TO THE PUBLIC.—SEVERAL EXPARTE AND VERY unfair statements have recently appeared in the public journals, in reference to the arrest of Mr. David P. Wilde, of South Brooklyn, on a charge of receiving certain property, which, it is alleged, was stolen by some other persons. Mr. Wilde has thus far suffered under the humiliating, disgraceful, and infamously false imputation in silence, though conscious of his entire innocence, and confident of his ability to disprove, in the most positive and conclusive manner, the accusations preferred against him. In justice to himself and his unoffending family, and in defence of a reputation which (until the occurrence alluded to) has been without reproach or stain, he implores that his friends and the public generally will not hastily pass judgment upon him, but will suspend their opinions in the premises until the case has undergone a thorough investigation.

MUSICAL.

TO THE APPROVERS OF SOUND MUSIC.—A GENtleman, recently arrived from Europe, having had opportunities of study with some of the first choral and cathedral masters of the day, is willing, for a short time only, to devote a part of his time to the instruction of those desirous of acquiring the delightful art of singing in harmony. Those also, desirous of an acquaintance with the higher styles of Sacred Music will find this an excellent opportunity, as the advertiser is supplied with a choice collection of those masterpieces of the early church composers. The system on which he teaches is essentially different from those delusions practised upon the public, in which parties are led to expect that they will attain the art by a sort of mechanical process, being founded upon instilling at the same time a knowledge of the science of thorough bass, without which science no perfection can be attained, nor the higher works of art appreciated.
