TITLE REMAINS WITH JAY GOULD

Court Tennis Champion Scores Easily Over C. Suydam Cutting.

Jay Gould is still king of the "king of sports and the sport of kings," as court tennis has been known for ever so long. Defending his title at the Racquet and Tennis Club yesterday for the first time in four years, the court tennis champion fairly overwhelmed C. Suydam Cutting in the challenge round of the title tournament, taking three straight sets by a score of 6—3, 6—0, 6—1. After the first ten minutes of play there was never any doubt at all as to the outcome, for Mr. Gould's game grew in effectiveness and speed as the match advanced.

Mr. Gould demonstrated to the satisfaction of every one in the large gallery that he has lost none of the cunning and little, if any, of the speed that has kept him at the top of the court tennis experts since 1906. His position play was practically perfect. Seldom did he fail to choose just the proper spot for his return, placing swift shots into the corners where they dropped so low and bounded so fast as to be well-nigh unplayable, bounding drives off the tambour for winning aces and keeping the ball traveling as close to the side walls as possible.

Every shot of the champion's was calculated to force the challenger out of position and render it difficult for him to make a satisfactory return. And there was a continual change of pace, too, to baffle Mr. Cutting. A slow return along the side walls or the penthouse would be followed by a powerful smash right at Mr. Cutting's feet and the challenger would be lucky to return it at all. Mr. Gould found the winning openings with the accuracy of a sharpshooter, reaching the dedans ten times and the grille on four occasions. In playing for the dedans the champion showed preference for a boasted force, only three of the ten shots being made on straight drives.

In the gallery were many who have been prominently identified with racing, racquets and court tennis and other citizens whose names may be found annually in the social register. Among them were Robert W. Goelet, Lawrence Waterbury, G. Owen Winston, T. Douglas Robinson, Arthur Iselin, Henry W. Slocum, Clarence C. Pell, Mortoh S. Paton, Robert W. Chanler, J. Gordon Douglas, William Rauch, Richard H. Williams, John W. Appel, Jr.; Charles E. Sands, Payne Whitney, John Livingston, William H. Sands, Edward Clarkson Potter, Max H. Behr, William H. Tillinore, John P. Wemple, Grafton H. Pyne, George Rose, George B. Post, Jr.; Robert L. Bacon, Charles L. Appleton, F. A. Clark, William A. W. Stewart, Devereaux Milburn, Charles G. Meyer, Dr. James J. Russell, Louis M. Greer, Marshall H. Russell, Thomas Markoe Robertson, E. Townsend Irving, Austen Gray, Rene La Montagne, James B. Lowell, Charles Leonard, E. W. Leonard, Blair Ewing, James Cunningham, Reginald Brooks, Devereux Emmett, H. Mortimer Brooks and J. Macy Willett.

Following the championship match an exhibition four handed game was played between professionals, Walter Kinsella, the professional champion, and Ray Johnson, allowing Frank Blow and Harold Moore one-half fifteen. The latter pair won after extra games at 8—3, 1—5, 6—1. Kinsella took the place of Harry Harris, who owing to the railroad strike was five hours getting in from Montclair.

The point score of the challenge match follows:
