The Two Operas.

Last evening, the two rival opera troupes performed—one at Niblo's, with a powerful cast, and the other at Astor Place, with a cast still more powerful, if possible—two magnificent troupes—and the performances, which were tragedies, both admirable; yet, strange to say, neither house was near full. Niblo's was not one-fifth full; and Astor Place was little more than half filled Both audiences together would not make one good house.

This result may be partly accounted for by the numbers who were enjoying themselves sleighing, for notwithstanding the cold, perhaps there never were more public and private sleighs out, and all of them crowded.

At Niblo's, the tragic opera of "Lucrezia Borgia" was performed. The part of Lucrezia was acted and sung with great éclat by Rose De Vries, who made some capital points; and Virginia Whiting was much admired as Orsini, particularly in the drinking song. Badiali, as the Duke, and Bettini, as Gennaro, added fresh laurels to their fame. All was excellent, but the house.

At Astor Place the house was better, but not what might be expected on an opening night, with so grand a tragedy ("La Favorita,") and so fine a cast. Steffanone was "the favorite" in every sense of the word She excelled herself, and every body seemed to feel that she never sang so before in that house. She was in good voice, and the delicious, rich melody of her sympathetic tones was truly a feast. Her part was one continued triumph from beginning to end. In some passages she was sublime—electrifying. In several of her songs she produced a perfect furore, with shouts of "Bravo;" the audience waving their hats and handkerchiefs for several minutes. It was in the third scene of the third act she was most brilliant. Never did we hear it so sung by any other vocalist. In the last scenes of the tragedy she was grand. In such lyric tragedies as "La Favorita," Steffanone stands alone.

Salvi, whose voice is not what it was, did not do so well in the beginning; but as he proceeded he warmed up, and towards the close made some palpable hits, which were enthusiastically applauded His acting was very fine. He performed the part of Fernando. Marini, as the King, and Beneventano, as Balthazar, both sustained their parts with great spirit and effect The deep-toned voice of Beneventano peeled like an organ. The chorus was very fine. Rarely, if ever, has this, the best of all Donizetti's operas, been so well performed.

Letter from Henry Clay—His Health.

The following letter has been received from Hon. Henry Clay, by one of his friends in this city :—

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15, 1852.

MY DEAR SIR:—I received your letter of the 12th inst., and, although too weak myself to write in any comfort, I cannot forbear, through the pen of a friend, expressing to you my grateful acknowledgments for the friendly sentiments contained in your letter.

I consider my condition as highly critical. It is a cough of some eighteen months' duration, proceeding from the lower bronchial vessels; it has reduced me in strength and flesh diminished my appetite, and lessened my sleep; it must be arrested or it will terminate fatally. I think the cough is somewhat diminished, and I have certainly felt more comfortable within the last fortnight. I beg you to be assured again of my sincere thanks and profound gratitude. With very high respect, I am your friend and obedient servant, H. CLAY.

Card—Mercantile Library Association.

George Peckham has received the nomination for the Presidency, from the "Regular Nominating Committee," elected by the members, in pursuance of the constitution; from the "Union Nominating Committee," and from the "Regular Opposition Committee"—thus presented as the unanimous and deliberate candidate of large and influential masses of the members.

We endorse earnestly this choice, for the sake of an institution with which the undersigned have fondled for years.

We are inexpressibly pained by the publication of ungentlemanly, if not libellous, personalities—heartless and unmanly attempts to wound the feelings of this gentleman, and his numerous friends.

We hope the natural effect of such assaults upon generous minds will be to elect him by a triumphant majority.

People's Lectures.—Dr. John H. Griscom will deliver the second lecture of this popular course, commencing at 7½ o'clock, this evening, in the Broadway Tabernacle. Tickets, only 12½ cents, to be had at No. 131 Nassau street, and at the door. Subject—"The Physiological Principles of Respiration" Important to every person.

Consult Ease and Comfort this cold weather, and provide yourself with one of the New Hat Company's warm, easy, fine felt Kossuth Hats. Depot, 116 and 118 Nassau street.

