

FABREHHEIT THERMOMETER.

Original of a Scientific Instrument. Everyday Use.

Sir Samuel Wilks, writing to Knowledge, gives the history of the origin of Fabreheit's thermometer, which is generally used in this country. It was really invented by Sir Isaac Newton, and the starting point of his scale was the heat of the human body. Newton's paper is to be found in the "Philosophical Transactions" for the year 1701. He describes his instrument as a glass filled with linseed oil, and to it he attached a scale to measure the degree of heat of the liquid into which he plunged it. His lowest point was that of freezing, as his highest was that of boiling water. He chose for the starting point on his scale the heat of the human body, and this he called by the round number 12, and quoddecimal system being then in use—that is, he divided the space between the freezing point and the temperature of the body into 12 parts. He further stated that the boiling point would be about 30, as it was nearly three times that of the human body.

A few years afterward, when Fabreheit was working on the subject of heat, he took Newton's instrument for his experiments, but finding that scale not minute enough he divided each degree into two parts, and so made it 24 degrees instead of 12. He also did more, for, finding he could obtain lower temperatures than freezing, and notably that of ice and salt mixed together, he took this for his starting point. It was from this point he began to count 24 degrees up to body heat. This made, by his measurements, 8 the point of freezing. Boiling point he made 53. It then became zero, freezing 8, body heat 24, and boiling water 53. This was really the same as Newton's, only the scale started lower and the numbers were doubled. Later on, finding that he could measure increments of heat more minutely, Fabreheit divided each degree into four parts. It will now be seen that if the numbers just mentioned are multiplied by four we have the thermometer which is now in use.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The Stargazers.
"Marry, what are you sitting out on that cold porch for? Don't you know it's 11 o'clock?"
"George and I are looking for the new comet, ma."
"But the new comet isn't due for several nights."
"Well, we are in no hurry, ma."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Carrying Out Orders.
Enraged Female (to house maid)—Why did you tell me my sister was at home? I've climbed four flights and she's not in!
"The missis told me she'd always be at home to her sister."

Told by a Jeweler.
"You see the glass jar on yonder shelf? That is my diamond incubator. We hatch out diamonds there—real diamonds, pure diamonds, the kind that will cut glass and scratch steel." He laid on the counter a piece of black velvet whereupon sparkled and flashed like dewdrops a handful of beautiful but tiny brilliants, a handful of perfect diamonds, each no bigger than the head of a pin. "I'll tell you how you can make these things yourself. You put in a jar an equal weight of carbon sulphide and of phosphorus, being sure that both of these substances are as pure as possible. Fill the jar then with water. The water will float on the top of the jar and will prevent the sulphide from turning to vapor and catching fire. Place the jar in a quiet place, and leave it alone for six months. During that space of time the sulphur of the sulphides will combine and release the carbon, which will fall to the bottom of the jar and crystallize into perfect diamonds. Follow these directions and you, like me, can conduct a diamond farm upon your own mantelpiece."

A Cure for Dropsy.
Sedwick, Ark., June 22.—Mr. W. S. Taylor of this place says:
"My little boy had Dropsy. Two doctors—the best in this part of the country—told me he would never get better, and to have seen him anyone else would have said they were right. His feet and limbs were swollen so that he could not walk nor put on his shoes. "Dodd's Kidney Pills told me he would surely die. I stopped giving him their medicine and began giving him Dodd's Kidney Pills. I gave him three pills a day and at the end of eight days the swelling was all gone, but as I wanted to be sure, I kept on with the pills for some time, gradually reducing the quantity, till finally I stopped altogether. "Dodd's Kidney Pills certainly saved my child's life. Before using them he was a helpless invalid in his mother's arms from morning till night. Now he is a healthy, happy child, running and dancing and singing. I can never express our gratitude. "Dodd's Kidney Pills entirely cured our boy after every body, doctors and all, had given him up to die."

Getting Even with Her.
"You may tell him," she said haughtily. "When I do not care to meet people who deal in dressed beef."
Naturally this proud Eastern aristocrat thought she had him properly put down, but she was in error. "You may tell her," he said by way of reply. "That whatever I put on the market is at least dressed."
Then he looked long and fixedly at her decollete daughter.—Chicago Post.

