BULL PUP BREAKS UP CAT LUNCHEON

Mrs. Anita Comfort Brooks's Central Park Affair Ended by Faux Pas.

SIOUX GUESTS GO HUNGRY

Mrs. Anita Conmfort Brooks, who lives at the Hotel Wellington, Seventh avenue and Fifty-fifth street, gave a luncheon al fresco in Central Park yesterday afternoon in honor of her Persian cat, Edward VII.

Publicity of any sort is displeasing to Mrs. Brooks, therefore only two blanket Sioux, a boy scout with a velvet cushion for Edward, an intrusive bull pup named Mike, a few policemen and a crowd of perhaps 500 persons atended the luncheon.

It was Mrs. Anita Comfort Brooks who discovered several years ago a rather quaint method of disposing of superfluous jewels. Finding that her jewel box was getting all cluttered up with loose diamonds and sapphires, she had the stones set in the ears of her pet cats, a whim which developed an entirely new variety of crime—pickcatting—because persons without morals or culture used to ambush Mrs. Brooks's fancy felines and pry diamonds out of their ears.

All of this was before Mrs. Brooks became president of the Gotham Club and began stoutly to advocate a tax on bachelors.

Be that as it may, she decided, several days ago, that Edward VII., Edward of the fluffy coat and bushy tail, must be entertained at a luncheon in Central Park. It was necessary to get a permit for this rococo soiree from the Park Department, but the Park Department figured that if anybody wanted to sit around on a Central Park lawn and feed lady fingers to a cat he or she had a legal right so to do, and the permit was issued.

Vision of Feline Fricassee.

Then Mrs. Anita Comfort Brooks wondered who she could invite that would add to the distinction of the party, and she thought of Sioux Chief Flying Bird and his squaw, Wa-he-ha, both of whom she had met when they were with the 101 Ranch show at Madison Square Garden. Flying Bird's R. S. V. P. came back in a hurry, because the simple minded aborigine had a notion that Edward VII. was to be served on toast or as fricassee. It was a new dish to the noble red man, but he was willing to try anything once.

Altogether, Mrs. Anita Comfort Brooks sent out twenty invitations, mostly to persons she had entertained at her parties for soul examination and spiritual uplift. They came enthusiastically at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and they found Mrs. Brooks waiting in the lobby of the Hotel Wellington with Edward, who didn't seem to care for the party as much, perhaps, as he should have.

When a boy scout, upbearing a red velvet cushion upon which Edward was to be carried, approached the intelligent cat spoke his mind freely, in profane Persian. His grammar was atrocious, but none present had a shadow of a doubt as to his meaning.

According to Edward VII., guest of honor, the wole party was blank-dashed-blank nonsense and he was going away from there. With a splendid leap he cleared the boy scout, Mrs. Brooks, the two Sioux and half a dozen others and lit in the stairway to the basement. Pausing not at all, Edward continued his flight until he brought up in a coal bin, from which he was yanked by Wellington bellhops.

Trailing Two by Two.

Edward is an ecru colored cat, but when he came out of the coal bin one never would have known it. He was the exact shade of the bellboy who brought him up for air. After a lot of scrubbing and fanning and beribboning Edward was again made ready and the procession started for the park—Mrs. Brooks leading, then the two Sioux, then Edward on the velvet cushion, and finally the guests trailing two by two.

Luncheon was served on a lawn not far from the park entrance at Seventh avenue and Fifty-ninth street, with a special place for Edward between the Sioux and Mrs. Brooks. Right in the midst of the doings a small boy named Kelly wandered by, followed by a bitten eared bulldog named Mike.

Mike torpedoed the party. He didn't like Edward's looks or anything about Edward and he said so. He jumped for the cat and the cat, no craven, swung for Mike's nose and peeled a considerable section of it. While the cyclone was spinning and Mrs. Brooks was weeping and the Sioux were whooping and the luncheon things were being scattered four ways at once the police came and removed young Kelly, holding him firmly by the ear because it looked like a plot.

The bull pups departed because young Kelly had to go and so Edward VII., his aristocratic virtues in eclipse and the light of battle shining in his tawny eyes, was left in peace. However, nerves had been shaken. Even the Sioux had been shaken. And at 4 o'clock the Boy Scout, the company following, bore Edward back to the hotel.

SHOT WITH FATHER'S PISTOL.

Boy's Reproval of Parent May Cost Him His Life.

PASSAIC, N. J., Aug. 14.—George Lynch, 15, was shot with a revolver in the hand of his father, John Lynch, a railroad detective, this evening, and is in a dying condition in the General Hospital. The bullet pierced his right forearm and his chest, lodging in the back.

The father reached the Lynch home ta 175 Van Buren street shortly before dinner time to-night. He had words with a neighbor who called and ordered the neighbor from his house. After the caller had gone, the son stepped up to his father and said:

"Papa, you should not speak to a neighbor like that. Think of what the other neigbors will say."

"What business is that of yours?" the father exclaimed.

Lynch drew his revolver, it is said, and te boy, getting a glimpse of the weapon, dashed up and tried to grab it. The revolver was discharged and the boy dropped to the floor.

Lynch ran away, but was caught.

HELPLESS MAN HAD $20,300.

Found Unconscious on a Porch in Paterson.

PATERSON, N. J., Aug. 14.—A man with $300 in currency, $5,000 in bonds and $15,000 in other securities in his inside pockets, was found unconscious to-night on a porch in Ryerson street. He was sent to the Paterson General Hospital, where it was said he was suffering from alcoholism and kidney trouble.

Later the man said he was Aaron Van Houten of Haledon, a member of an old New Jersey family, but would tell no more about himself.

CZAR SENDS WOMAN OF 71 TO ARCTIC AS PRISONER

"Little Grandmother of Russian Revolution" Writes to American Friend.

Catherine Breshkovskaya.

EAST ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 14.—On a post card enclosed in a letter which Miss Alice Stone Blackwell received to-day was pictured a bleak, snowy mountain pass in far northern Siberia and through the pass a little band of prisoners struggled along, herded by Russian soldiers. The pass is on the 2,000 mile journey from Irkutsk to Yakoutsk, where Mme. Catherine Breshkovskaya has just been sent to remain in solitary confinement for the rest of her life. Mme. Breshkovskaya, "little grandmother of the Russian revolution," is 71 years old and has cataracts on both eyes.

Mme. Breshkovskaya has been sent to Yakoutsk, where the winters are nine months long and the piercing cold often 55 degrees below zero, after eighteen months imprisonment for trying to escape in December, 1913. Before that she had served nearly twenty years in prison because of her activities in the movement to gain freedom for the people of Russia.

The letter Miss Blackwell received was dated June 27 at Irkutsk, and as Mme. Breshkovskaya was to start for Yakoutsk in July she probably is there now. After telling of the change ordered in her place of imprisonment the "little grandmother" said:

Life at Kirensk Hard.

"It is hardly a surprise to me and life at Kirensk and here was so hard that no change will frighten me. I am only sorry for the two additional months that I have had to spend in prison here waiting for the convoy to leave.

"At Yakoutsk the cold goes down to 55 degrees. Winter lasts fully eight months. There is hardly any spring, for in May the ground is still covered with snow and in August there are sharp frosts at night. Two months of summer are very hot.

"But there are a few doctors there, and more people than at Kirensk, where there was often no medical aid. I shall try not to lose what is left of my health. The longer I live the more fully I understand that the deepest thing in me is an invisible and ardent love for the human race, which I am convinced contains within itself all the germs of intellectual improvement to an indefinite extent; of an ascent to a moral life which will make it infinitely happy."

