BABE ADAMS SAME OLD SNAG; GIANTS SPLIT WIDE OPEN

Collapse of Hitting Powers, Accompanied by Bad Day for Fielders.

PIRATES RAP MARQUARD WITH VENOM IN SIXTH

By trimming the Giants yesterday the Pirates climbed to third place in the National League standings. Brooklyn beat out the Cubs and gained on the Phillies, who were rained in at Cincinnati. The Dodgers are just half a game back now. The Braves idled in St. Louis because of bad weather. New York still manages to hold fourth place by a fractional point, though approximate figures credit the Giants, Cubs and Braves with a tie for fourth position.

By WILLIAM B. HANNA.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 10.—The Giants ran into the Babe Adams snag to-day, ran into it, split and were beaten, 8 to 2. Generally when the Giants see Babe on the mound they don't see him at the plate, they can't see what he has when it gets to the plate. They do say that when Adams is told the night before that he is to pitch against the Giants the next day he laughs himself to sleep, knowing that the morrow will be as soft as his pillow. The Giants were outplayed so far to-day that the only claim to equality with the Pirates they had was that they were in the same league.

Marquard, although scored on in each of the first three innings, pitched capably for the first five. He was jabbed sharply and copiously in the sixth, and either that one round, in which he lost his grip, or the scamy support he received previously would have lost the game.

The Pirates employed the squeeze for their first run. In the first inning Collins tripled over Snodgrass and skipped home with the help of Doc Johnston's bunt. However, the local celebrities did not resort to finesse again. They discovered that subtlety would be wasted and made future runs with no other tactics than the extreme elemental.

Only one hit figured in the second run. Baird doubled with two out and scampered in when Gibson's slap went straight to Doyle and straight through Doyle, than which it would be hard to find a neater and cleaner error. Carey made a single in the third. He moved up on an out. He stole third. Dooin's throw drilled through Lobert's hands and Carey came to the plate.

The Pittsburg scoring in the sixth was a matter of hard hitting pure and robust and simple. There were four singles and one double, and if Snodgrass hadn't thrust his hand into a liner out near the scoreboard the total would have been more prolific. A run was made off Schauer in the eighth. Hinchman doubled, took third on a fly to Merkle and did the last lap on a first base out.

Brainard spun a two bagger along the left foul line in the eighth. Eddie Grant spanked a triple to centre. George Burns lifted a sacrifice fly to right, which completed the details of the Giants' inconsequential two runs. The score:

CLEVELAND NEEDS LUCK TO SPLIT WITH YANKEES

Combination of Circumstances Enables It to Take Second Game From King Cole, 3 to 2—Fisher Invincible in Opener.

Both Detroit and Chicago, by beating Washington and Philadelphia respectively, managed to pick up some ground on the Red Sox yesterday. Boston had to be content with an even split with the Browns. Donovan's Yankees divided a double header with the Clevelands and thereby gained half a game in their fight with the Senators for fourth position.

To-day's Schedule.

Cleveland in New York.
St. Louis in Boston.
Chicago in Philadelphia.
Washington in Detroit.

Bill Donovan's Yankees played a whole lot of good baseball yesterday afternoon and played it in refreshingly great haste, but the best they got for their ambitious hustling was an even split with the Cleveland club. Ray Fisher outpitched Sam Jones and rang up a 2 to 0 shutout in the opener. King Cole lost the second to Rip Hagerman by a count of 3 to 2.

Fisher deserved to win his game all right. Cole certainly did not deserve to lose his. He was outlucked all the way. The King pitched one of the very best games of his career—and he has hung up some dandy performances since he won a pennant for Frank Chance's Cubs back in 1910.

Cole let Fohl's disciples down with three hits. Unfortunately one of these was a home run clout by Willie, a rookie outfielder, who drove a liner off the fresco of the upper tier boxes in right field. Eventually that swat decided the argument, for Cleveland, in the ninth inning, crowded home the two necessary runs on a combination of heartrending circumstances.

Cleveland got six hits off Ray Fisher in the first game, but two of these were scratches to the box. Only one man, however, got as far as third base on the Vermont schoolmaster. Joe Jackson doubled with one out in the ninth and advanced on an infield out. He was left when Smith skied to High.

Kirke nicked Fisher for a clean hit with only one out in the second. He was forced by Smith, and Nunamaker cut this young fellow's comb when he tried to pilfer. The next safety was a scratch by Jones with two out in the third, which came to naught, as Willie popped to Boone. Chapman scratched another such hit with only one gone in the fourth. Jackson's out by way of Fisher sent the shortstop along. Kirke drew a pass, but Smith tapped right into Fisher's hands.

High's wonderful catch off Barbare saved Fisher trouble in the sixth. Hughie crossed to Cook's pasture and killed off an extra base soak for the second out. Chapman followed with a clean single to right. Egan opened the eighth with a clean single, only to be forced by Southworth, who batted for Jones. Willie grounded to Fisher, Peckinpaugh made a dandy catch of Barbare's Texas leaguer on the left foul line.

Egan, the Cleveland catcher, was a great source of annoyance to the Yankee base runners. He smothered no less than four pilfer attempts, two each in the third and fifth innings. Three of these throws cancelled passes.

New York got its first run with two out in the second. Boone walked. He got to third and Nunamaker second on Willie's poor throw in of the big catcher's hit. Fisher's single tallied Boone. High walked, filling the bases, but Peck's easy grounder to Barbare left them filled. Hartzell walked and stole second in the fourth, but three weak popups stranded him.

