TO SQUELCH QUACKS WHO PRACTISE LAW

Attorneys' Association Will Fight Men Who Take Fees Without License.

NOTARIES OFTEN OFFEND

Committee, in Report, Says Many Corporations Also Violate Statute.

A report to the New York County Lawyers Association by its committee on the unlawful practice of the law, which has just been made public, discloses that the committee is planning an extensive campaign against quacks, both individuals and incorporations, in the profession, and will spend $5,000 a year to pay the expenses of investigating complaints and prosecuting offenders.

The directors have made an appropriation, and a call has been sent to all members of the association, as well as all lawyers, for voluntary contributions, which are to be sent to Leslie J. Tompkins, 27 Cedar street, treasurer of the committee.

The committee, of which Julius Henry Cohen is chairman, and which includes W. Bourke Cockran, Assistant Corporation Counsel Terence Farley, ex-Justice Henry A. Gildersleeve, Ezra P. Prentice and Alimuth C. Vandiver, makes this statement in asking for funds:

"Efficient work, in the estimation of this committee, can only be done with professional assistance, regularly compensated, and paid investigators to obtain the evidence requisite to convict offenders. This method has been followed by the New York County Medical Society and other similar professional organizations with marked success, so that quacks in these professions have been practically eliminated with resultant great benefit to the community. This committee is anxious to accomplish the same beneficial results in connection with the unlawful practice of the law and to bring this about the assistance of the bar generally is essential."

The committee encloses with its report an extract of a report by its sub-committee on the unlawful practice of law by corporations, collecting agencies, notaries and others. Concerning the practice of law by notaries, the committee says that evidence has been submitted indicating "a very wide practice of law by notaries public and commissioners of deeds, especially among citizens of foreign birth."

The committee is satisfied that "a great many notaries and commissioners of deeds not lawyers, some of whom have not even served a clerkship in a law office, and have practically no knowledge whatever of the law, have solicited, undertaken and received pay for the drawing of deeds, mortgages, contracts, wills, powers of attorney and other legal documents and papers," and have inserted advertisements soliciting this work.

The committee's attention has been called also to advertisements of so-called "agencies" and to cases of men not admitted to the bar soliciting and actually practising law. The committee points out that such practice is in violation of the penal code and the offender could be convicted on proper proof. The committee believes that in many instances trust companies and collection agencies are violating the statute against the practice of law by corporations.

WARLIKE LAWYER IS ARRESTED IN COURT

Clash With Police Lands Hallheimer Among Prisoners —Apologizes.

Attorney Julius Hallheimer of 216 East Eighty-third street was arrested in the Yorkville police court yesterday for disturbing the court proceedings.

He was counsel for Joseph Taba of 1567 Second avenue, who was accused of selling liquor without a license, and had a controversy with Policeman Katz, who made the arrest. When Capt. William Hunt of the court squad told Hallheimer to make less noise the lawyer became indignant.

"Don't you talk to me like that and don't you speak to my client," said the lawyer.

Then the captain told Hallheimer to sit down until his case was called. The lawyer refused to take a seat, saying he knew his constitutional rights.

While the dispute was being threshed out before Magistrate Corrigan Hallheimer turned to Policeman Katz and shouted, "You liar!"

"If you use that kind of language here again I will have you placed under arrest," warned the Magistrate.

Capt. Hunt then made a complaint of disorderly conduct against the lawyer and with the Magistrate's permission arrested him and put him in the detention pen.

When the case against Taba came up later the lawyer was taken out of the pen. His client was held in $1,000 bail for trial, and after that his own case was on for a hearing.

He was granted an adjournment until Wednesday and was paroled in his own custody.

The court proceedings were about over when the lawyer reappeared and said to the Magistrate:

"If the captain will apologize so will I if he withdraws his complaint."

"The captain has nothing to apologize for," replied the Magistrate. "He was only doing his duty."

"Then I apologize to the captain and request him to withdraw his complaint," said the lawyer.

This was satisfactory to Hunt and the matter ended.

TRIES TO ROB DETECTIVE.

Ex-Convict Caught by Officer Who Was Watching Him.

When Joseph Paresi, 29 years old, who says he is a farmer from Milton, N. Y., finishes serving his six months term in the workhouse he probably will take good care that he does not attempt to pick a detective's pocket.

Detectives Cooke and McKenna were strolling among the pushcart emporiums on Hester street yesterday when Cooke noticed Paresi and another man performing too intimately with the clothing of passersby. Cooke remembered that Paresi had served three prison terms, so the detectives watched while Paresi and his companion reached into several more pockets. Then just as Cooke came near Paresi in a jam the detective felt a hand reported in his right hip pocket. He seized the hand, which held the detective's revolver. The hand belonged to Paresi.

He was arrested for jostling and taken to the Tombs police court with his companion, who said he was Charles Roth, 21 years old, of 34 Third street.

"I'm sorry I can't sentence you to six years," said Magistrate Herbert. "The most I can do is to sentence you to six months each in the workhouse."

BEHAR BEGINS FIGHT TO RID CITY OF DUST

Starts To-day to Study Methods for Better Cleaning of Streets.

WANTS GARBAGE COVERED

Expert Says New York Is Behind Europe in Sanitation System.

Nissim Behar, managing director of the National Liberal Immigration League, who returned from Europe on Wednesday after spending eleven months in a study of immigration matters and street cleaning methods, will begin working on plans to-day to stop the dust nuisance in this city.

He expressed himself yesterday as heartily in sympathy with the crusade which THE SUN carried on several months ago in the interest of the covered ash can and ash cart and which caused John T. Fetherston, Street Cleaning Commissioner, to promise that the city should have covered ash carts within a short time.

Behar will begin with a thorough study of the street cleaning methods in this city, as compared with those in cities of England and Europe. He will make trips through the city in the early hours and will go in detail into every phase of the ash and garbage removal. Having finished his investigation, he will make a report and suggestions to Mayor Mitchel.

Dust Due to Open Cans.

The plague of dust in New York, he thinks, is largely due to the open ash can, open garbage can and open ash cart. Mr. Fetherston put into effect several months ago a covered ash cart in certain sections of the city, but that arrangement was merely preliminary to a more extensive system that he hopes to incorporate in his model street cleaning district, for which the Board of Estimate has made an appropriation.

"Since I returned to the city," said Mr. Behar yesterday, "I have noticed an improvement in the conditions of the streets, but they are still far behind the streets of the cities I visited in England and Europe. New York, so far as I have seen, is the only metropolis in which there are not covered ash and garbage cans. The covered cans prevent the air from being filled with germ laden dust.

"In the cities I have visited the streets are kept dampened all the time to keep down the dust and washed clean at night by powerful flushing machines. New York is an unusually windy city, and more than any city I have visited needs the covered ash and garbage cans. Berlin is the cleanest capital in Europe, but New York is behind all the cities in sanitary methods of keeping the streets clean.

London Especially Clean.

"In London the streets are not only washed every night but the sidewalks are kept especially clean. Even small objects, like match stems, are picked up, and this rule applies to the narrow and poorer streets as well as those in the wealthy sections. There may be squalor and poverty in the houses in the poorer sections, but the streets are clean."

He also said that there were no flies in Prague because there was no garbage for them to feed on.

Mr. Behar explained that in the European cities there is one responsible head, who considers all questions pertaining to the cleaning of the streets. He said that when he went to the Street Cleaning Department recently in regard to the subject of watering the streets he was referred to the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, and by that department to the Dock Department.

"I understand," he said, "that Mayor Mitchel is broad minded and willing to receive suggestions. When I have prepared my data and suggestions I will submit them to him. I will suggest that all matters I have mentioned should be looked after by one man. I also will suggest that there be a duplicate set of covered cans, so that the loaded cans can be carried away and emptied, the duplicates being left behind."

$300,000 TO SAVE $1,000,000.

Merchants Association Has Plan for Fire Prevention.

A saving of $1,000,000 a year to property owners and tenants in lower Manhattan can be brought about by the city spending $300,000 annually, says the Merchants Association. Its bulletin issued to-day quotes the report of James H. Fuertes, engaged by the association to study water pressure in its relation to automatic sprinklers for fire prevention.

Mr. Fuertes is certain it would be possible to change the Croton water from a gravity to a pumped supply for part of lower Manhattan. His report will be referred to the city authorities.

BOYS ACCUSED OF ASSAULT.

Two Held for Examination in Connection With Cashier's Robbery.

Dominick Casentino, 16, an elevator boy of 137 West Houston street, and Charles Romeo, 19, of 34 Downing street, the Italians who are suspected of having assaulted Edward Heffernan, cashier for the Blair Tool, Machine and Pattern Company, and robbed him of $567, were held without bail for examination to-morrow by Magistrate Ten Eyck in the Jefferson Market police court yesterday.

Detective Donohue told the Magistrate that Heffernan is in a critical condition in St. Vincent's Hospital from three blows on the head dealt with a five pound iron bolt.

Heffernan was set upon on Saturday morning as he waited for the elevator in a building at Greenwich and Spring streets after drawing $567 from the bank to pay off the employees of the Blair company. Casentino is alleged to have kept his elevator at the top of the shaft while Romeo struck down the cashier and seized the money. Casentino was arrested two hours after the robbery. Romeo was trapped in his sweetheart's house on Saturday night.

Joseph Fitzgerald, a longshoreman, of 281 Hudson street, who was arrested on suspicion shortly after the robbery, was discharged.

BATTERY ROBBERS ADMIT GUILT

Two of Band Preying Upon Polish Immigrants Held for Trial.

Detectives Kieturkiewicz and Mazurkiewicz, the two Polish sleuths of the Police Department, cleaned up yesterday the last details of the robbery on June 23 of Paul Litziewicz when they arraigned Joseph Zukowfsky, 28 years old, and Leon Milerowsky, 30 years old, in the Tombs police court. Both men pleaded guilty to robbery and were held in $4,000 bail each for the Grand Jury by Magistrate Herbert.

The prisoners, according to the detectives, confessed that they had been engaged in fleecing Polish immigrants at the Battery with the help of Tillie Hermansky, her husband, Stephan, and his brother Alex. The three latter are now in the Tombs awaiting trial on a charge of beating Litziewicz on the day he was to sail for Russia and stealing from him $515 in cash, a draft for 700 rubles and his steerage ticket.