A Race of Mothers.
The notion that the Japanese woman is a meek and slavish creature, little better than a servant in her household, is altogether a mistaken one. On the contrary, she is addressed as "Okusama," the honorable lady of the house, and is treated with the greatest respect and consideration by her husband and her family. She is the mentor, the autocrat and idol of the home. In domestic affairs she has full control. Her duties are onerous, but never repugnant to her. They consist of managing the household, practicing economy, making her home pleasant both in appearance and by her cheerfulness of disposition, and the education and instruction of her children, for even after the children have entered school they are still under her tutelage. Japanese house is the aspect of the interior of a Japanese house may at first seem bare and barren. In truth, the Japanese abhor decoration of any kind, and consider it not only inartistic, but extremely vulgar.

Made for the Day.
If the fears of librarians are realized, the Congressional Library has thousands of volumes of newspapers which are destined to comparatively short lives. These are publications for which paper made of wood pulp is used. The old paper, made of linen rags, is practically indestructible. But with paper made of wood pulp the case is different. The files of newspapers at the library that are but fifteen or twenty years old show the effect of time in the condition of the paper. Readers who consult these newspapers are painfully aware how careful they have to be in order not to tear the pages as they turn them. Light and air are the destructive elements that are playing havoc with the wood pulp sheets. It is believed by men who have made this matter a specialty that within fifty years the newspaper files of the present day cannot be accessible to the public without great restrictions on account of their fragile condition.

BRAIN BUILDING.
How to Feed Nervous Cases.
Hysteria sometimes leads to insanity and should be treated through feeding the brain and nerves upon scientifically selected food that restores the lost delicate gray matter. Proof of the power of the brain food Grape-Nuts is remarkably strong. "About eight years ago when working very hard as a court stenographer I collapsed physically and then nervously and was taken to the State hospital for the insane at Lincoln, Neb., a raving maniac. "They had to keep me in a strait-jacket for three months. I was finally dismissed in the following May, but did no brain work for years until last fall when I was persuaded to take the testimony in two cases. One of these was a murder case and the strain upon my nervous system was so great that I would have broken down again except for the strength I had built up by the use of Grape-Nuts. When I began to feel the pressure of the work on my brain and nerves I simply increased the amount of Grape-Nuts and used the food more regularly. "I now feel like my old self again and am healthy and happy. I am sure that if I had known of Grape-Nuts when I had my trouble eight years ago I would never have collapsed and this dark spot in my life would never have happened. Grape-Nuts' power as a brain food is simply wonderful and I do not believe any stomach is so weak that it cannot digest this wonderful food. I feel a delicacy about having my name appear in public, but if you think it would help any poor sufferer you can use it." Name given by Foxum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. There are desserts and deserts. The delicious health-giving kind are sold about in the little recipe book found in each package of Grape-Nuts.

FARMS AND FARMERS

the back of the head will keep longer and be better than those permitted to die slowly? Do you know that birds destroy millions of bugs, mosquitoes and harmful insects, that without the birds we could not live on the earth, and that every little insect-eating bird you may kill and every egg you may take from its nest means one less bird to destroy insects?—Live Stock Journal.

Feeding the Grass Crop.
One of the most successful growers of hay in the country ascribed his success to the proper preparation of his fields in the beginning and the proper culture afterward, as well as the proper manuring at the time of seeding. During the two months preceding seeding the soil is plowed and harrowed so frequently that he claims it is gone over at least fifty times. This process makes fine all the vegetation that is available as plant food and lets it wash into the soil. Before seeding, stable manure is used in large quantities as he can afford, but after seeding only bone, muriate of potash and nitrate of soda are used, and this is used on every crop; that is, he is not satisfied to let the fertilizer wear in preparing the seed bed answer for all time, but prepares and applies the commercial fertilizers named each season or twice each season. In his case, two crops are taken from the meadow each season. This sort of treatment is expensive, to an extent, but it pays to apply it in any section where the hay crop is a paying one.

For Leveling the Soil.
This land leveler is a tool that will pay for itself many times over and ought to be found on every farm. The illustration shows clearly how it is made. A heavy plank eight or ten feet long and two feet wide, set on edge, is used for the lever and the wings at the side keep it in an upright position at all times. These wings should be securely fastened by iron straps. Strips of strong board one and one-half inches thick by three inches wide are fastened at each upper corner of the plank and a small cross-piece at the end is provided with a ring, to which the team is hitched. A small iron rod from the center of cross-piece to the center of the top of the plank gives additional strength. A and A indicate large screw eyes, to which a light rope is attached to enable the driver to raise the lever or need and to enable him to turn corners easily.

