Young Southpaw, Packard, Does Well Thereafter but Game Is Gone.

There is much sharp battling among the National League teams these days, the four combats yesterday being close. The Giants beat the Reds again and had the nearest to an easy time winning. The Brooklyns met with a setback from the Cubs, and the Phillies had to play ten innings to beat the Cardinals. The Boston won a twelve inning game from the Pirates.

Yesterday's Results.

Two pitchers passed in quick review at the Polo Grounds yesterday, but just before and immediately after the exit of Rube Benton the Giants made enough runs to beat Becker, Tinker, Bergh ammer, Hoblitzell, Kling and the rest of the German Losin' Bund. The score was 6 to 4. Leon Ames had an even shorter career than Benton. Benton was shipped to done for ward in the third inning, whereas Ames was lifted gently but firmly from the scene in the second.

"My faith, and this were fierce!" classically quoth McGraw when Benton made a hit off Ames with the bases filled, and instantly the Little Corsican sent word to Ames that the moment of his conge had arrived. Matty came across the field, climbed into the box and did mastered so well that the Reds, scoring in occasional driblets, never were able to overcome New Yorks' lead.

Meanwhile Packard, a southpaw, late of Columbus, young mastered so efficaciously himself that there was a complete cessation of New York scoring. It was a good thing the Giants had their six runs, for they made only two scratch hits off Packard and were blanked by him as soon as he got into the swing of his work and familiarized himself with his environment. The Reds crept up by popping out hits on Matty in pairs but always with one or two out and with Matty putting on the screws before any Cincinnati inning assumed the proportions of a rally.

The game had no great outbursts of vigor save the bunched hitting of the Giants in two innings and a couple of lively man hunts in which the ball was thrown about by the Reds, criss crossed back and forth and at right angles in a mazelike web of finaiss. One Giant reached his goal in the first of these plays, the other was caught at the plate, and the two plays followed one right after the other, the spectators still excited over the one when they were set to gasping at the other. Arthur Shafer was quite occupied all afternoon, drawing three passes to first and handling eleven chances artistically.

The Reds hit into a double play in the first inning after Ames had forwarded Bates on four balls. The Reds promoted one in their half after Benton had passed Snodgrass and Shafer. Before hitting into the double play Burns made two attempts to bunt, but missed each time by several inches, then had to lash out.

Hoblitzell was turned back in the second, but the agile Marsans shot a hot single through Ames. The fast Cuban stole second and, subsequent to the passing of Egan, showed the way to a double steal in dashing style. Meyers's throws were both wide and the receivers of them had to reach for the ball with one hand. Clark struck out, but Benton singled and scored Marsans. Matty came in and Becker hit into a force out.

McCormick singled in the second half and Merkle doubled to left and scored him. Herzog bunted to Hobby, Benton didn't cover and Herzog dodged Hobby like Brickley eluding a backfield tackler. Meyers whaled a single which glanced off Joe Tinker's heel. Merkle tallied on that drive and Matty's long fly to Marsans brought in Herzog.

The wayward control of Benton put Shafer on first in the third. Burns's two bagger put Shafer on third. Doyle popped to short left, too far in for Becker, and Shafer skipped in when the ball fell safe. McCormick's splash was scooped by Grant and Burns was caught between third and home. In the run up Packard dropped the ball at the plate, allowing Burns to score. Another fielder's choice came on Merkle's grounder to Grant, but after a long chase in which McCormick went back from third to second and drew a throw to the latter base Doyle was caught at the plate on Egan's throw to Hoblitzell. McCormick revisited third on the throw home and scored from there on Herzog's fly to Bates.

Becker tripled in the fifth with two out and Bates batted him home. Hits by Marsans and Egan put the former on third in the sixth and he sifted in on a force at second base. Matty fumbled a grounder from Bates in the eighth. Tinker had removed himself to make way for Bergh ammer, and Bergeta forced Bates. Hobby pumped a hit to left, Marsans forced Hobby and Egan's hit penetrated the left field wilds deeply enough to permit Berg to bring in the fourth tally. Telling himself that that would be about all for the present Matty struck out Clark.

Christy didn't care to have the finish drawn any finer and whirled the Reds aside in short order in the ninth. Two strikeouts and a grounder were Matty's formula for the finale.

BRAVES CONQUER IN TWELFTH.

Maranville's Versatile Skill a Handicap to the Pirates.

BOSTON, May 7.—The Braves scalped the Pirates again to-day, the score being 2 to 1 and the game going twelve innings. Tyler and O'Toole had a close contest, the former showing up the better. The fielding and hitting of Maranville were sensational.

