Total value of foreign dry goods entered for consumption and withdrawn from warehouse, in the first two months in each of the past three years, was as annexed:—

1849.	1850.	1851.
$11,104,800	$12,965,466	$16,349,783

It appears by this that the value of foreign dry goods thrown upon the market, this year, was $3,385,317 greater than last year, and $5,236,483 greater than the year previous. The steamship Pacific, from Liverpool, brought a very large cargo, which is not included in the above returns. The trade has for some time past been rather quiet. Country merchants do not purchase as largely as anticipated, and there is evidently a revolution going on in the way of doing business in this and all other great markets of the Union. Heretofore business was more confined to particular seasons; now it is more distributed over the year. Merchants of the interior come to the city to make purchases four, five and six times a year, instead of two or three times, as in years past. This does away with the necessity of our city jobbers keeping such enormous stocks of goods on hand, and a continual change is going on in the supplies. This prevents an accumulation of unsaleable goods, and requires less capital to do a larger business. It is the impression that the most active portion of the season is yet to come. The supply of foreign dry goods, generally, has thus far been greater than the demand; but there is no disposition manifested to press the market to any extent, and in the event of there being a moderate lull in the importations, the present excess of supply would soon be reduced.

ADVERTISEMENTS RENEWED EVERY DAY.

PUBLICATIONS.

LIFE OF JOHN RANDOLPH.—D. APPLETON & CO. have now ready the fourth edition. Life of John Randolph, of Roanoke. By Hugh A. Garland. Two volumes 12mo. Portraits, $2 50. "Mr. Garland has given us a daguerreotype of a character more eccentric and variable than Uranus itself, and within two volumes of exceedingly choice historical reading."—Republic. "The biography of Randolph has greater charms than the most exciting fiction."—Charleston Mercury. "A good life of this remarkable man has long been desired. Mr. Garland has furnished an extremely readable book; the two volumes not only contain the history of his life, an analysis of his character, but an interesting account of the politics and the public men of the day."—Crescent. "Since Kennedy's life of William Wirt, we have had no biography, certainly no American biography, which will at all compare in interest with this work. It must be read by multitudes with intense interest."—Newark Daily Advertiser. "Mr. Garland has made good use of his material, and has given a striking and accurate portraiture of the erratic and brilliant subject of his pen."—New Orleans Delta. "As a biography, it is marked by directness and unity of purpose, and by comprehensiveness and variety of manner."—London Post. "Is a worthy one of the leading American biographies with which we are acquainted."—Evening Post. "The work is written with taste and vigor, and in its biographical portions is well constructed and full of interest."—Journal of Commerce. "This book fills a blank in the biographical notices of distinguished Americans. The two volumes give us a faithful account of his whole career, an analysis of his celebrated speeches, &c."—Philadelphia Inquirer.