Ten years ago Mme. Breshkovskaya visited New York and made addresses, including one at Cooper Union, on Russian conditions. She collected $10,000 for the revolutionary cause, and it was said that that was partly responsible for her arrest soon followed and imprisonment in the Fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul.

Recaptured in Four Days.

There she remained for two and a half years before being tried with Nicholas Tschaikovsky, another revolutionist. Meanwhile petitions were drawn up here and in other American cities, signed by many well known persons and forwarded to Czar Nicholas. Mme. Breshkovskaya succeeded in escaping with the aid of a revolutionist named Anfreef, who exchanged clothes with her, but was recaptured four days later near the border.

Then she was convicted for trying to escape and sent to Siberia. Ever since she went there for the second time, nearly two years ago, she has feared that she would be sent to some remote point near the Arctic circle, as her guards were anxious lest she escape again.

From her letter to Miss Blackwell it is evident her fears have been realized and the "little grandmother of the Russian revolution" is resigned to end her days amid the snows of Yakoutsk, with its nine months of winter.

CONVICT'S GOAT HERD NEW SING SING IDEA

Enchanting Plan to Found Fortune in Prison Brings Him Rivals.

BEACON, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Goat raising may be a widespreading fad at Sing Sing prison if Thomas Mott Osborne remains as warden.

Already, through the kindness of Homer H. Stuart, president of the Board of Education of this city, one convict, Martin Sweeney, sentenced to twenty years for murder, has started his herd. The warden allows Martin to take his goats to graze on the hilly land adjacent to the prison. Five years hence, when he receives his freedom, the convict thinks the herd will be large enough to provide him with an income upon which he can live. Meanwhile he plans to study goat culture.

Some weeks ago Mr. Stuart, a breeder of pedigreed goats, received a card from Sweeney inquiring about the price of goats and outlining his plan for a goat herd at Sing Sing. Mr. Stuart replied that if Warden Osborne approved of the plan he would donate a yearling kid. The goat was sent to Martin.

Miss Nanny, that's the goat's name has been made mascot for the Mutual Welfare League of the prison.

The views of Convict Sweeney, a typical Sing Sing prisoner who has spent fifteen years behind the bars, on the policy of Warden Osborne are interesting. In one of his letters to Mr. Stuart he writes: "The warden is faith, hope and charity personified to his erring brothers. He is just a big brother to us. Always willing to help us little brothers help ourselves.

"There is absolutely no big stick in his methods. Kindness is the key he uses to unlock the latent doors in the worst of us. I wish you could find the time to pay a visit here. No matter how good a man you are you will be a better man after a visit."

So enchanting is the plan of Sweeney to have a paying business when he gets out of prison that a score of other convicts are looking for goats with which to start herds.

PIG GETS HIM INTO JAIL.

Owner Locked Up for Refusing to Pay $10 Fine.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Aug. 14.—Anton Keyler of Avery street, Hillside, a suburb of Elizabeth, was sent to the county jail for twenty days to-day when he refused to pay a fine of $10 imposed by Justice of the Peace Arnold Hebbe for failing to keep his pig shut up.

Neighbors complained that a pig was allowed to wander about their lawns and yards, and in order to prove the ownership of the pig Justice Hebbe sent for Mr. and Mrs. Keyler, Mrs. John Howarth, Mrs. Charles Gorlich and Mrs. E. Schroeder, who live in Avery street. When a patrolman chased the pig to within a block of the court room Justice Hebbe adjourned the case while the witnesses unanimously identified the trespasser as the property of Keyler. Keyler indignantly declared the proceedings a farce an drefused to pay the fine and the jail sentence was imposed.

CATHOLIC CONVENTION TO-DAY.

American Federation of Societies Meet in Toledo.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Aug. 14.—All is in readiness for the National Convention of the American Federation of Catholic Societies, which will open to-morrow in Toledo for a four days session. Catholics throughout the country are looking to the convention with interest, as many matters of importance to Catholics are scheduled to come up.

