let it trickle along and roll outside. Then he picked it up. Had he tried for a play there'd have been men on third and first with two out and Whitted up. In any event the sudden Cravath two run debacle wouldn't have eventuated. The game supplied much material for hind sight criticism. The score:

ZIM UP TO HIS OLD TRICKS.

Hits Umpire With Ball and Gets Put Out—Cardinals Win.

CHICAGO, April 17.—In the practice preceding the sixth inning of to-day's game between the Cubs and Cardinals Heine Zimmerman of the Cubs threw the ball over Saier's head and it struck Umpire Eason. Zimmerman claimed the throw was an accident, but Umpire Quigley said it was intentional, and fired Zim from the game. Eason's leg was bruised, but the damage was not serious. The game was won by the visitors, score 7 to 4. Zabel, Cheney and Vaughn were all wild, the latter, after relieving Cheney in the last inning, permitting the Cardinals to bat out a victory. PHILADELPHIA, April 17.—Quakertown fans received a double shock this afternoon. The Yankees beat the Athletics in the first game of the series by a score of 9 to 1. In the ninth inning Fritz Maisel performed the rare feat of stealing second, third and home in succession for the final run.

Marty McHale was the winning twirler. He made his 1915 debut most auspicious, twirling a splendid game. Wretched work on the part of the Athletics' twirlers, Wyckoff, Bressler and Harper, contributed to the Yankees' success, but it is a question whether or not Mack's men could have beaten Marty in any case. He allowed a goodly portion of hits, but he kept them well scattered. In only one inning did they come together, and this prevented the Irish Thrush from whitewashing the Mackmen, who, by the way, didn't appear like the champions of old.

The Yankees showed speed on the bases that contributed to their success. The attack seemed to break up Mack's infield defence completely. Twice they scored on a double steal and in the ninth inning Fritz Maisel provided his thrillers. While Harper, a youngster, was pitching, Fritz stole all three bases, much to the merriment of the crowd and to the chagrin of the tall leader of the Athletics. Mack's pitchers were rather charitable, for during the afternoon they handed out fifteen passes.

The one inning in which the Athletics showed a disposition to hit McHale was the second. Lajoie got his first hit of the season, a single to left, but got no further than that bag, for McInnis forced him. A single by Lapp put McInnis on third. Stuffy was nipped at the plate on a quick play by Boone and when Barry singled to right Lapp scored. With men on third and second Marty tightened and ended the inning by fanning Davies, a pinch hitter for Wyckoff.

Wyckoff's gifts helped the Yankees to get their first run in their half of the second inning. After Boone sacrificed Wyckoff filled the bases and forced in Sweeney with a tally when he hit High. Maisel soon after singled and scored Peckinpaugh. A force play at the plate and Pipp's strikeout cut short the Yankees' scoring.

Bressler, who relieved Wyckoff, was ineffective too. His fault also was failure to locate the plate. He started the fourth by hitting Maisel. A stolen base by Fritz, Cree's pass and Pipp's single scored Fritz. Later Cook and Pipp united in a double steal which added another to the Yankees' tally. In the sixth the Yanks got still another. With one down, High, who had made a brilliant catch in deep left that robbed Lapp of a hit, tripled. Bressler winged Cree. Two were out when High and Cree pulled off another double steal. Cree later got as far as third, but Murphy disposed of Cook and the inning was over.

The New Yorks' big inning was the eighth. Singles by High, Pipp and Cook filled the bags. Peck walked and in came High for a run. Boone sent a long fly to Strunk, who tried to nail Pipp at the plate, but the heave was high and as a result both Pipp and Cook scored. Sweeney had a chance to drive Peck home from third, but whiffed. The last run was supplied in the ninth, when Maisel stole the three bases. The score:

BROPHY HEADS COMMITTEE.

Will Be in Charge of Regattas at Atlantic Yacht Club.

John R. Brophy is the new chairman of the regatta committee of the Atlantic Yacht Club. Mr Brophy was chairman some years ago and he has been induced to accept the office again and try to build up yacht racing on Gravesend Bay. His associates on the committee are Samuel L. Finlay and Charles L. Atkinson. These appointments were announced yesterday in general order No. 1 by Commodore J. Stuart Blackton.

Commodore Blackton also announced his personal appointments as follows: Fleet captain, Alvah Nickerson; fleet surgeon, Charles L. Atkinson, M. D.; fleet chaplain, Nehemiah Boynton, D. D.

Racing on Gravesend Bay will have somewhat of a boom this year because three clubs, the Era, Arcanum and Gravesend Bay, have been admitted into the association as associate members. There are several yachts in these three clubs that will do well in the handicap class and some of the members have purchased knockabouts and stars. It is expected that with these clubs added to the other five the racing may be materially improved.

TYGERS GAIN EVEN BREAK.

Cleveland Unable to Do Much to Dubuc and Is Shut Out.

DETROIT, April 17.—Detroit made it an even break with Cleveland to-day when Jean Dubuc, backed by errorless support, shut out the Indians, 5 to 0. Timely hitting by Crawford, Veach, Kavanaugh and McKee drove in the Tigers' runs. The brilliant fielding of Vitt, Bush, Kavanaugh and Chapman featured. Dubuc yielded only four hits. The score:

Defeat by Score of 5 to 1 Is Slapped on Dodgers—Evers Injures Knee Sliding.

CIRCUS CATCH BY WHEAT

BOSTON, April 17.—There is nothing the matter with the Braves. They defeated Brooklyn, 5 to 1, to-day, showing a lot of pep and signs of recovering their batting eye. Capt. Evers was injured when he slid into second base during the eighth inning. Manager Stallings reported after Evers had been carried off the field that it was a sprained knee.

The Dodgers fielded faultlessly, but they were weak on the bases, no less than three of them being caught napping, two during the third session and one in the eighth. Aitchison pitched fairly well, allowing only two hits in the first four innings, and he remained in until the eighth, when Hummel batted for him. Ragan finished and the champions punished him for a double and two singles, putting the game on ice.

Crutcher twirled for Boston for seven periods and kept the visitors' hits fairly well scattered. Strand relieved him in the eighth after Hummel, O'Mara and Myers had singled and Schultz had walked. Hummel was caught away off second in this session on a throw by Gowdy, but Wheat's infield hit allowed O'Mara to score. Egan batted for Daubert and Maranville grabbed his liner, doubling Schultz at second.

Red Smith scored the Braves' first run on a double, Maranville's sacrifice and a wild pitch. Moran's single, Evers's sacrifice and Cather's double put a run over in the sixth. In the eighth Moran walked and was forced by Evers. Connolly bunted safely and two runs came in on Magee's double. The latter went to third on an out and scored on Smith's single.