Produce Only Choice Butter.
Dairymen should ever bear in mind that their only hope of competing with spurious butter, melted lard and cottonseed oil is to produce only the choicest dairy butter. Educate the tastes of the people up to the use of the highest standard and then honestly supply the demand. Oleomargarine can never supplant what is known as gilt-edged butter, but it reveals in the competition with the low grade butter made by the careless, shiftless farmer. Those dairymen who do not observe the handwriting on the wall and who continue the production of inferior parcels, will be driven from the business under a cloud of loss and disappointment. The consumer who has had an opportunity of spreading his bread with choice, fresh, highly flavored, aromatic dairy butter will never become a willing purchaser of butterine or oleomargarine.

Care of the Garden.
Just as soon as any crop of vegetables is finished in the garden, spade the location, and if any seeds are in the soil many of them will sprout. If so go over it again, which will save much valuable time and labor in the spring. Late summer and fall is the proper time to clean a garden, especially if weed seeds are to be eradicated.

Farm Notes.
To use more machinery and conveniences of every kind, or to cut down your acreage, appears the only remedy in sight for lack of farm help. Give the young pigs a low trough and a chance to feed separate from the sow. Add to ground oats or barley or wheat middlings some warm skim milk or water. The product of the stolen nest will be lively as crickets. The brood is usually small, and the mother will take care of them. Throw them food when they are present at feeding time, but let them rustle. There is no better egg-producing food than a combination of oats, bran, corn, green stuff and insects, with the average waste of the average kitchen or dairy, and you don't have to pay 5 cents per pound for any of these. In Denmark they have farmers' cooperative dairy associations of twelve farmers each, who for five years weigh the feed of each of their cows and also the milk, and thus make a record of the returns from each cow. String beans can be grown as long as the weather is warm. The practice of growing the earlier kinds alone is too general, for a ready sale awaits them whenever they reach the markets. Try some of the late varieties, and keep up a succession as long as the opportunity permits.

How to Feed Horses.
Horses fed liberally, if not well exercised, will often get off their feed. The skill of the feeder must remedy this. Every one having the care of stock of any kind should bear in mind that all troubles of appetite and of the digestive organs are generally chargeable to the feeder rather than the animal. Regularity, a keen judgment and strict attention are the "medicine" the feeder of stock needs to administer.

Do You Know?
Do you know that every cruelty inflicted on an animal in killing or just before death poisons to a greater or less extent its meat? Do you know that every cruelty inflicted upon a cow poisons to a greater or less extent its milk? Do you know that fish killed as soon as taken from the water by a blow on

In Every Walk of Life

People every walk of life have bad backs—kidneys go wrong and the back begins to ache. Cure sick kidneys and back aches quickly with a p p e n t. Notice the testimonials and learn how it can be done: A. A. Boyce, a farmer, living three and a half miles from Trenton, Mo., says: "A severe cold settled in my kidneys and developed so quickly that I was obliged to lay off work on account of the aching in my back and sides. For a time I was unable to walk at all, and every makeshift I tried and all the medicine I took had not the slightest effect. My back continued to grow weaker until I was unfit for anything. Mrs. Boyce noticed Doan's Kidney Pills advertised as a sure cure for just such conditions and one day when in Trenton she brought a box home from Chas. A. Foster's drug store. I followed the directions carefully when taking them and I must say I was more than surprised and much more gratified to notice the backache disappearing gradually until it finally stopped."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Boyce will be mailed on application to any part of the United States, to Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all druggists, price 50 cents per box.

Shrewd Trailers of Men.
There is no member of the human race more skillful in tracking men through forests or deserts, over mountains or through verdure-clad vales than the Apache Indian. He possesses in an eminent degree the acute instinct of the hound combined with an accurate sense of vision. A turned leaf, a flock of gravel cast aside, the displacement of a pebble from its bed—all are clear, readable pages. They ask few, if any, particulars of the man they are to follow. They will, as they progress on his track, gather up for themselves one by one little items as to his personality, which are nearly always verified in the end. When following a trail over the iron-capped rocks and stony arroyos of Arizona his face is a picture of intense concentration; not a syllable escapes him; his pace varies from no visible cause. At times he almost runs. Then, with a rapid glance behind, he glides along slowly and with eyes glued to the ground, possibly for hours. Here and there may be a few stretches of sand, but dry sand leaves after the footprint only an indentation, closing after the pressure, so that, to the inexperienced eye, it might have been a horse or a mule that made it and not a man.

