Yankees and Giants Content With Even Break for Day---Phillies Practically Cinch Flag, Winning Twice

CELLAR POSITION REMAINS CLOTHED IN GRAVE DOUBT

Cubs Appear to Want It, but Giants Refuse to Allow Such a Sacrifice.

AFTERNOON'S SPOILS ARE DIVIDED EVENLY

By WILLIAM B. HANNA.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—The Giants and Cubs played a lot of hit and miss, helter skelter baseball to-day, baseball from indifferent to first class, such as two teams clashing for nothing more inspiring than last place might be expected to play. They broke even. The Giants won the first game 5 to 4; the score of the second was 5 to 3 in favor of the Cubs.

The hitting provided a brisk afternoon. There was a good deal of it and the ball was lashed vehemently. There wasn't much good pitching. It averaged poor in quality, though good serving was done by George Pierce of the Cubs and by Bill Ritter of the Giants.

Tesreau stepped into the first game after Perritt had weakened in the ninth with two out and a man on second, and had to pitch but one ball to retire the side and end the game in New York's favor. Perritt skated safely over thin ice several times and didn't get into real difficulty until the ninth, when he retrograded so fast that salvation was necessary in the large and rotund shape of Tesreau.

McGraw tried out a batch of youngsters. He had them stationed here and there in the both games. Babbington gave a good account of himself. He used his baton effectively. Becker did well with the ash for the short time he was in the second game. Ben Dyer filled the third base niche in both games and never rose above mediocrity in any capacity. He didn't look like any find for the tertiary repository.

Emilio Palmero, familiarly known as Hank, pitted his Cuban and portside curves against the Cubs in the second game, lasted two-thirds of one inning, and in that had a checkered and feverish reign. He got away badly by hitting the first batter, and the jumping jack coaching of the refined Bresnahan served to rattle the young Cuban, which was its purpose.

Anyway, Palmero got away on the wrong foot, and while he lasted hit a man, passed three and was batted safely twice. He struck out Saier with the bases filled, but that didn't steady him, and he was taken out after three runs had been scored.

Robertson and Doyle did heavy hitting for the Giants. They went through both games swinging a powerful mace. Neither, however, was in the first scoring spree. Fletcher, Babbington and Burns were in it. The hitting kept up long enough for the Giants to erect a safe lead, though it was safe by a scant margin.

Poor support unearthed one run off Perritt. He wriggled out of tight places in the seventh and eighth innings, then in the ninth was knocked away from there. The tying run was on second base with one out, when Tesreau cut one across the plate to Schulte, who sent a balloon fly to Doyle.

The Giants gave Lavender short shrift in the second. The hitting of Robertson, Doyle and Fletcher turned in two runs. There were two runs in, three on bases and two out when Meyers slammed to the left foul line. The ball struck on the line—one could see the whitewash fly—sending three men over and the Chief to second, but Klem called the drive a foul. Then Meyers was an easy out. The scores:

Score Run for Every Error.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Sept. 21.—Rocky Mount made five errors in to-day's game with Asheville, and the locals scored a run for every error. The Virginia League champions were unable to score, Mayes holding them hitless with men on bases. Asheville has now won three games and Rocky Mount two in the series for the championship of Virginia and North Carolina. The score:

PHRENOLOGY, APPLIED TO PITCHERS, FAILURE

Take Cy Pieh for Example; He Stops Browns With Two Hits, While Caldwell Gets Lambasting From Same Club.

Detroit trimmed Philadelphia and picked up a little ground on the Red Sox, as wet grounds blotted out the entire double header planned for Cleveland in the Hub. New York and St. Louis broke even in the first of three consecutive double headers. Washington easily disposed of the White Sox.

Phrenology is the bunk. Nobody can tell by the size or the shape of the head. Cy Pieh, who wears a No. 6 cap, caught by Leslie Nunamaker, shut out the Browns yesterday with two hits. Ray Caldwell, ably handled by Alexander, the best catcher the Yankees have had in ten years, was torn down from behind by an avalanche of swats. Pieh hogtied Koob, one of the most promising young tossers of the season, to a 3 to 0 score in the first game of yesterday's double header at the Polo Grounds. Sims, fresh from the shubbery of Charleston, W. Va., outpitched the renowned Slim Caldwell in the second game. Sim didn't go as far as Slim. Wellman relieved him in the seventh. His withdrawal was no matter of necessity. He probably could have carried his 5 to 3 advantage to the end. This was the final count.

New York and St. Louis played yesterday's double header simply as a matter of form and exercise. Gotham wouldn't have been much the wiser had the management cancelled. Nobody expected a game; at least nobody took the trouble to go out and look for one. The field was very heavy from the recent rains when the first game was called shortly before 2 o'clock. It cleared nicely for the second game, but got so cold the athletes had to don their sweaters. Both Donovan and Rickey, however, have so many new men they welcomed the chance of action, as St. Louis owed six games in three days here. It was necessary to go after the umpires—Connolly and Chill—with bench warrants. They, like the fans, had visions of a day's rest. But then what is to be expected from two left handed umpires?

Cy Pieh pitched as good a game as has been seen in a long time. He was especially effective in the pinches and he was in many a pinch the first four innings. He didn't begin to settle until his mates showed him a little encouragement in the run making line.