Additional interest is taken because of the presence of the apostolic delegate to the United States, the Most Rev. John Bonzano. President John Whalen of New York arrived this afternoon with a party of delegates and clergymen from New York, among them being Mgr. Lavelle, the Rev. L. J. Evers, the Rev. George T. Donlin, the Rev. P. T. McGlan and the Rev. John H. Dooley.

WEE SKIPPER FRED'S WISHES COME TRUE

He Not Only Gets Two Spyglasses, but Mechano Toys and Money Too.

Readers of THE SUN doubtless remember the story the other morning of Freddy Smith, the little boy in the Kings County Hospital in Brooklyn whose dreams of going to sea were ended when tuberculosis of the spine took away his power to walk. It will be recalled that the child wanted a spyglass very, very much, wanted it because the nurses could carry him to the roof and he could see, far away on the Sound, the big and little steamers and the sails glistening in the sunlight.

One should have seen Freddy Smith yesterday afternoon when his nurse took him to the roof and another nurse walked behind his chair carrying two spyglasses which had been sent to him by persons who were not too busy in this hot and bustling city to pause and think of the little boy with tuberculosis of the spine. It was good to behold Freddy's eagerness and excitement. The mere matter of choosing between the glasses was a matter of tremendous importance, and when he raised a pair of them to his eyes and the Sound leaped toward him there wasn't a happeir child in all Greater New York.

And that wasn't all. Other presents reached Freddy yesterday—a set of mechano toys "that you make things with"; other toys and some money that he could spend for whatever would give him pleasure. When the parcels arrived at the hospital and were taken to the children's department, where Freddy has lain helpless for more than two years now, and were placed on Freddy's cot, he could hardly open the wrappers, his hands trembled so.

Some who read about Freddy thought it would be possible to send him away—to Colorado or New Mexico or some place where beneficial treatment might be given him. William H. Webster of 1316 East Twenty-fourth street, Brooklyn, was anxious to furnish the money to pay for such a trip, but Mr. Webster and others who would have helped were disappointed. Dr. John Parrish, a well known specialist, who has become interested in Freddy's case, examined the child yesterday, and said it would be impossible to move him from the hospital.

TEN MORE PROSTRATIONS.

Decreasing Humidity Comes to Rescue of Sweltering City.

Although the thermometer yesterday registered fully as high as on Friday decreasing humidity came to the rescue of the sweltering city, with the result that there were only four prostrations in New York and six in Brooklyn, as against twenty the previous day. Three cases of sudden death were reported, but none could be directly attributed to the heat. Fifteen persons were slightly affected, all of them on the street, and received hospital treatment.

The highest point was reached at 4 P. M., when the thermometer registered 84 degrees. The lowest was 70 degrees, at 6 A. M. The figures were almost identical with those of Friday and five degrees higher than on the same date last year.

The Washington forecast for to-day and to-morrow promises fair weather with gentle to moderate west winds and little change in the temperature.

JOKER HIT BY TRAIN.

Badly Hurt While Trying to Hide From Girl Companion.

PASSAIC, N. J., Aug. 14.—Michael Matthes of 103 Highland avenue was struck by a railroad train this evening and his skull, backbone and both legs were fractured. He was taken to St. Mary's Hospital, where it was said he would die.

Matthes went out walking with two girls. When they came to the Erie tracks at Summer street he was joking with his companions and he tried to run in front of the approaching train and hide from them. He was struck and shoved along the track for eighty feet.

TEACHERS' PENSION ATTACK RESENTED

School Board Members Urge Necessity for Cooperation With Prendergast.

WOULD SEEK A REMEDY

Members of the Board of Education were inclined to resent the charges made Friday by Comptroller Prendergast that the teachers' pension fund is bankrupt because the board used "vicious methods of padding the rolls" and violated the retirement regulation.