There is no Article in the Wardrobe of a gentleman of more importance to his personal appearance than an elegantly-made, well-fitting shirt. It is believed that in this department of costume, GREEN, No. 1 Astor House, takes precedence of all competitors. He invites the test of comparison, and is content to abide the result.

"Get while you're young, for when you get old you can't."—If you do go in boys, go first to T. Smith's, Jr., 162 Fulton street, and secure a suit of good comfortable winter clothing, it will only cost a capital sleigh ride. You will be sure then not to go astray, and there will be no difficulty then in getting the girls to go with you.

Commercial Bank, Perth Amboy.—E. EVANS No. 70 and 72 Fulton street, redeems notes on this bank, at 25 per cent discount, in payment for clothing of all descriptions.

E. A. Brooks, 150 Fulton street, flatters himself that he has the best stock of Boots, Shoes, Gaiters, Slippers, &c., that the city can boast. He is confident that no one can undersell him in articles of the best materials and superior workmanship; and he invites those in want of any article of manufactured shoe leather, to call and satisfy themselves. And if he does not sell better goods, and at lower prices than any other dealers, we are mistaken—that's all.

Watts' Nervous Antidote, nature's fluid for the lamp of life, is as far above all other medicine as the Electric Telegraph is preferable to a pony express. It is so grand a discovery that it is now positively people's own fault if they are diseased or consumptive. All cant have it; the poor to nothing, the rich at a dollar a bottle. J. PINE, 162 Nassau street. Free distribution days, Monday and Thursdays, from 9 to 2 o'clock, 424 Greenwich street.

Cutting Hair and Whiskers skilfully, beautifully, and in every case entirely conforming to the shape and size of the head, as well as the entire appearance of the wearer, by HILL, the inimitable, corner of Pine and Nassau streets.

Gouraud's Liquid Hair Dye is without exception or reservation the very best ever invented; equally celebrated is Gouraud's Medicated Soap, for curing pimples, freckles, sallowness, chaps, chafes, roughness, &c. Poudre Subtile uproots hair from any part of the body. Liquid Rouge, Lily White, and Hair Gloss, at 67 Walker street, near Broadway; Callender, 88 S. Third st., Philadelphia.

Hair-Dye.—Batchelor's celebrated Liquid Hair Dye is the best yet discovered for coloring the hair or whiskers, the moment it is applied. The wonderful ease and certainty with which this favorite and old-established Hair Dye performs is astonishing. It is for sale, or applied, at BATCHELOR'S Wig factory, No. 4 Wall street. Copy the address.

Wigs and Toupees.—Batchelor's New style of Wigs are pronounced the most perfect imitation of nature yet invented. Those wanting a very superior article, should call at BATCHELOR'S celebrated Wig Factory, Not 4 Wall street, where can be found the largest and best assortment in the city. Copy the address.

MONEY MARKET.

MONDAY, Jan. 19—6 P. M.

The stock market opened heavy this morning, but there was no material alteration in prices, except in one or two instances. We notice considerable falling off in transactions, and things look as though we should have a dull time in the street for some time. It is utterly impossible to get the steam up without outside aid. At present this influence is limited, and there are no indications of its increasing much immediately. When stocks are in the hands of outside capitalists, operators in Wall street are usually disposed to bear the market, and by depressing prices induce holders to sell out. The brokers then purchase at the reduction, and at the proper time set the machinery in motion to get up an inflation. Outsiders are drawn in again at higher prices, and so the wheels revolve. Speculators out of the street almost invariably buy at high and sell at low prices, and the probability is that it always will be so. They never can be induced to take hold of fancy stocks at the lowest dip of the market. The lower prices go, the more worthless stocks are considered; and the higher prices go, the more anxious outsiders are to purchase. At present the bulk of fancy stocks is held in Wall street; and we speculators out of the street will not touch them at current rates, the brokers find they must get up an excitement, and inflate prices among themselves, before they can bring in new purchasers. If capitalists would go into the street and buy up large lots of the most depreciated stocks, and keep them put them away, and wait the course of events, they would, without doubt, make Money. An investment of this kind would pay better than any other employment of capital we can now think of. There is little or no risk in it, and good returns are almost guarantied. We have no idea that this advice will be taken. The class of speculators we allude to will wait until prices range ten to fifteen per cent above current rates, when they will rush in, and blindly, recklessly take hold of every stock in the list, good, bad and indifferent.