A muff by Sweeney of Whaling's throw when Butler started to steal in the second inning allowed Wilson to score the Pirates' only run. Boston tied the score in the fifth. Whaling was hit and got around on singles by Maranville and Myers. In the twelfth Maranville singled to centre and went to third on Myers's drive to the same place. Connolly floated one to Carey, who muffed and Maranville made the winning run.

LOBERT'S DOUBLE SETTLES IT.

It Sings Over Magee's Dome and Produces Winning Run.

PHILADELPHIA, May 7.—Lobert's long two bagger over Lee Magee's head, which scored Paskert, gave the Phillies a ten inning 4 to 3 victory over St. Louis to-day. The Quakers came from behind and after tying up the game in the sixth won in the tenth, when Paskert singled, took second on Knabe's sacrifice and scored when Lobert lofted over Magee's dome. The Cardinals hammered Seaton for five hits and three runs in the second inning, but after that he tightened and held the Huggins clan scoreless to the finish. A sensational stop and throw by Huggins in the sixth robbed Lobert of a single. The score:

JOHNNY EVERS AND HIS CUBS IN IT EVERY MINUTE

The scrappy little leader of the Cubs and, on the right, big Toney, who pitched the Dodgers to defeat yesterday. The action snapshot shows Tommy Leach, a player after Evers's own heart, piling into third base like a ton of brick in the fifth inning. He stood on second when Phelan lined to Moran, but leaped away at the catch and beat the throw to third with something to spare, as the picture shows.

PLATE UNTOUCHED, BUT RUN COUNTED

O'Day Says "Safe" When Phelan Slides Past Pan and Cubs Win by 4 to 3.

FORMER GIANTS ACTIVE

Bresnahan Keeps Toney Steady and Bridwell Makes Circus Play That Kills Rally.

When Arthur Phelan slid home with the run that put the Cubs in possession of a 4 to 3 victory at Ebbets Field yesterday he failed to touch the plate. But Czar O'Day evidently did not see the mistake and refused to allow the heated protest of Bad Bill Dahlen, the Dodgers' leader. It occurred in the seventh inning. The score was a tie, 3 to 3, and two men were out when Phelan's twisting grounder proved too hot for Fisher. Phelan stole second and Archer whipped a single to right, which Moran lined to the plate with remarkable accuracy.

Miller made a dive to tag Phelan, who slid past the rubber with a margin of at least six inches between his outstretched foot and the corner of the pan. Miller made no kick when O'Day called Phelan safe, but when Dahlen rushed from the bench calling for the ball to be returned to the Brooklyn catcher the fruitless claim was filed and overruled.

The decision was a heartbreaker for 5,000 fans who were rooting wildly for the Brooklyns, but there was no help for it, as O'Day of course was supreme. Another crushing blow for fandom was delivered by Al Bridwell, former Giant, who is playing shortstop for the Cubs in superb style these days. In the eighth inning, with Stengel on second and one down, Bridwell stopped a cannon shot from Smith back of third base with his bare hand, and throwing the ball swiftly to Phelan he cut Stengel down.

If Smith's smash had got away from the Chicago shortstop Stengel would have tied the score. The play was one of the most sensational ever seen on a ball field, and the Cubs hugged the former Giant when he joined them on the bench. Other hairraising plays by Phelan and Evers helped in the subjugation of the Flatbush crew.

Roger Bresnahan, another former Giant, also was a big factor in the Cubs' triumph. In the sixth period, with a man on first, Roger hammered a wicked liner over third base. The ball bounded off the front of the open stand and got away from Wheat. It was a home run and put the Cubs on even terms with the home players. Bresnahan also rapped out a two bagger and steadied young Toney all through the game with fatherly advice.

Toney, who hails from the picturesque town, Goat Hill, Tenn., had plenty of speed and good control. But his lack of experience made it necessary for Bresnahan and the Cub infielders to keep at him with words of encouragement. Rock-ribbed support in the field helped the youngster to get away with the game. Southpaw Allen, on the other hand, was a trifle unsteady and also was roughly handled here and there. In his effort to turn the tide Dahlen called upon his wrecking crew, sixteen men getting into the box score.

AMHERST BURIED BY AVALANCHE OF RUNS

Yale Outhits Victims Almost Three to One and Amasses Score of 14 to 1.

HAIR RAISING CATCH SEEN

Decastro Stabs Drive With One Hand, Rolls Over Twice, but Hangs On to Ball.

NEW HAVEN, May 7.—Yale completely outclassed Amherst here to-day, winning 14 to 1. Yale outhit her opponent nearly three to one. Amherst's only score came in the first inning, when Kimball reached first on a pass, advanced on Williamson's and Swasey's outs and went home on Partenheimer's hit to left field.

Decastro, the Amherst right fielder, made the most sensational play of the game when he caught Brown's long drive in one hand and held on to it, although he rolled over twice after the catch.