The Fable of the Young Man.
There was once a young literary Mechanic who thought he could write like George Ade, only Better, and Who, after he had read that author's Works, Decided that the whole Thing didn't amount to much More than the telling of a Short Story with a little modern slang Thrown in, and every other word or So beginning with a Capital. He thereupon Concluded he would tear off a Few himself, and have extreme return limit September 1. George Ade faded in No Time. Perhaps, mused this peculiar Guy, people might in time Say "George Ade is Copying me."

Drawing before him, therefore, pens, ink, and paper, he prepared to Begin. He was, however, Confronted at the Outlet with an Insurmountable Obstacle, which was, that he couldn't Think of anything to Write About. And that was as far as he Got. Moral—In order to be As Good As You've got to be Better Than—New York Times.

FLIRTED WITH AN OLD FRIEND.

Dapper-Looking Man Got Into All Sorts of Trouble.

"No more street flirtations for me," sadly remarked a dapper-looking young fellow to a friend on a down-town corner the other day. "I'm not a masquerade, but have been guilty of looking sideways at a few of the stunning beauties. I just had a little experience I won't forget soon, and I intend to keep my eyes turned where they won't get me in more trouble."

"I was crossing Washington street a while ago when I came face to face with a pretty girl. She looked at me as we passed and—well I couldn't help it. When I got to the sidewalk I turned around to see which way she was going. She had stopped at the curb, and was beckoning for me to retrace to where she stood. I thought I had made a hit, and luck it went."

"As I stepped up to her she put out her hand and called me by name. That melted me. My smirk was gone in an instant, and I stood there like a wooden Indian. "Oh, it has been so long since I saw you," she said with a smile. "Yes, y-yes, it has been a long time, hasn't it?" said I, confused. "I didn't know you were living in the city," rattled on the pretty one. "I don't know where I did see you last. It was, yes, it must have been at let's see..."

"How are your folks?" she hurried on to ask. "My folks? Oh, yes. Why, my folks are very well. How are yours?" I stammered. "Very well, thank you. You know May is married, and Kate is away at college, and Frank is in California."

"I was surely up against it. Who on earth May and Kate and Frank were I couldn't tell, but I lied and said I had heard about them. She began to tattle that I was lost, and when I asked her for her address she said it was only a trick to find out her name. "Oh, you bold, bad fellow! I don't believe you know who I am. I know now. The joke is on you, and I have caught you flirting."

"She went on and told me she was a little freckled-faced girl in short dresses when she knew me last, and that it seemed like meeting a brother to see me. After fifteen minutes of this she put out her gloved hand and said 'good-by.' I'd give a $5 note to know who she is. Say, do you think I am daffy? My mind's all right, isn't it? I didn't have the nerve to ask her name, but I've got the nerve to cut out this habit of making eyes at pretty girls."—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

The Silent Burglar.
Towne—My wife used to get nervous every time she heard a noise downstairs, but I assured her that it could not be burglars, because they're always careful not to make any noise. Brown—So that calmed her, eh? Towne—Not much. Now she gets nervous every time she doesn't hear any noise.—Philadelphia Press.

Lacked the Price.
"I understand that Guzzler has quit drinking." "Gold cure?" "No; lack of gold."

A monument to Durio is to be erected in Rome.

THE PINKHAM CURES

ATTRACTING GREAT ATTENTION AMONG THINKING WOMEN.

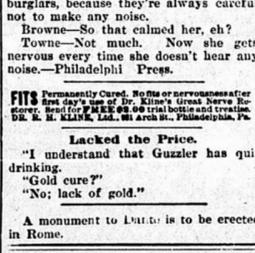

Mrs. Frances Stafford, of 243 E. 114th St., N.Y. City, adds her testimony to the hundreds of thousands on Mrs. Pinkham's files.

When Lydia E. Pinkham's Remedies were first introduced skeptics all over the country frowned upon their curative claims, but as year after year has rolled by and the little group of women who had been cured by the new discovery has since grown into a vast army of hundreds of thousands, doubts and skepticisms have been swept away as by a mighty flood, until to-day the great good that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and her other medicines are doing among the women of America is attracting the attention of many of our leading scientists, physicians and thinking people.

Merit alone could win such fame; wise, therefore, is the woman who for a cure relies upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