At the first board to-day, Reading Railroad declined ¼ per cent; Canton Company, ¼; Erie Railroad, 1; Erie Convertible, ⅛, ¼. There appears to be considerable anxiety on the part of holders of Reading to realize, but it is dangerous to put much stock on the market at once. At the second board more than three thousand shares of Erie Railroad stock were sold, and the closing prices show a decline of one and a quarter per cent from those current in the morning. The total decline in this stock to-day is two per cent. Erie and Reading Railroad appear to have lost caste with present holders.

The receipts at the office of the Assistant Treasurer of this port, to-day, amounted to $141,008 48; payments, $44,459 48—balance, $1,948,973 77.

There is no steamer from this port, for Liverpool, until Saturday next, when the Atlantic leaves. It is not known yet how much specie she will take. The Cambria leaves Boston on Wednesday, for Liverpool. The mails close to-morrow (Tuesday). It would be a good plan for the Postmaster to send the mail by the afternoon train over the New Haven route, as the Sound steamers are very uncertain at this season.

The New Jersey Railroad and Transportation Company have declared a semi annual dividend of 5 per cent.

The Utica and Schenectady Railroad Company have declared a dividend of 5 per cent, payable on the stock registered here, at the Phœnix Bank, in this city.

The Superintendent of the Banking Department of this State has given notice that a dividend of ninety-one cents on the dollar, of the circulating notes of the James Bank, and of eighty-one cents on the dollar on the notes of the Bank of New Rochelle, will be paid on their presentation at the Department. Certificates will be given for the unpaid balance in each instance, which will entitle the holders to participate in any further dividend which may be made.

The proceeds of the two mills tax in Illinois, levied in accordance with a special clause of the new constitution of that State, were last year paid to several shrewd financiers of this city, who availed themselves of the opportunity to have a portion of their claims liquidated. This year a larger amount was presented, and the per cent paid was, of course, less. The amount of State indebtedness presented at the Auditor's office for pro rata dividend was $671,771; amount of two mills tax distributed $227,163; per centage distributed, thirty-eight cents and eight mills. The clause of the new constitution requiring the proceeds of this tax to be appropriated to the liquidation of the principal of the internal improvement debt of the State will soon be changed, and the amount appropriated to the paying of the annual interest. There is a large portion of the interest on the debt of the State in arrears since the last funding, and it is simply absurd to pay any portion of the principal, so long as any portion of the full annual interest is unpaid.

The Ohio and Pennsylvania Railroad Company have made a report to their stockholders, by which it appears that this railroad is now completed, and is in running order from Pittsburg to Alliance, a length of 82 miles. The completion of this road affords an unbroken chain of first class roads with Cleveland, Columbus, and Cincinnati, by way of Pittsburg. The trains commenced running on the 6th inst. In the space of two years and a half, a first-class road connection has been established between the public works of Ohio and those of Pennsylvania. The number of passengers carried, from the opening of the first portion of the road to the close of the calendar year, was 56,206. Until very recently, only twenty-eight miles of the road were in use, and the freight business is in its infancy. The receipts from passengers have been $20,074 59, and from freight $2,262 53—making $32,248 12. The expenses have been $14,258 82, and the net receipts $18,084 80. The daily receipts are now rapidly increasing. With the exception of twenty miles east of Pittsburg, the line to Philadelphia and New York is also complete.

The receipts of the Boston, Concord, and Montreal Railroad Company, for December, 1851, amounted to $13,701 94, against $8,391 50 for the corresponding month in 1850, showing an increase of $5,310 44—equal to about sixty-five per cent.

