Sun, shipped in any one week from this port to London or Liverpool, would almost create a panic in the money market; now, a shipment of one and two millions per week for several consecutive weeks, creates no surprise, no panic—not the least change in the stock market or in financial affairs, in any way. It will, therefore, be seen that in this, if in nothing more, California has produced a financial revolution. Whether others will follow as the product of gold in that country increases, or not, time only will determine.

The annexed statement exhibits the condition of the banks of this State on the 20th of March, 1851, compared with the 21st of December, 1850. The March report embraces returns from 212 banks and branches, and the December report returns from 208 banks and branches:—

NEW YORK STATE BANKS.

Total	$169,410,827	$168,826,893

In the March statement there is a discrepancy between the "Total Resources" and "Total Liabilities." This occurs from balances not being forced.

The following table exhibits the condition of the banks on the 28th September, the 21st December, 1850, and the 29th March, 1851:—

	Sept. 28, '50.	Dec. 21, '50.	Mar. 29, '51.
Loans and discounts	$90,728,282	$104,294,922	$105,285,431

Due to banks	22,644,097	25,005,188	25,315,254

From the above figures it will be seen that the banking capital in the State is steadily increasing. In December it was $1,248,058 larger than it was at the date of the previous report, and in March there was a further addition of $1,156,009; showing an aggregate increase in six months of $2,404,067. The Metropolitan and some two or three more banking institutions have gone into operation since March, which has further increased the banking capital of the State some three or four millions. In fact, within the last six or eight months, the banking capital in the city of New York has, by the creation of several new institutions, been increased nearly six and a half millions, equal to twenty-five per cent.

There is a slight increase in loans and discounts, amounting to $1,991,349, and in circulation of $565,272. Specie continues to be drawn from the banks, and the returns show that on the 29th of March there was $2,841,524 less in the vaults than there was at the previous date. On comparing the report of the New York city banks of the same date, we find that $3,022,160 in specie had been drawn from these institutions during the same period, which proves conclusively that the country banks have been gathering in the precious metals. In the line of deposits, the figures show a withdrawal about equal in amount to the specie paid out.
