Daguerreotypes by Brady.—The public are respectfully invited to examine the prize Pictures exhibited at the World's Fair, together with a large collection of the portraits of most of the distinguished men of our country, at BRADY'S Gallery, 205 Broadway, corner of Fulton street.

If you have a Daguerreotype of your child taken every year, from infancy to adolescence, you will have a picture history of its life—valuable if it lives, valuable if it dies. Would you the vraisemblance perfect throughout the series, you may secure that object by having the pictures taken at ROOT'S celebrated gallery, 363 Broadway.

Gem Painting.

Tell me I pray, oh mighty sun! whence is thy magic art? Hast from a single touch of thine, such life-like features start?

Hast thou a Raphael by thy side, to guide thy golden pencil? Or lauds—that thus thou wilt away the meed of living men?

Such was the exclamation of a gifted daughter of song, as she walked through the elegant Daguerrian Gallery of GURNEY, 349 Broadway, corner of Leonard street, and admired the beautiful and unequalled specimens of the art, that grace the walls of that famous establishment.

We call the attention of Printers to the advertisement in another column, relative to the disposal of an interest in an office in this city. Such a chance is seldom met with. The price is low and terms easy.

Curious Freaks of Electricity.—This damper, which is of no ordinary magnitude, is daily committing awful ravages, and, singular as it is that life and property can be perfectly protected, at a trifling expense of $4 or $5 for a conductor, which at this present day are made so perfect, and have been tried so often as not to admit of a single doubt, being as sure of protection as telegraph wires are to convey communication. Insurance companies' deduction in price of insurance would pay for a conductor in three years. Persons interested will call at 156 Broadway, where may be found Points, Glazes, Rods, and everything in the line.

Violins.—All really valuable Inventions are pirated, but we shall keep an eye upon certain parties who began by disparaging and ended by stealing William S. Tilton's patented improvement of the violin, &c. No person in New York city is authorized by us, or knows how to do this difficult work. The following additional testimonial is from a distinguished Professor, well known in Europe and America:—"I have had Mr. Tilton's invention applied to my violins, and have great pleasure in stating the result to be a great improvement in the tone of the instruments, both with regard to quantity and power. Bernard Molique. London, April 6, 1852." N. B.—C. G. Christman keeps a supply of these instruments at his wholesale store, No. 464 Pearl street, and at No. 605 Broadway. Mr. C. has just had another case of instruments improved, and will not as our agent in future.

Last Week and This—Last week an elderly gentleman of our acquaintance hobbled—actually hobbled into our office and with many lamentations, took a seat in our editorial sanctum. His feet were covered with bunions and corns, and he had a new pair of boots on. He said that he would give any thing for a pair of new boots, shoe gaiters, or slippers, that would fit him handsomely and easily, and spare his calloused bunions. We sent him to E. A. BROOKS, of No. 150 Fulton street. Yesterday he came to us and said Brooks had relieved him of all his miseries.
