Tigers in a ten inning game, ending the Detroit winning streak, which went to eight straight. The Athletics also lost. The White Sox, who make a lot of trouble for the champions, had their number. The Red Sox were beaten by the Naps and were passed by the Highlanders. Washington was whitewashed in St. Louis. The results:

New York, 8; Detroit, 6.

Chicago, 4; Philadelphia, 3.

Cleveland, 8; Boston, 7.

NEW YORK (A. L.), 8; DETROIT, 6.

DETROIT, July 20.—The New York Highlanders started their four game series here to-day with a win, but they were obliged to go into an extra inning to do it. The score was close from start to finish, being tied three times, Detroit leading once, and the Highlanders were out in front three times before the final inning. Five times the Tigers erred, while three errors were charged to the visitors.

A walk, a steal and a single gave the visitors their first run, and the Tigers hurried two over in the same round on two hits and a couple of errors. Drake hit the first ball pitched for a triple. Johnson's error gave Bush a life, Drake scoring. Cobb forced Bush and Crawford singled to right. Delahanty rolled one to Johnson, who made a perfect throw to the plate to get Cobb, who came from second, but Sweeney neglected to hold the ball and Ty scored.

The New Yorks gathered five counters in the third, fourth and fifth innings on four hits and two errors. Cobb's error on Chase's grounder in the fourth put Hal on the second sack and scored him when O'Leary threw out Vaughn. Delahanty made a quick throw to Stanage, but Chase was safe on a long and pretty slide.

Cobb's stroll, Crawford's single and Delahanty's sacrifice, which placed Tyrus on third, counted one more for the Tigers when Moriarty rescued the centre fielder with a sacrifice fly to Wolter.

Bush's triple to right and Cobb's sacrifice counted one in the fifth. In the sixth O'Leary, first up, got a walk and Stanage's and Willett's singles scored him. Cobb came through with a single, which sent Willett home after Drake had forced Stanage at third. Drake tried to score on the play but was out, Cree to Sweeney.

Here the scoring halted until the tenth, when the Highlanders succeeded in getting two men around and the Tigers made an effort to duplicate but succeeded in nothing better than getting men on first and third, when Bush, with two down, fouled to Chase.

Knight, first up in the tenth, doubled to left and Chase beat out a bunt, Knight going to third. Johnson doubled to deep centre, scoring both Knight and Chase.

In the nature of a rebuke Manager Chase has sent Pitcher Quinn home. "The game in Cleveland last Tuesday in which the Naps scored nine runs was the reason," said a Highlander. "Quinn had everything that any pitcher ever had. After the Naps made a couple of hits off him he asked to be taken out. This was done—after a few timely remarks by Hal."