In the fifth, with one out, Peckinpaugh doubled to left. Maisel's single to centre brought over the final run. Maisel was caught stealing and so was Pipp, who walked a moment later. High was the only Yankee to see first base afterward. He walked with two out in the seventh, just before Peckinpaugh popped to Kirke.

King Cole pitted a sharp curve and a baffling change of pace against Hagerman's speed. For five innings neither side came close to scoring. Willie, hit at the beginning of the fourth, was the first Cleveland to see Pipp's station. Cole caught him napping. In this same inning with two gone Cole passed Chapman, but Doc Cook bumped up against the fence and gathered Jackson's liner. Smith doubled with one out in the fifth. He was killed off on a smart double play on Wamby's tap to Maisel. Pipp shooting the ball back to Fritz in plenty of time. Meanwhile only two Yankees had reached first. Pipp, who walked to start the second, was caught stealing. Alexander singled with one out in the third. Cole framed and High grounded to Wambsganss.

Two were out in the sixth when Willie hooked one of Cole's shoots up against the right upper tier box. New York got this run back in the second half. Alexander walked and advanced on Cole's out. The King cracked a hot shot off Hagerman's shins, but the ball bounced just right for Evans to make the play at first on the slow paced pitcher. Alexander scored on High's single and Hugh moved up on the throw home. Peck popped to Chapman. Maisel beat out a slow bounder to Chapman, who was forced to make a bare handed stab and underhanded throw. High craftily tried to sneak home from second, but Kirk was wide awake and got him on a fine relay.

Clean singles by Cook, Hartzell and Boone filled the bases with one out in the seventh. Jackson went away back for a pretty catch of Alexander's high fly, which scored Cook and advanced the other runners. Cole, however, missed the third strike.

Southworth batted for Hagerman in the ninth and finally drew his base when Silk O'Loughlin gave him the benefit of the doubt on a couple of pitches. Willie sacrificed. High played a pretty short field for Evans and this young gentleman dropped a fly beyond Hughie for two bases. This scored Southworth with the tying run. Boone failed to get in front of Chapman's jolt and the game was lost. Walker in the ninth struck out Caldwell, who batted for Pipp, and then repeated on Cook. Chapman threw out Hartzell.

BROWNS MAKE TRIPLE PLAY.

Red Sox Beat Them in That Game After They Take Opener.

BOSTON, Aug. 10.—Red Sox won and lost with St. Louis this afternoon, young Koob showing them pitching paces that puzzled in the first and Babe Ruth twirling in his own peculiar manner in the second. The scores were 3 to 2 and 10 to 3. A triple play was made by the Browns in the first inning of the second game. Bert Shotton, racing in to get Hoblitzell's short fly, shot the ball to first base, beating Speaker's return, and Sisler sent it home ahead of Janvrin. Rain almost robbed the Red Sox of their victory, as it held up the game forty-three minutes. The scores:

WITH GIANTS IN PIRATELAND.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 10.—It was expected that Tesreau would face Adams again today, McGraw switched to Marquard. Maybe big Jeff will tackle the sensational Mamaux to-morrow.

Brainard made his first hit since St. Louis. He didn't land a safety in Cincinnati.

Carey was hurt by bumping into Lobert when rounding third in the third inning. His retirement brought Costello into the action, and weakened the Pirates in hitting, for Costello whiffed twice.

Wagner made the Giant outfield look slow in the fourth inning. The Dutchman reached second when Snodgrass muffed his fly. Merkle grabbed at the ball, missed, then picked up and threw to second, only to discover that Honus had gone to third.

Merkle's two hits were both of the infield sort, balls which were hard for the infielders to get hold of and which he beat out.

This was the third game on this trip in which Larry Doyle didn't make a base hit. He has hit safely in eleven out of the fourteen.

Merkle is the fastest of the New York outfielders in getting in front of ground balls and if he picks them up cleanly the hitters have to be wary about how they try to stretch the hits.

Only five men in all were left on bases, and New York's double play accounted for the only force in the game. A big majority of the base runners reached the plate, with the Pirates having a big majority of the big majority.

Adams didn't strike anybody out until the ninth inning, when he sent in speed and forced Fletcher to fan.

DODGERS ONLY HALF GAME OUT OF LEAD

May Reach Top To-day, if They Can Triumph Again and Phillies Lose.

EIGHT IN ROW OVER BEARS

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—When the Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the Cubs this afternoon, score 3 to 1, they drew within half a game of the league leading Phillies and have a chance to wrest the top from the Quakers to-morrow if they can whip the locals again and the Phillies lose to Cincinnati. Brooklyn's victory was the eighth straight over Chicago—all four of this series so far played and four in Brooklyn last month.

Sherrod Smith was the most discouraging kind of a puzzle to the locals. The Cubs got a total of nine hits off him, but he turned on fresh speed and curves every time they threatened to score, except in the ninth, when they got their lone tally. The bats of Jake Daubert and Zach Wheat worked the downfall of Young Adams, playing the prominent parts in both Brooklyn rallies.

Adams began the fourth inning by passing O'Mara. Daubert and Wheat both beat out bunts, filling the bases. Cutshaw's out to McLarry unassisted brought in O'Mara and Hummel's fly to Murray redeemed Daubert.

Instead of bunting, Jake and Zach laced out at the ball in the sixth. O'Mara had walked when Daubert singled to left. The result of Wheat's prod was a sacrifice fly.

Red Murray opened the Cub ninth with a hit and Phelan followed suit. A force play put Murray on third and still another one enabled him to score. The score:
