The excellence of this conveyance is not equalled in any other part of the world. New, gentlemen, if protection means anything, why is it that nine-tenths of the emigrants which leave New York, pay 25 to 50 per cent higher rates? I am not trammeled down with unnecessary expenses, therefore, the above rates allow me a fair compensation. I defy the world to furnish better means of conveyance—no person in the United States has more experience in forwarding, nor a greater wish to be serviceable to the emigrant. My reasons for thus publicly addressing you are, that you may have no plea of ignorance. If emigrants under your care are defrauded and imposed upon—if you hold out the banner of protection, in money give it. Do not use the confidence placed in you by the poor stranger to their disadvantage. My office remains at the old stand, 17 Cedar street, New York. JOHN ALLEN, Ex-Mayor of Rochester.

Summary of Ten Days News.

[From the Alta California, March 15.]

Since the sailing of the California, on the 5th instant, business has revived a little, and the hope and prospect is that we have passed the lowest point of depression. Much of the embarrassment which our business men and others have felt, has been, undoubtedly, in consequence of the extremely dry winter now probably closed, and the indiscriminate shipments of goods made to us from all parts of the world. There are many millions of gold dust lying in the heaps of earth thrown up in the dry diggings by miners, in anticipation and continued hopes of rain to enable them to wash it out—hopes unfortunately disappointed. By the last of May, had the winter been as wet as usual, we have not a doubt that our exports of gold would have been at least ten millions more for the preceding three months than they will then be. A large portion of this dust will now lie in the dirt until next autumn comes with its showers.

Since the postponement of the election of U. S. Senator, our Legislature has gone to work in apparent good earnestness, and have introduced or passed some very good bills. One, especially worthy of notice, is Mr. Heydenfeldt's, upon a Common School System, which seems to meet with very general approbation, and, as we think, deservedly.

The Legislature has also passed an act to hold a special term of the District Court in Solano county, for the purpose of trying McCauley, who is accused of having murdered Judge Selbus. It has also prohibited the sale of lottery tickets, and has appropriated $200,000 and upwards, for the pay of persons engaged in military operations against the Indians. They have also exempted this city from the county assessing and collecting of taxes. This act has, however, been vetoed by the Governor. Many efforts have been made to grant to the city of San Francisco the State's interest in the "water lots" of this place; but, as yet, no bill has become a law. The House refused to suspend all further criminal proceedings against Charles Robinson, a member of that body, and other citizens of Sacramento, by a vote of 14 ayes to 15 noes. The charges against him are for conspiracy and murder, in the Sacramento Squatter troubles. An act has been passed to authorize the Treasurer to negotiate a loan of $500,000. But he has been unable to obtain the loan.

The subject of the Foreign Miners' Tax Act of the last Legislature has excited some attention. A large and enthusiastic meeting against it has been holden in Stockton. It ought to be repealed at once, being unconstitutional, impolitic, and unjust.

The northern mines on Trinity, Scott's, Klamath and other rivers and creeks, still attract much attention, and many have gone thither. Many new rich placers are reported as having been discovered in various parts of the country.

The greatest excitement, since that in reference to Stuart and Wildred, has been caused by orders from Judge Parsons, of the Fourth District Court, citing certain editors to appear before him, and answer for "contempt," in consequence of certain strictures upon his charge to the Grand Jury. The excitement was very great, especially after one of the editors was fined $500, and, refusing to pay, sentenced to close confinement until the fine be paid. The citizens met en masse, denounced Judge Parsons' course, and some advocated taking the prisoner from his cell by force. But cooler counsels prevailed; strong condemnatory resolutions were passed, the judge invited to resign, and our members of the Legislature requested to have him impeached. The matter is not yet decided, although most of the excitement has died away. The accused has been taken before the Superior Court of this city, on a writ of habeas corpus, and discharged.

The Indian Commissioners, with their escort of about a hundred U. S. troops, were at Mariposa at last accounts; so also was the State battalion of volunteers. The latter, or some portion of them, have been guilty of a flagrant outrage in rescuing a prisoner accused of murder, from the hands of the officer. No little indignation has been expressed concerning this substitution of military for civil power, the bowie knife and bayonet instead of the court and jury. No treaty has yet been formed with the Indians.

The strong expression of public indignation in regard to Stuart and Wildred; has had some influence, upon the thieves and robbers, less crime having been committed, we understand, than previous to that outbreak.

The U. S. Assay Office is now in full blast. Messrs. Moffatt & Co., who have the contract, opened their new office on Montgomery street this week, and within two or three hours received about a hundred thousand dollars in dust, deposited to be converted into coin. One effect of this office will be to give honest men a chance to obtain the worth of their gold, and put a check upon the process of adulteration which has been carried on here to a very great extent.

San Francisco is still constantly enlarging her borders, spreading on all sides, up the hills, filling the valleys, walking out towards and beyond North Beach, towards the Presidio, to the south away towards and at the Mission, and especially into the harbor over the water lots, fast filling up the whole shallow part of the harbor in nearly a straight line from Rincon Point on the south to Clark's Point on the east side of the city. Beyond this, streets are being constructed, cut through the rock at the base of the steep hills and fronting on the harbor and shipping. Large and well built brick stores now stand where only a few months' since the water craft were dashing aside the waters of the harbor with their rushing prows.

Two new cities have been incorporated by the present Legislature—Marysville and Nevada. The first was not even "a place," one year ago; now it has a newspaper, a mayor, eight aldermen, and prosperity. But the other had scarcely been organized by election of officers before it was laid in ashes—one hundred and fifty houses being burned, and a million of property destroyed. Full accounts are given in our steamer paper.

Nevada City in Ashes.

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY HOUSES DESTROYED!!—LOSS ONE MILLION DOLLARS—ONE MAN MISSING.

The Sacramento papers contain the painful intelligence that Nevada city, recently so flourishing, has been laid in ruins by a conflagration kindled by the hands of an incendiary. The following are the particulars:

The fire broke out on Wednesday morning, at half-past 1 o'clock, which has completely destroyed the principal business portion of the city, leaving only the houses scattered in the suburbs, now standing! The fire originated in the bowling alley of Mr. Gates, and was supposed to be the work of an incendiary. It appears that a difficulty originated between some Irishmen, one of whom threatened to fire the city, and strong suspicion is entertained against this person. Several persons were implicated in the affair, and the strongest vengeance is threatened against the incendiaries. The whole city was in the very greatest state of excitement, and if the perpetrators are discovered, they will be visited with dire vengeance for the wrongs they have done. The bowling alley was of wood, as also the other buildings, and the fire spread with the greatest rapidity. The fire continued to rage from one o'clock until half-past seven yesterday morning, when the fury of the flames was only stayed because they had no material to devour. One man has been missed, and it is feared that he has fallen
