Of Interest to the Theatregoer

VARIETY IN BROOKLYN.

What Is to Be Seen This Week Across the Bridges.

Valerie Bergere will be seen at the Bushwick Theatre this week in "She Wanted Affection," which she has usually had in an uncommon degree from the Brooklyn public. It is by Edgar Allen Woolf. The Schencks, the Six Brown Brothers, George Rolland, Claire Rochester and others will be seen on the bill.

Billy Watson and his company, which will be seen in "Krausmeyer's Alley", and "The Bashful Venus," are at the Star Theatre this week. There are many popular burlesque artists appearing with Mr. Watson.

So successful have the pictures of "Les Miserables" proved at the Academy of Music in Brooklyn that they will be continued there for another week.

Mlle. Dazie is to be seen at the Orpheum in Brooklyn this week in "Panaloon." Joseph Santley, Ruth Randall, Lyons and Yosco, Rita Boland and others will occupy places on the same programme.

STEEPLECHASE PARK.

Popular Resort Soon to Be Opened for the Season.

Steeplechase Park will be opened to the public on Saturday. Many new entertainments have been established there, and it is promised that this amusement park on top of the Palisades will be one of the most diverting in the country. The Schenk Brothers have also arranged for a swimming tank, which will be supplied with water pumped up from the Hudson River.

LUNA PARK TO OPEN.

Preparations for the Summer at This Resort.

Two hundred novel shows are to be seen at Luna Park when the resort is opened to the public a week from next Saturday. Chief among the new diversions will be those offered at Castle Summer House. There will be instructors from Castle House and a dancing floor in the beautiful pavilion, which has been arranged in the French style. Then there are to be the Titanic disaster and "The Whip."

THE WEEK IN VAUDEVILLE.

Alice Lloyd, the English comedienne, will be the leading attraction this week at the Palace. Other acts on the interesting bill will include William J. Montgomery and Florence Moore, who are returning to vaudeville after three seasons in musical comedy; George Damarel, supported by Leola Lucey and a large company in "The Knight of Air," Jack Wilson and Frank Battle, Mary Nash in "The Watch Dog"; Hans Kronold, Billie Shaw and George Seabury, and Eddie Mack and Dot Williams.

Marie Lloyd will close her American season this week at Hammerstein's Victoria. Other acts on the lengthy bill will include Henry E. Dixey, who recently appeared in "A Thousand Years Ago"; Adele Ritchie, Nance Gwyn and company in "Why Girls Go Wrong," a new playlet by Joseph Medill Patterson; Wallace McCutcheon and Vera Maxwell, Melville and Higgins, Flanagan and Edwards, Charlotte Davies, Sydney Baxter, Mollie Wood, the Morse Trio and the Marvellous Mells.

Bert Clark and Mabel Hamilton, the English musical comedy couple, will make their final American appearances this week at the Colonial, appearing in "A Wayward Conceit"; Jack Norworth will present his comedy motion picture travelogue and A. Baldwin Sloane and Grace Field will show some new ballroom dances. Other acts will include Marie Shaw, the Three Colleglans, Swor and Mack, the Melnotte Twins, Leo Zarrell and company, and the Three Hedders. Sunday concerts will be given to-day.

The Alhambra this week will be the scene of the farewell appearances of Joan Sawyer and John Jarrott. Others on the bill will include Jesse L. Lasky's "The Beauties" with Stewart Baird and a company of fifteen, Ed. Gallager and Bob Carlin in "Before the Mast," Ben Welch, Claude Golden, Eveleen Dunmore, Brooks and Bowen, the Dare Brothers, and Frank Wilson. The usual concerts will take place to-day.

Gertrude Hoffmann and her "Big Revue" will head the programme at the Bronx this week. Others on the bill will include Bertha Creighton and company in the comedy, "Our Husband"; Bertie Herron and Bonnie Gaylord, Edwin George, the El Rey Sisters, Rich and Galvin, and Morris Goldin. Sunday concerts will be given as usual.

Proctor's Twenty-third Street this week will have the Four Melody Monarchs and a Maid, Carolyn Franklin and company in "The Plot That Failed"; Harry Gilbert, the Three Borries Girls, Dora Pelletier, Williams and Dixon, Wills and Southern and a number of photo plays, including "A Million Bid."

Theo and Her Dandies will head the bill this week at Proctor's 125th Street. Other acts will include Irving Jones and Honey Johnson, William Lytell and company, the Vallerie sisters and motion pictures, of which "The Fatal Wedding" will be the feature.

The bill at Proctor's Fifty-eighth Street this week will include the Damascus troupe of acrobats, Whittier Ince and company in a playlet, Herbert's dogs, Ash and Shaw, in "A Smashup in Chinatown," and May Lale. The moving pictures will have as the feature "In the Bishop's Carriage," with Mary Pickford in the leading part.

IN THE BURLESQUE THEATRES.

Bob Manchester's "Cracker Jacks" will be seen at the Columbia Theatre this week in two one act burlesques called respectively "Mulligan's Mardi Gras" and "Back to Nature," with an olio of vaudeville acts between. In the cast are Johnny Jess, Leo Kendall, Dan Niblo, Jim Doherty, Beatrice Harlowe, Etta Hastings, Frances Riley and Zella Rambo.

"The Big Jubilee" with Pat White and a company of unusually popular burlesquers will be seen at the Murray Hill Theatre this week. In the supporting company are Goff Philips, Tom O'Neil, Harvey Brooks, James McInerney, Bert Jones, Anna Grant, Dorothy Clark, Madeline Kingsland and Laura Houston. A tango dancing contest will take place on Wednesday night, when three cash prizes will be awarded to successful contestants.