The increase in savings banks, in this and other cities of the Union, is the best evidence in the world of the prosperity of the industrial classes, and the extension of the spirit of economy, which has ever been exhibited in this country. The annexed statement shows the accumulation of deposits from year to year in the savings institutions of Massachusetts, and the increase in the number of depositors :—

SAVINGS BANKS OF MASSACHUSETTS.

Year.	Depositors.	Deposits.	Year.	Depositors.	Deposits.
1834	24,266	$3,407,773	1843	43,217	$6,985,547
1835	27,232	3,921,370	1844	49,699	8,261,345
1836	29,786	4,374,578	1845	58,178	9,813,287
1837	32,564	4,781,426	1846	62,893	10,659,933
1838	33,063	4,869,392	1847	68,312	11,780,812
1839	36,686	5,068,158	1848	69,894	11,970,447
1840	37,470	5,819,563	1849	74,629	12,111,593
1841	41,423	6,714,181	1850	78,823	13,960,024
1842	42,587	6,900,451	1851	86,037	15,354,038

Within this period there have been all sorts of convulsions and revulsions, expansions and contractions, notwithstanding which, there has been a steady increase in the number of depositors, and in the amount of deposits. This is a most extraordinary fact. Three or four times, within the past eighteen years, the commercial and financial classes have been completely prostrated. By these events, thousands upon thousands have been thrown out of employment. The manufacturing interests have met with all kinds of reverses more the result of their own ignorance and folly than of the policy of the government in its financial and commercial systems; and operatives have been at times compelled to work half time, or at reduced wages. All this has had no effect of an unfavorable character, as will be seen by the above table In eighteen years, the depositors increased 62,381, and the deposits, $12,146,815. In 1834, the average amount on deposit, per head, was $140; in 1851, the average, per head, was $180—showing an increase, per head, of $40. This is a favorable feature, and we trust it will continue to increase at the same rate.

The report of the Auditor General of Pennsylvania upon the finances of that State, gives the annexed exhibit of the public debt on the 1st December, 1851 :—

FINANCES OF PENNSYLVANIA—AMOUNT OF DEBT.

	Total		$40,017,102 93

—Of this, $39,216,707 54 was funded, and the balance the unfunded debt. Of the funded debt, $2,514,023 51 bears 6 per cent; $36,704,484 03 bears 5 per cent; and $198,200 4½ per cent.

The loan for the construction of the outlet lock at Wells' Falls (originally $20,000, and now amounting to $12,500,) is not embraced in the foregoing table, for the reason that the faith of the commonwealth is not pledged for its redemption. It is payable out of a fund arising from tolls on boats passing through said lock, and in that fund there was, on the 1st of December, 1851, applicable to a further payment of the principal and interest of said loan, the sum of $3,620 53.

By the act of 16th April, 1851, the State Treasurer was authorized to borrow, on temporary loan, $98,000, to be applied to improving the curves on the Columbia Railroad. This was done. But as the amount is re-imbursable out of the proceeds of the sale to the Reading Railroad Company, of the Schuylkill viaduct, and the railroad leading therefrom to the city of Philadelphia, and is a mere anticipation of some of the instalments from that company, it is not embraced in the above statement nor in the table of loans.

ARCHITECTURE.—J. P. WHITE, ARCHITECT AND Builder, 92 Eleventh street, corner of Second avenue—having removed his office to the above address, wishes to intimate to his friends and the public that he will furnish designs and specifications for buildings in every style. Connected with the above, the advertiser will keep a drawing academy, where young men will get a thorough knowledge of Greek, Roman, and ecclesiastical architecture, and the principle of making calculations from drawings, with the prices of each of the several works. Also, handrailing and a lecturing on the most valuable principles. Illustrations of the several orders of architecture will be furnished, and the pupils will receive the most minute instruction. Modeling and sculpture will be taught by one of the best modellers that this or any other country can produce—having executed the works of over twenty palaces in Europe, and several churches and synagogues in this city. Specimens of the several works can be seen in the extensive show-room