Some of the members of the board said the bankruptcy of the pension fund was due not to a few odd cases of alleged irregularity criticised by the Comptroller but to the fundamental unsoundness of the fund. In the opinion of John Martin, an active member of the board, the present crisis could have been avoided by the passage of a law agreed upon by the board and the Comptroller last fall, but which was vigorously opposed by the teachers.

The necessity for cooperation at the present time between the board and Mr. Prendergast is urged by other members, who deprecated the attack by Mr. Prendergast on the board as likely to aggregate the situation and prevent a speedy solution of the difficulty.

Mr. Martin telegraphed THE SUN as follows from Hurricane, N. Y., in response to a telegram asking his views on the pension fund situation:

"The crisis in the teachers' pension fund should have been avoided by the passage of the law which a committee of the Board of Education and the Comptroller agreed upon last winter. The opposition of the teachers' representatives prevented the passage of this law and is responsible for the acute crisis. The pension fund was unsound, irrespective of odd cases in which pensions may have been granted improperly. The final remedy must await the report of the city committee on pensions."

Joseph Barondess, another active member on the board, said:

"I have not yet read carefully Mr. Prendergast's latest statement, but I believe he has already said that it is the fault of the Board of Education that the fund is bankrupt. It seems to me that instead of finding fault with each other it is time for the Comptroller and the board to get together and work out a plan for mending matters.

"I don't know what can be done. There is no doubt that the taxes in this city are confiscatory as they are. I do not believe the present muddle is the fault of either the Comptroller or the Board of Education. Conditions are to blame. We have been digging tunnels and spending money in other ways for the benefit of New Jersey and places outside the city. We ought to stop it. The Comptroller is perfectly right in trying to keep taxes down.

"I think a conference ought to be arranged immediately to clear up the teachers' pension muddle."

"The controversy is lamentable," said Gen. George W. Wingate, another member of the Board of Education, "and I think the Board of Estimate and the Board of Education share the blame.

"The Board of Estimate has been working for two years on a plan for revising pensions and opposed action by the Board of Education to remove evils, with the result that no such action has been taken. Also the teachers never fully understood the pension system.

"I don't see why a teacher shouldn't marry after retiring as well as a policeman or fireman. I understand one of the women committed the nefarious offence of buying cocktails at a drug store. I didn't know they could be bought in drug stores. I hear also that she took a flask of liquor to school. I know several elderly women who take a flask with them in a hand bag while travelling and are unconscious of impropriety. I don't think a teacher could be discharged on such charges."

Goats Must Have Weekly Bath.

CONNEEESVILLE, Pa., Aug. 13.—Goats kept within the confines of the city must be bathed once a week. This is the edict of Mayor Rockwell Marietta, following the prosecution of Harry Rosenberg on the charge of keeping an obnoxious animal. The Mayor, after hearing Rosenberg's plea, decided that if the goat must live within the city it shall not be a nuisance to the neighbors.

HUSBAND ACCUSED AS ARMY DESERTER

Mrs. Benjamin S. Wever's Application for $75 Monthly Alimony Granted.

CRUELTY ALSO CHARGED

The fact that Benjamin S. Wever, an assistant engineer in the Department of Finance, deserted from the United States army in 1891 while holding a commission as First Lieutenant, and charges that after he married his third wife he became attentive to a young woman employed in the office of the Board of Water Supply, were disclosed in the Supreme Court yesterday when Justice Ford granted an application by Mrs. Lita Picabia Wever for $75 a month alimony and $250 counsel fee.

Wever had sued to annul his marriage to his third wife on the ground that a divorce from his first wife in South Dakota was not valid when he married his third wife, and the latter has filed a counter claim alleging cruelty and inhuman treatment and association since 1907 with Miss Gertrude L. Farrington, who was a file clerk in the Board of Water Supply when Wever was assistant engineer of the board.

