FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

SATURDAY, July 22.

Transactions in the stock market to-day represented little more than the evening of speculative contracts customary at the end of the week. The market accordingly sold off a trifle, for the balance of outstanding commitments was on the long side. The stocks most affected by the evening process were naturally those in which gains had been greatest in the early days of the week. Union Pacific, for instance, having gone well above its previous high price for the year, was particularly affected by profit taking. Trading was more active than on last Saturday, but not much more was done and generally the market had all the characteristics of the idle short session of midsummer. The principal matter of discussion was the prospect of passage of the Canadian reciprocity bill. Apart from the benefits directly derivable from this measure, which admittedly are considerable, some of the men who scrutinize politics closely extract from it the great boon that its enactment closes the work of Congress at this special session. It is known of course that bills revising the tariff in various ways are still before Congress, but it has been reported on seemingly unquestionable authority that the President, having declared himself unequivocally in favor of scientific revision of the tariff in accordance with the investigations of a tariff commission, will certainly veto any or all of these other tariff bills that may be passed. The remainder of the session accordingly, the reciprocity measure out of the way, will probably be of no more importance than a course of Chautauqua lectures. The bank statement, as was expected, was favorable. There was shown a decrease of more than $15,000,000 in loans, an increase of $5,667,000 in cash and an increase of $7,798,000 in surplus reserve, bringing the surplus up to $10,511,000.

Taking the week as a whole, the trend of the market was upward. It opened with interest slack because of the intense heat of the previous weeks and the check that extraordinary period had given to the advancing movement in the markets and in trade. But before the close of the first session of the week the market became more active and stocks advanced, and though in the last two days trading again diminished in volume there was still an upward movement and the average of prices reached a new high level for the year. In the week's upward movement there was only one interruption. In the earlier days the opinion had been professed that the prospects of the Interborough-Metropolitan Company, whose securities were then in great demand, constituted the bullish factor in the market, and when it turned out that the company profited only by indirection from the new traction awards and got nothing directly, the market hesitated while speculators in traction shares were adjusting themselves to new conditions. With this accomplished the upward movement was resumed. Beyond doubt the stimulus was imparted by crop prospects and by the action of the commodity markets reflecting these prospects. The betterment in crop conditions was indeed the important event of the week. The weather was extremely favorable in all important sections and there was created a general belief that the final yields of wheat, corn and cotton will exceed the estimates made in the Government's July reports, for these reports made a wide allowance for deterioration and in the case of spring wheat an exceptional allowance for deterioration, and since the days as of which the report was made there has been improvement almost everywhere. The weekly trade reviews supplied little apart from the common knowledge that the extreme heat of last week checked trade in many lines and that the improvement is still slow. However, it is most encouraging and most important that the textile trade, following the week's extraordinary break in cotton, finally shows signs of readjustment.

THE PHILADELPHIA MARKET.

PHILADELPHIA, July 22. Cambria Steel and Lonopah Belmont were the only active stocks in the local securities market. Neither showed much change in price, the former losing ¼ while the latter gained ¼. The balance of the list was quiet and only odd lot dealings were recorded. The bonds were quiet and featureless. The summary:

THE CURB MARKET.

It was a dull week on the curb market. Monday was by far the poorest day, the market improving considerably on Tuesday and continuing that improvement in Wednesday's session. Thursday was noticeable only for its activity in the New York State Improvement issues and Friday was interesting only for the sharp opening break in those bonds. Nothing worthy of comment happened in stocks during the week. Yesterday's market was equally uninteresting except for two features, the weakness seen all during the period in Nipissing was more obvious than before, the stock selling from 5½ down to 7¼ on pretty heavy transactions. The State issues sold around 103½, $67,000 changing hands. Dealings in American Tobacco and Standard Oil yesterday were uninteresting.

Transactions in the market yesterday were as follows:
