Supreme Court.

GENERAL TERM.

C.J., Edwards, Mitchell, and King, Justices.

BROOKLYN, March 8, 1851.—Dennis Gillespie, ads. F. R. Bouverie.—Where goods had been left as security for a debt, and the debtor had demanded the goods without offering to pay the debt, and on such demand the creditor had set up title in himself by denying that he had any goods belonging to the debtor, and did not set up his lien; held that the lien was waived. Motion to set aside report of referees denied, with costs.

Thomas Suffern, ads. W. B. Lawrence, Admr.—On an application to the Surrogate for an order to sell lands of deceased persons to pay debts; and on an appeal to this court, on his order in that respect, the heirs of the deceased, as well as his personal representatives, are proper and necessary parties. The motion to dismiss the appeal granted, unless the appellant, within twenty days, institute the proper proceedings to make the heirs parties.

Childs, Adm., &c., vs. Barnum, Morris, &c.—A sealed instrument, under the statute of frauds imports, a consideration, and where, in an agreement to pay the debt of another, it imports to be in consideration of one dollar, it is not necessary that that sum should have been paid; it is enough that there is a liability to pay it, which can be enforced by the statute of frauds. Judgment of Superior Court affirmed.

A. S. Garr, Adm., vs. C. A. Davis.—An undertaking promising to pay certain persons (naming them), as "trustees" of an unincorporated association, "or their successors in office," is not a promissory note, it being uncertain to whom it is payable. Judgment of Superior Court affirmed.

Charles Marsh and others, ads. Dennis McCarthy.—Judgment for plaintiff on the bill of exceptions.

Jenkins, Sheriff, &c., ads. Daniel M. Wilson.—The action in this case being for an affirmative act done by a sheriff, viz., a false return, and not for mere neglect of duty, the venue is local, being confined to the county in which the sheriff resides. Judgment for defendant on the case made.

John Darley, vs. Patrick Mulhill.—On scire facias against terre-tenants, and demurrer to the plea—held that the plea was good when it denied the seizen in the words used in the scire facias, and that the objection that the plea merely denies seizen of the whole lot, and not of any part of it, is to mere matter of form, and will be disregarded. Judgment for defendant on the demurrer, with leave to amend on payment of costs.

Cornelius Van Winkle, vs. Constantine, Executrix, &c.—Two points having been decided in this case, viz., that the deed in question was good without a separate acknowledgment, and conveyed the wife's title as well as her husband's, they will not again be considered by this Court. Where the deed of a wife is good, without a separate acknowledgment, her execution of it may be proved by proving the handwriting of the witnesses who are dead, without proving also that she executed it voluntarily, and without compulsion from her husband. Judgment of Superior Court affirmed.

Richard Hassard, vs. William Rowe and others.—Where a guardian, without obtaining permission of the Court, expends his own money in improving his ward's property, he cannot recover such expenditure of his ward on his coming of age; his recovery, in such case, being limited to such expenditures as were necessary to his ward, according to his circumstances and situation in life. Decree of special term affirmed with costs.

John Jewett and Others vs. Charles Belden and Others.—The questions involved being purely of fact, and not of law, they will not be considered on writ of error. Judgment of Superior Court affirmed.

Cornelius McDermott vs. Cortland Palmer.—Where the owner of lots in this city agrees with a mechanic for the erection of houses on those lots, on the condition that the owner will advance the builder a certain sum on each house, and when finished, will convey the houses and lots to the builder, taking back a mortgage for the price of the lots, and the amount so advanced, that is a contract for the erection of buildings within the lien law. Judgment of Common Pleas reversed, and venire de novo awarded—cost to abide the event.

Jacob Carpenter vs. Martha J. Smith.—Where there is no dispute about facts, and from those facts it appears that the plaintiff is not entitled to recover as matter of law, it is error for the Judge who tries the cause to refuse a nonsuit, and to submit the question to the jury. Judgment of the Common Pleas reversed.

George Meyer and Others ads. Dows & Cary.—Where there are several accounts between parties, and payments are made, and not specifically appropriated by either party to any particular claim, they go in payment of debts in the order of time. New trial granted, costs to abide the event.

Wm. Stimpson ads. H. C. & J. N. Beals.—Where an agent is directed to contract for his principal for the sale and delivery of goods, the agent may make the contract in his own name, if such is the custom of the trade, and thereby the principal's object can be attained; and the agent's making the contract in his own name, does not discharge the principal's liability to him. In such case, the principal is bound to make good to his agent, in an action for money paid, the amount of expense he may have incurred in executing the order. Motion to set aside report of referee denied with costs.

Mechanics' Fire Ins. Co. ads. John Leeds.—A time policy on a vessel does not extend to bringing her into port, though she be on a voyage when the time expires, and the policy contains the usual printed clause, "and so shall continue and endure, and until the said vessel be safely arrived at ——, as aforesaid, and until she be moored twenty and four hours in good safety," such printed clause being controlled by the written clauses, which most truly show the intention. Judgment for defendants on the case made.

McMahon and Wife vs. Samuel C. Harrison—A professional gambler, who pursues gambling for a livelihood, is not—though it appear that he has been successful—a fit person to be appointed an administrator. Decree of Surrogate reversed.

Hanford and Suisshaugh vs. Jonathan Rogers.—Where at the same time that a party executes an assignment of a bond, he executes a separate paper guaranteeing the payment of the bond, but without expressing any consideration for the guarantee, the assignment and guarantee are to be regarded as one instrument, and the consideration of the one answers for and affects both. Nonsuit set aside and new trial granted—costs to abide the event.

Ambrose C. Kingsland vs. Wm. S. Watkins, &c.—Order of special term refusing to appoint as guardian, ad litem, for an infant defendant a person named by the plaintiff, affirmed.

Stephen Brush and others ads. Charles E McGrath.—Order of special term, striking out portions of a pleadings, affirmed, with $45 costs, besides disbursements.

David L. Moore vs. W. C. Hall, &c.—An order at special term, granting a rehearing on the report of a referee, is not an appealable order. Appeal dismissed, with costs.

Joseph C. Ashley vs. the People—Matter in the court below not appearing on the record of judgment, cannot be brought into this court on error by motion, but only on certiorari, alleging diminution. Motion to amend record denied.

Court of General Sessions.

Before Judge Bebee and Ald. Oakley and Chapman.

MARCH 6.—Charged with Carrying a Slung Shot, with Intent to Use It.—A yellow man, named Charles Benjamin, was placed at the bar charged with carrying a slung shot, and attempting to use it on the head of his brother in law, Samuel Armstrong, a black man. Armstrong swore that he had some previous difficulty with the prisoner, when, one evening shortly after New Year's, he was going along Leonard street, and saw Benjamin approaching; he mistrusted mischief, and prepared to defend himself. The prisoner approached him, and aimed a blow at him with the slung shot. Witness dodged the blow, and knocked the accused down, when the slung shot fell upon the walk, and was picked up by Armstrong. Benjamin, he said, then ran away; witness ran after him, but he escaped. The slung shot was shown. It was a formidable looking affair—a ball of lead, weighing some half pound, slung at the end of a lanyard about six inches long, with a noose at the end. On the part of the defence, several witnesses were sworn, who testified that the complainant, Armstrong, was a vindictive person, and that his character for veracity was not good. With this testimony before them, the jury could not decide upon a verdict; and, after a long absence, they were called back to the court room, and dismissed from any further consideration of the case. Benjamin said that he had never before seen the slung shot. The court ordered him to be discharged on his own recognizance, in the sum of $500, conditional for his appearance to answer when called upon by the court.

Charge of Forging a Promissory Note.—A respectable looking young man named George Pigott, was placed on trial, charged with forging the name of "Robert Barry & Son," to a note for $474 65, and also the names of "Becher & Rush" as endorsers of said note. The following is a copy of the note:—

"NEW YORK, July 11, 1850.

$474 65-100. Eight months after date we promise to pay to the order of Messrs. Becher & Rush, four hundred and seventy-four and 65-100 dollars 100, value received. No. — ROBT. BARRY & SON.

Due March 14, 1851."

This note was endorsed Becher & Rush.