In her petition Mrs. Wever says she lives at 551 West 175th street and her husband resides with his son, John, at 936 St. Mark's place, Brooklyn. Mrs. Wever says that in 1898 when she was a nurse at St. Luke's Hospital she nursed Wever's second wife, Mrs. Margaret Wyant Wever, and she later visited the family. Mrs. Wever was taken ill in 1900 and died in ten days.

Mrs. Wever said her husband treated her so cruelly that she agreed to live apart from him in 1914 and to accept $60 a month alimony. He induced her to meet him at the Murray Hill Hotel on June 21 last on pretence of paying her alimony, and then caused her to be served with papers in a suit to annul her marriage, she says. The suit is based on allegations that Wever was divorced in 1894 in South Dakota from Mary Elizabeth Wever, daughter of Major D. F. Callinan, U. S. A., and immediately married Margaret Wyant Wever in that State. He alleges that his divorce from his first wife was not valid under the laws of New York, and accordingly his marriage in this State to his third wife was not valid.

Attached to the alimony petition is Wever's army record, sent to his wife by the War Department in Washington, showing that he was appointed to West Point from Plattsburg in 1876 and was graduated in 1880. He was arrested in 1886 for absence without leave and confined in the barracks at the Presidio, San Francisco, from October 30 to December 29, 1886. He was promoted to be a First Lieutenant the following year, and he deserted from the army at Angel Island, Cal., on June 5, 1891. He was dropped from the army rolls for desertion on September 10, 1891.

WIFE SUES BRITISH AVIATOR.

Mrs. A. K. Boyesen Starts Divorce Action at White Plains.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Mrs. Adelaide B. Boyesen, formerly of Westbury, L. I., has started suit here against Algernon Keen Boyesen of Hendon, England, for absolute divorce. The alleged indiscretions took place at a hotel outside of London in May of this year.

The Boyesens own a pretty country home in Westbury, but they have not occupied it for some time. It is now occupied by Herbert M. Harriman. Mr. Boyesen is a member of the aviation corps of the British army.

They were married at Pleasantville in 1903 and have two children. Boyesen has a brother, Hjalmar Boyesen, with offices at 49 Wall street, Manhattan. Justice Morschauser has ordered service of the papers by publication.

DIVORCE FOR MRS. NEWBOLD.

Wife of American Street Lighting Co. President Wins Decree.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 14.—An absolute divorce was granted to-day to Mrs. Adelaide Passano Newbold from her husband, Eugene S. Newbold, president of the American Street Lighting Company.

Mrs. Newbold is allowed $80 a week alimony for the remainder of her life and the custody of the minor child. The divorce was granted Mrs. Newbold on her cross bill to her husband's suit.

STEEL BOOM STARTS BLAST FURNACES UP

Long Closed Pennsylvania Plants Preparing to Resume Operations.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 14.—Within the next sixty days it is believed every merchant blast furnace in the Mahoning and Shenango Valleys will be in operation. Orders were issued to-day to get the Claire furnaces of the M. A. Hanna interests at Sharpsville ready for blast as soon as possible. This stack has been closed for more than five years.

George H. Boyd, president of the Valley Mold and Iron Company, stated today that the Alice furnace is being repaired and will be started just as soon as it can be gotten ready. The two furnaces at West Middlesex are being repaired and will blow in soon. The Hall furnace of the Republic Iron and Steel Company is also undergoing repairs and will start in about four weeks.

It is also stated that the Hubbard stack of the Andrews-Hitchcock Company at Sharon will blow in as soon as improvements are completed.

Advices from Kane, Pa., state that manufacturers of gasolene in that section are being rushed to a greater extent at the present time than ever before. The demand for gasolene is so great that many of the manufacturers have been rejecting orders almost daily. Manufacturers in McKean, Warren and Forest counties are increasing the capacity of their plants, which are all operating at full capacity.