A comedy of errors helped New York to one of the two runs in the sixth. Peckinpaugh and Mullen singled, both advancing on Baumann's neat sacrifice. Hartzell scratched a mean hopper toward Austin. The latter, forced to make a hurried play for Peck dashing in, hit the runner on the shoulder. Roger scored easily, and Charlie Mullen kept right on for the plate. Leary retrieved and made a bad return to Austin, while Mullen tallied. Hartzell meanwhile set sail for second and made the bag when Pratt muffed Lavan's relay.

Mullen opened the eighth with a single, but he was snuffed out stealing. Cook was hit on the fifth. A wild pitch put him on second. Hendryx lined to left. Doc got third on Nunamaker's long fly to Howard. In desperation Cy Pieh himself hit in the first run with a single through the box.

The Yankees were a trifle thick on the bases the first half of the second game. Sims pulled out of a number of tight places partly through the stupidity of his adversaries, partly through luck and partly through fine support. Lee took extra base hits off Roy Hartzell in both the first and sixth innings by clutching line drives as he bumped into the wall.

Paddy Baumann tossed off one run in the second. He opened the inning with a hit and stole second after Hartzell lined to centre. Cook's out put Paddy on third. Hendryx walked. A double steal was attempted. Hendryx drew a bad throw from Agnew and pulled up short to make sure of Baumann's run. Paddy never budged. He remained rivoted a short distance from third while Hendryx was run down.

Alexander opened the third with a perfect bunt, but was doubled stealing as Caldwell fanned. Austin gave Maisel a life a moment later. Fritz stole, but was left when Peckinpaugh struck out.

In the fourth Mullen walked and scored on Baumann's double. Paddy took third on Sims's poor throw to catch him off second and scored on Hartzell's single. Sims's low throw to catch Roy Hartzell off first gave Roy an extra base, and Cook's long fly sent him up another notch. Roy spoiled the chance by trying to score on a short passed ball.

The Browns got only one scratch hit off Caldwell in four innings; then fell upon him for five hits and four runs in the fifth. Pratt singled and took second while Peck was throwing out Lee. Lavan skied to centre. Agnew doubled to right centre for the first run, and scored himself on a hit by Sims. Austin dropped a fluke Texas leaguer behind Maisel. He tallied behind Sims on Howard's triple to centre.

In the next inning Pratt singled and got second on a passed ball. He tallied on Lee's hit to centre. The latter was out at second when Peckinpaugh cut off Hendryx's throwin.

Doc Cook, first up in the seventh, hit the ball into the right field stand for New York's last run. The scores:

BAN FIRST TO ANSWER FEDS.

Says He Will Not Reply to Challenge From Gilmore.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—As was anticipated President Ban Johnson of the American League was first to reply to the demand by the Federal League for a chance to get into the world's series. "Nothing doing," said Johnson, which reply was also anticipated.

Johnson said he had received the letter of James A. Gilmore asking that the Federals be permitted to play the winners of the series, but said he probably wouldn't answer it.

"I suppose, however, that Chairman Herrmann, of the national commission, will acknowledge receipt of the letter," Johnson said.

Rutgers Squad Tries Offence Work.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 21.—The Rutgers varsity had the hardest workout it has had so far this season to-day on account of the cool weather. A constant scrimmage was held for more than half an hour. The varsity was tried out on the offence for the first time. The mass formation was used almost entirely, built up around Talman, Garrett and Bracher.

Five Pitchers Perform in Weird Game Won by Tygers.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—In a weird ball game Detroit won the first of the series from the Athletics to-day by 7 to 5. Manager Mack used seventeen men, having five pitchers in the game. Of these Nabors made the best showing. Detroit made twice as many errors as the Athletics, but they were not as costly as the home team's. Cobb's hitting and base running featured. The score:

Finn Says He'll Live in Detroit.

DETROIT, Sept. 21.—Local Y. M. C. A. athletes are jubilant over the announcement that Hannes Kolehmainen, the celebrated runner, will become a member of their track team. Kolehmainen was in Detroit recently and ran a few laps around the cork track. He made the statement at that time that he would soon make Detroit his residence and ally himself with that organization.

PHILLIES TO USE OWN FIELD.

Will Not Borrow Shibe Park If They Get Into World's Series.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—If the Phillies win the National League pennant this year they will play their home games of the world's series with the American League champions on their own grounds at Broad and Huntingdon streets.

This information was given out by William F. Baker, president of the Phillies, this morning when asked whether it was true that a change of grounds was contemplated. Ban Johnson, president of the American League, said yesterday in Chicago that the Phils could have Shibe Park for the games if they so desired, and Baker said to-day:

"While at the recent meeting of the National Commission in Cincinnati Mr. Johnson kindly told me that he felt sure we could get the use of Shibe Park for the world's series just by asking. I thanked him for his kindness, but replied that if we should be fortunate enough to win the pennant we would play out the series on our own grounds. If they were good enough for our patrons during the season I am sure they are good enough for them in the blue ribbon event of baseball."

VARDON FALLS FROM BICYCLE.

Noted British Golfer Suffers Injury That Prevents His Play.

An American friend of Harry Vardon received a letter a day or two ago in which the noted British golfer, who has visited this country twice, said that he had fallen from a bicycle about five weeks ago and had so injured his hands that golf had been out of the question. Vardon also described one of the German aeroplane raids, saying that the hostile aircraft passed directly over the golf links at Enfield, where he was staying at the time, and created a good deal of excitement and consternation all along the countryside.

Golf in Great Britain is just about as dead as it possibly could be, according to Vard