The history of the case, so far as it appeared in evidence, seemed to be as follows:—Some time in January last, Mr. Jabez D. Pratt, of the firm of J. D. Pratt & Co., Baltimore, received a letter post marked at New York, which enclosed the note referred to. The letter was signed B. Wessenden & Co., and stated that the writer had been advised by Messrs. Tappan & Douglas, of this city, to send the note to Mr. Pratt, in Baltimore, with instructions for him to dispose of it on the best terms possible. Mr. Pratt is in the mercantile agency business, in Baltimore, and not accustomed to collect or procure the shaving of notes, and was at first inclined to send the papers all back to Messrs. Wessenden & Co; but on consideration, as the name of Tappan & Douglas was mentioned, and as Mr. P. was connected in business with that firm, he concluded to reply respectfully. This he did, getting out of the business as best he could. In answer to this reply, he received another letter signed as before, but urging Mr. Pratt to realize the money on the note as soon as possible, deduct brokerage and remit the balance to the address signed to the letter. Mr. P. knew Barry & Son, who are merchants of Baltimore, very well, and began to mistrust that there was something wrong. He therefore sent the note to Tappan & Doug as, mercantile agents of this city, by whom it was handed over to the police, and a watch set at the post office to detect the person who should call for letters addressed to B. Wessenden & Co. The officers, at first, arrested another person, who was immediately released on being taken to the window where the delivery clerk could see him. On the next day after the wrong arrest, the prisoner was pointed out as the man, and was arrested shortly after he had left the post office. The prosecution brought a number of respectable witnesses to prove that the filling up to the note was done in the handwriting of the accused, and that the letters produced by J. D. Pratt were also written in a hand resembling his.

On the part of the defence several witnesses, of equal respectability with those produced by the prosecution, were called to the stand, and testified that they were well acquainted with the handwriting of Pigott, and that the filling up of the note did not resemble it. As to the letters, one of them, they testified, was not at all like his writing, and the other bore but a slight and general resemblance, but that the hand was a common mercantile handwriting. The case was summed up at considerable length by counsel on either side. The presiding Judge charged the jury, reviewing the evidence clearly and succinctly, and leaving it fresh on their minds, without partiality. They jury were out but a short time, when they returned a verdict of not guilty, and Mr. Pigott was discharged.

Superior Court.

Before Chief Justice Oakley.

MARCH 7.—Wm. Cook vs. Garret T. Terhune and John W. Somerindyke.—This is an action of replevin, brought by the plaintiff to recover the value of certain pieces of cassimere, cloth, &c., taken from their possession by the defendants, in March last. The defendants contend that plaintiff was not, at the time, the owner of the articles referred to, but that they were the property of one Albert S. Vail; and that the property came into possession of Terhune, the defendant, under and by virture of a judgment and execution against Vail at the suit of Terhune, in the Marine Court, defendant Somerindyke being the officer who levied upon the property. The only question involved is as to the title to the property. Verdict for the plaintiff. The jury also assess the value of the property at $200.

Marine Court.

Before Hon. Judge Lynch.

MARCH 6.—Assault at Sea.—James Doale vs. Eugene Lawrence.—This was an action for assault and battery committed on the plaintiff, who was a seaman on board the ship America, of which vessel Lawrence was mate. It appeared that the plaintiff was ill, and told the defendant that he was unable to do duty, upon which the mate caught hold of him, called him a son of a ——, knocked him down, kicked him and thumped his head upon the deck. Verdict for plaintiff $50, with costs.

John Pearsall vs. Eugene Lawrence.—This was also an action against the same defendant, for assault and battery, committed on the plaintiff, who was a seaman on board the ship America. Verdict for plaintiff $20.

DR. L. MORTAMORE WOULD SAY TO THOSE WHO have contracted diseases, "Cura ut valeas," that is, Take care of thy health. I have devoted many years to my profession, and have treated successfully thousands of patients. Those who wish to consult me on those complaints, can do so (free of charge,) from 8 A. M. to 9 P. M., Sundays excepted. If you value your health, you will avoid those knaves who unblushingly tell you "That they only can cure you, and that their one kind of medicine is all that is necessary for disease in all its forms." Persons whose health has been ruined by these egotists, call upon me daily. 196 William street.

PARIS AND LONDON TREATMENT OF PRIVATE diseases, in a few hours, by a vegetable application, without pain. In all, I guarantee a permanent cure. I have contractions daily I cure without caustic, which others use, caused by their not expelling the disease soon enough. My diploma, with those, and the hundreds of certificates, show that none can equal it. You cured me in one day.—D. M. Corbyn. You expelled my complaint in a few hours.—C. Deroud. I was under the other physicians care a year, without benefit; my body was covered; you cured me in a short time.—John Rollison, jr. I paid over $300 in five years, to be cured of debility from self abuse, without benefit; you cured me, by local and general treatment, in a short time.—Jas. Salisbury. Treatment by letter.
