EXTRADITION TREATY.

U. S. Commissioner's Court.

Before Joseph Bridgham, Esq.

CHARGE OF ATTEMPTING TO MURDER—THE ACCUSED CLAIMED UNDER THE ACT OF TREATY.

THIRD DAY.

JUNE 19.—At the sitting of the court this morning, the Commissioner asked if the accused wished to be examined himself; but, under advice of his counsel, he declined. Mr. Emmet moved to have the testimony as to the prayer book stricken from the case, because the depositions which were the foundation of the evidence of the prayer book have been ruled out. The prayer book, he said, was found in the room of Balfe, and given to the witness, (Meagher.) Therefore, as the information was ruled out of the case, he (Mr. Emmet,) submitted that that particular testimony should also be ruled out.

The motion was refused.

Mr. Busted then asked to have Meagher recalled, for the purpose of cross-examining him in respect to his evidence in chief, on the ground that they understood that all the testimony of that witness in relation to any matter contained in the affidavit, was, together with the affidavit, by the decision of the Commissioner yesterday morning, stricken out of the case and because they understood the Commissioner now to rule that he did not, by that decision exclude the testimony of the witness, (Meagher,) but merely his written deposition as to the contents of which he was examined in chief.

The Commissioner decided that the examination of the witness had been already closed, and could not be reopened.

Mr. Busted then asked for a subpœna for Mr. Barclay, the British Consul, whom he wished to examine as a witness.

Mr. Edwards said there was no necessity for a subpœna, as the consul would come on being notified. He then sent for Mr. Barclay.

Mr. Busted, in the meantime, moved for a dismissal of the complaint, on the ground that there was no evidence that the warrant produced was the original warrant, on which Kaine was sought to be arrested in Ireland; it has no attestation, as required by act of Congress, and that there is no legal evidence that the person who signed the warrant is a magistrate; and also, on the ground that there is no evidence that the warrant was issued after the information of Balfe was in writing; on the contrary, the evidence is that it was issued "before" the affidavit of Balfe was in writing; thirdly, on the ground that the written deposition of Balfe, produced in proof, is too vague and uncertain in its allegations to justify the issuing of a warrant; it alleges no offence, or attempt at any offence, enumerated within the treaty. Upon those grounds, he asked for the dismissal of the whole complaint.

The Commissioner could not decide now, without considering the matter, and reading over the whole of the evidence.

Anthony Barclay, Esq., who by this time had arrived, was then sworn and examined by Mr. Busted, and deposed—I am her Majesty's British Consul at this port; the requisition in this case was signed by me.

Mr. Busted simply wished to ask Mr. Barclay what "other facts" he alluded to in the requisition.

Mr. Edwards objected. The Commissioner admitted the questions but said the counsel for the accused could not go behind the warrant issued by him (the Commissioner.)

Q.—What other facts have you in relation to the matters charged in the warrant in this case, other than those contained in the requisition?

A.—I have no other facts but those transmitted to me in writing; of course I could have no facts from my actual knowledge; all that I am possessed of is in writing, in this dispatch of instructions.

Q.—Are you authorized to pay a reward, on behalf of her Majesty's government, to any person here for any service whatsoever, for the apprehension of Thomas Kaine, or for information respecting where he may be found?

Mr. Edwards objected to the question. The question was admitted, subject to the exception.

The question was repeated. Mr. Barclay answered—I am not authorized.

Q.—Do you know whether or not any reward is to be paid to any person here for such services? A.—I do not know it, either from writing or hearsay; I have seen a handbill, issued in Dublin, and I presume it had reference to a reward to be paid in Ireland; that is an inference of my own. Q.—Have you any knowledge, either in your personal or official capacity, of the participation of the accused in the late political disturbances between Ireland and England, or any information, oral or written, charging him with such participation in any degree, and in respect to any of her Majesty's functionaries in Great Britain or Ireland? A.—I never had the slightest intimation to that effect, even in the confidential communications I had with the officer who came to arrest him, nor in any way nor from any quarter.

John Mooney, a native of Ireland, and born in the county of Westmeath, deposed:—I have been six years in New York. I am residing at 94 St. Marks place. I know James Balfe, of Shurock, county of Westmeath; I have known him since I was able to know any one, perhaps ten years before I came to this country. Q.—Do you know what his reputation is for truth and veracity?

Mr. Edward objected. He submitted that this was not a trial for the offence, and that the Commissioner could not set aside the warrant issued by a magistrate of a friendly power. The question should not be admitted when Mr. Balfe was not here to defend himself.

Mr. Busted contended for the admissibility of the question, and said that if he could prove that Thomas Balfe stands unworthy of belief, the Commissioner would not be bound to issue his warrant for the extradition of the accused. The statute did not provide that the testimony produced before a commissioner should not be impeached.

The Commissioner remarked that he sat there merely as a magistrate, under the State law, to discharge the accused if there is no "probable cause" shown, and to commit him if there is "probable cause."

Mr. Busted continued, and said that he intended to swear away the case for the prosecution—and God being their aid and honest men their witnesses, they would swear it away, and leave the British government not a leg to stand on in this case.

The Commissioner overruled the question as to the veracity of Balfe. He did not consider that he had a right to go behind the warrant issued by the magistrate.

Counsel for the accused said they had a number of witnesses who knew Balfe, and who would swear that he was not worthy of belief under oath. They therefore excepted to the ruling of the Commissioner.

Witness continued—I was born within a quarter of a mile from the town of Moate, and lived there until the time I left to come to this country; I am acquainted, I think, with the town of Moate and its surrounding neighborhood; I am acquainted with Godeen; I don't know where Balfe's mother lived; I know Temple Hill.

Q.—How far is it from Godeen to Temple Hill?

Mr. Edwards objected, as it was attempted to affect the evidence of the officer with regard to distances. They could not falsify a witness except in relation to matter brought out on the direct examination.

The Commissioner said, if it was collateral matter he could not go into it.

Mr. Emmet said their object was to show the distance between Godeen and Temple Hill and that if Mr. Balfe, within an hour after the occurrence, walked a long distance, there was no danger of his life.

The question was admitted. The witness said he should think it was four miles; there are no mile stones, but the people call it four miles; he thinks it is two miles and three quarters from Godeen to Temple Hill, if you didn't go across the fields; I don't know the name of the priest at Temple Hill.

The witness was not cross-examined.

Patrick Rourke deposed that he was born on the townland of Shurock, county Westmeath; knows where Mount Temple is; it is about two miles and three-quarters, or a little over, from Godeen to Mount Temple.

Mr. R. Emmet said that they had one other witness, but he was not now present.

The Commissioner asked what they expected to prove by him.

Mr. Emmet said—He, the witness, was present at the examination of Stone for this very offence, and would prove what Meagher deposed on that examination.

Mr. Edwards said if the witness were here he should object to the testimony. They could not prove the examination by a bystander; they should have the magistrate's notes; and as to the testimony of Meagher, they could not kill that by the evidence of one witness.

The Commissioner said he could not go into the evidence of the examination of Stone.

Mr. Emmet then remarked that there were other witnesses who are from that part of the country; but however innocent they may be of the offence, they, counsel, did not deem it prudent to bring them here, to subject them to be arrested and carried away. If the counsel for the British Consul would state that he had no warrants for any other persons in this case, they would produce those witnesses.

Mr. Edwards did not deem it necessary to go out of this case to answer any questions.

Mr. Emmet then said, with the exception of one witness, (Mr. O'Brien) our case is closed.

The Commissioner said he would wait a reasonable time for him.

A recess was taken for half an hour, when, on reassembling, counsel proceeded to sum up, and the matter still stands adjourned.

Police Intelligence.

A Case of Arson.—Arrest on Suspicion.—On Friday evening between 6 and 7 o'clock, a fire was discovered in the cabinet work-shop, in the rear of 203 Bowery, occupied by a German named Peter Kroner. When the alarm of fire was made, it seems that only a short time previous the shop had been vacated by Kroner, who had locked the door and went home. Mr. George Donaldson, who resides in the front house, went forthwith to the shop, on witnessing the smoke issuing from the premises, and on breaking open the door, he saw distinctly a blaze of fire burning from three places in the shop, disconnected with each other. This fact, in connection with other circumstances, convinced Mr. Donaldson that the shop had been designedly set on fire. The firemen were soon on the spot; and after the flames were extinguished, the police, on hearing the suspicious circumstances, directed their attention towards the owner of the shop, and in a short time he was pointed out to Capt. Bradford, of the Tenth ward police, who took Kroner into custody, on suspicion that he fired the shop as above described. The accused yesterday morning was conveyed before Justice Wood, at the third District Court, who committed him to prison for a further examination. The most curious part of the testimony consists of the evidence of two intelligent little girls, aged about eleven years, who were yesterday taken before the magistrate, and stated in substance as follows:—The first little girl, named Mary Ann Burns, residing next door to the fire, stated that about six o'clock that evening herself and Mary Fitzsimmons, and two or three other little girls about their own age, were playing in the alley leading to the workshop, and that the witness took the other children up on the platform near the workshop, for the purpose of showing them the flowers in the adjoining yard. On reaching the platform, they saw Kroner by his own door, putting on his coat. Kroner then called to the witness and the others to clear out and be off. They then all ran down stairs again into the alley, but finding that he did not come after them, they returned again up stairs on the platform; and Mary Burns says she looked through the keyhole, and saw Kroner distinctly scratching matches and setting fire to the shavings. The other witness, Mary Fitzsimmons, states that she saw Kroner leave the shop, lock the door, and run down stairs. She then went and looked through the window, and saw sparks flying up from the shavings in the shop. Both these children tell the same story, which is partially corroborated by the evidence of Mr. Donaldson. The accused was insured in the Stuyvesant Fire Insurance Company for $700; also, we are informed, another policy of insurance exists in some office in Wall street. The whole matter will be fully investigated before the magistrate.
