Attractive Permanent Investments

The high yields obtainable from conservative Industrial, Railroad and Public Utility Bonds are not to be expected to continue permanently.

Anyone who is now holding idle surplus funds is overlooking an opportunity in not buying long-time bonds at the present attractive prices.

We will be pleased to make suggestions to investors advising us of their requirements.

CURB MARKET.

Attention in the outside market turned yesterday to bonds, in which dealings in German bonds were active. After an unsuccessful attempt to introduce those bonds in the curb last week traders were free yesterday to deal in them because of the welfare committee's statement permitting such transactions. Several city, one industrial and one Government were among the active German issues, and changed hands for prices ranging from $27 to $31 a thousand mark bond.

In the stock trading, except a few oils, the list was rather quiet. The tendency as a rule was downward and losses of more than 3 points were made in some leading issues. General Asphalt and Texas Pacific Coal and Oil received little support and ended the day with losses of 3¼ points. Midwest Refining fell off 5 points after opening at 150. Metals were lower, but Tonopah Extension and Divide were firm.

Chicago and Northwestern 7s and Delaware and Hudson 7s were well bought toward the close. Kings County Light 5s made their appearance.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

There was in yesterday's trading on the Consolidated Stock Exchange sustained liquidation in some Mexican oils on announcement of the spread of the bubonic plague to Tampico. In the absence of an extensive demand the adverse effect of that selling extended throughout the list with accompanying declines of 2 to 4 points in the active industrials. In the rails recessions averaged about 1 per cent.

New Orleans Cotton Market.

NEW ORLEANS, June 14.—A selling movement started in cotton to-day before the first call was over and was still in evidence on the close, last prices being at the lowest of the day and showing losses of 46 to 90 points. Close: July, 33.00; October, 34.71; December, 33.60; January, 33.01; March, 32.43. Spot steady and unchanged; middling, 41.00.

GRAIN MARKET.

The corn market developed strength yesterday afternoon on the better tone in the cash and buying in rye after erratic movements in the morning. Cash corn tarted lower, but good demand for choice dry grain developed and shippers bid. As a result of the demand cash prices worked up to a cent higher than Saturday's close. Although shipping demand was more active, sales of only 5,000 bushels were reported. Buying in rye, although said to be for foreign interests, was not generally believed. There were, however, European inquiries for the grain, but no sales were reported. The purchases of rye were believed to be by traders who were buying July and selling September. Another factor which helped the market was the disappointing receipts. The estimate of 300 cars for over the week end proved unsatisfactory, and it is believed that the present moderate movement will not last very long. Old traders declare that July never has been a month of heavy receipts, but one in which crop scares have been frequent.

Early trading was unsettled. The market opened low, due to expectations of improved receipts, but speedily worked higher on reports of hot weather over the belt. The advance was short lived, however, as selling was renewed on the prediction of a lower cash market. But the deliveries soon worked upward and were quiet until afternoon, when the turn came in the cash market. Corn crop reports are promising, the weather having proved very beneficial to them.

Oats moved within a narrow range, with trading limited. At the outset September was sold freely because of the more favorable weather, with rain where moisture was needed, and eased off on liquidating sales by local professionals. Houses with Eastern connections bought on the decline, and after reports of damage from hot weather there was a good recovery.

Provisions made higher prices in the absence of important selling and because of scattered covering induced by higher hog prices.