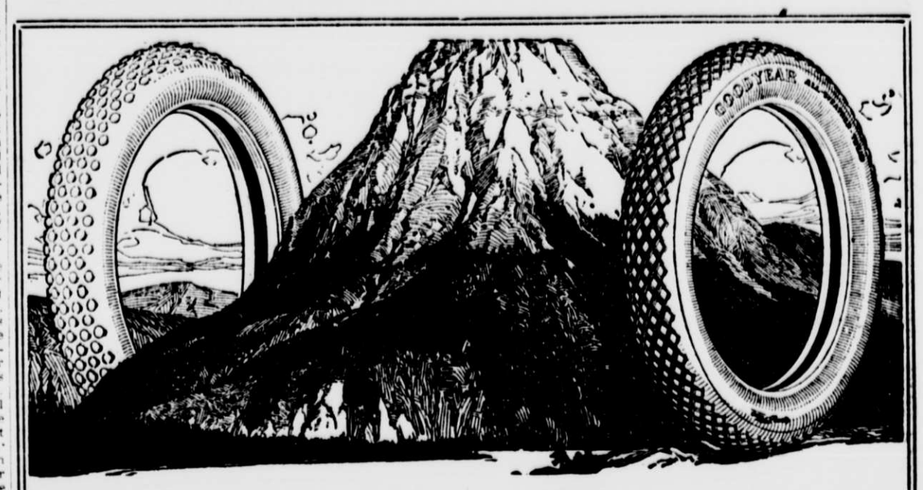
Work of increasing the capacity of the Kane Gasolene Company, which is one of the largest in northwestern Pennsylvania, was started this morning.

OSBORNE'S FOE WILL SUE HIM.

McDonald Decides Not to Insist Upon Arrest of Warden.

OSSINING, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Police Justice Valentine announced to-night that P. J. McDonald, clerk to Superintendent of Prisons J. B. Riley, who asked for a warrant charging Warden Thomas Mott Osborne of Sing Sing with assault, has changed his mind. McDonald will make no criminal complaint, but has decided, so Judge Valentine is informed, to sue the warden for alleged false arrest.

Mr. Osborne, who was scheduled to go on a vacation, did not leave Sing Sing prison to-day.



Fairly Good Tires vs. Extra Good Tires

A Mountain Lies Between Them

These are the facts which we want to impress on you.

Any "fairly good" tire lacks at least five features found in Goodyears only. Either we control these features, or we alone are willing to pay their extra cost.

You can't see that they are lacking, but you ought to know it. For they combat, in the best ways known, these six major troubles:

Rim-Cutting Loose Treads Punctures Blowouts Insecurity Skidding

Cost $1,635,000

These features, plus other extras not commonly employed, cost us this year $1,635,000.

This year's improvements alone, in added rubber and added size, will cost us $500,000.

In addition to all these, it costs us $1,000,000 on this year's output to make our All-Weather tread double-thick. That is, over the cost of a regular tread made rough, like the usual anti-skid.

We pay that price over "fairly good" tires to make Goodyears extra good.

The Cost to You

The yearly difference in upkeep should average from $50 to $100 per car. It differs with tire sizes. And mishap and misuse will affect it. But the average saving mounts into millions of dollars to the users of Goodyear tires.

That's why we pay the price.

Yet note how Goodyear prices have come down and down. This year's reduction will save Goodyear users some $5,000,000. And our three reductions in two years total 45 per cent.

Those are the reasons why Goodyears rule Tiredom. They have outsold any other tire for years. They are gaining new users this year faster than ever before in our history.

They are going to win you. They deserve to. And they are bound to hold you as a Goodyear user so long as you run a car. Let them show you their supremacy.

GOODYEAR AKRON, OHIO
Fortified Tires
Fortified Against: Rim Cuts—by our No-Rim-Cut feature. Blowouts—by our "On-Air" cure. Loose Treads—by many rubber rivets. Insecurity—by 126 braided piano wires. Punctures and Skidding—by our double-thick All-Weather Tread.
