THE TURF.

UNION COURSE, L. I.—PACING.—NORTH AGAINST the South.—Thursday, September 9, at half past 3 o'clock Purse of $200 mile heats, best three in five to harness Mr H. Jones enters r. g. Pet; Mr H. Woodruff enters g. Tecumseh; Mr. Roff enters r. g Roanoke; S C enters r. m. Cayuga Maid. The announcement of a meeting between Pet, Tecumseh Roanoke, and Cayuga Maid has created no slight sensation in the sporting community, and the money that will change hands on this occasion it is impossible to conjecture. They are acknowledged to be without equality in the whole world. The time made by these horses is, as yet, unsurpassed, and no doubt this generation will never see it equalled. Pet has made his mile in 2.29½, and Tecumseh; while Roanoke, the far famed Southern horse, is an equal for either of them. But Cayuga Maid what have we to say of her? All we can say is that her past deeds speak in stronger language than any we could utter. No other opportunity to witness these horses together will probably ever again occur, so that the friends of these sports may be on hand on the above day. Cars leave South Ferry, for the Course, at 2 o'clock precisely, and return as soon as the sports are over. Fare, each way, 25 cents. JOHN I. SNEDIKER, Proprietor.

The Massachusetts Democratic State Convention.

GRAND FLARE UP—WITHDRAWAL OF THE HUNKERS—CANDIDATES FOR GOVERNOR AND OTHER OFFICERS NOMINATED BY THE COALITIONISTS, ETC.

FITCHBURG, Sept. 8, 1852.

The Democratic State Convention met here to-day, and was largely attended from all parts of the State. The warm disputes of the previous night, between the hunkers and coalitionists, led every one to feel that a decisive crisis in the party had arrived, as all attempts at compromise, previous to the meeting failed.

Soon after the election of a President, (the Hon. N. Wood, coalitionist, by a large majority), Mr. S. D. BRADFORD, of West-Roxbury, who was the organ of the national democrats, offered the following:—

Resolved, That believing the coalition of the Democratic party, with the Free Soil party, to have been fruitful only in evil to the best interests of the former, the democrats of Massachusetts repudiate all such connection.

This he finally, after an angry and exciting discussion, succeeded in having committed to the Committee on Resolutions, with instructions to report upon it.

The body then adjourned for dinner.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The Convention got into another squabble about the nomination of governor, the Hunkers claiming that the platform should be first adopted; but here, as on every vote, the coalitionists had a triumphant majority.

At this point a national democrat asked all who were opposed to further coalition to retire from the hall.

They consequently retired to another room, and appointed S. D. Bradford temporary chairman, and voted to await the action of the regular Convention against coalition.

The regular Convention was densely crowded—nearly 2 000 persons being present.

Henry W. Bishop, of Lenox, was nominated for Governor, by 834 out of 1.152 votes—the minority being chiefly for David Henshaw and Pilny Merrick.

The Committee on Resolutions reported the Baltimore platform, and eulogized the national candidates. The resolution of Mr. Bradford, they reported, without comment, for the action of the Convention.

A coalitionist immediately moved to lay it on the table.

A scene of indescribable confusion ensued—a dozen persons were crying out "Mr. President," and as many others were calling out "Order," and moving the previous question.

The opponents of the coalition tried in vain to speak upon the resolution.

Order having been partially restored, the Convention laid the resolution upon the table by a decisive vote, amid the cheers of the coalitionists.

The hunkers, to the number of 200 or 300, left the hall.

The Convention then proceeded to nominate Hon. James B. Thompson, of New Bedford, as a candidate for Lieutenant Governor.

Charles G. Greene, of Boston, and James S. Whitney, of Conway, were also nominated as electors at large.

After the transaction of other business, the Convention adjourned, sine die.

TRANSACTIONS OF THE SECEDERS.

The seceders, or national democrats, organized permanently, by electing S. D. Bradford, President, with a large number of Vice Presidents and Secretaries.

A Provisional State Committee was appointed, and also a Committee on Resolutions, who subsequently reported a series, in which they state that, as opposition to the Fugitive Slave law is the fundamental principle of the free soil party, therefore, a coalition with that party is entirely inconsistent with the democratic platform; and that all true democrats, who desire faithfully to adhere to both nomination and platform, and who desire to preserve their principles from the contaminating influences of abolitionism, are compelled to withdraw and express their firm and decided protest against this action of the convention—and finally, that the previous coalition had been only fruitful of evil to the democratic party, and that the democrats of Massachusets repudiate all such unnatural connections, and will never coalesce with any party maintaining principles destructive to their own.

The resolutions were adopted with shouts of applause.

A committee was appointed to report hereafter a State address.

Speeches were made denouncing the regular convention.

After giving the Provisional Committee power to call a convention of the true democracy, if deemed expedient, the meeting dissolved.

Mr. Green did not bolt from the regular convention, though he was in favor of Mr. Bradford's resolution.

Mr Hallett was absent.

The bolters are not chiefs in the party, but are hard working men; many are from the vicinity of Boston, but there are some strong men from the South and West

It is thought that they will support the Pierce and King electoral ticket, nominated by the other section of the party.

Convention of Colored People.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 8, 1852.

There was a large attendance to-day at the State Convention of colored people. George Cox, of Oberlin, was the President.

The meeting was ably addressed by the Rev. Mr. Pennington of New York city, and others.

To-morrow the jubilee in commemoration of the deeds of colored soldiers takes place.

The Woman's Rights Convention.

SYRACUSE, Sept. 8, 1852.

THE TEMPORARY ORGANIZATION, ETC.

This Convention met this morning, at ten o'clock, at the City Hall, and was temporarily organized by the appointment of Mrs. Paulina H Davis, of Providence, R. I., as Chairwoman. Miss Lucy Stone, of Mass., was appointed Secretary, and read the call of the meeting, which enjoins upon lovely woman, with her own right hand, to carve out her destiny.

LETTERS FROM MRS. READ, HORACE GREELEY, ETC.

A letter was read from Mrs. Hugo Read, of England; also, a letter from Horace Greeley, which was well received, and in which he says that bread lies at the foundation of all moral and political reform, including Woman's Rights.

THE PERMANENT OFFICERS OF THE CONVENTION.

A committee was appointed to nominate officers. After due consultation, the committee made the following report:—

President—Lucretia Mott of Pa.

Vice Presidents—Mrs. E. Oakes Smith, of N. Y.; Mrs. Paulina H. Davis, of R. I.; Gerret Smith, of N. Y.; Mrs. Clementina W. Nichols, of Brattleboro, Vt.; and Sarah L. Miller, of Pa.

The President addressed the meeting at some length.

LETTERS, SKETCHES, ETC.

A letter was also received from Wm Channing, in which he says, that a little boy of his died—a very plump, spirited little creature, and therefore he has no heart to write to the Convention in reference to its principles.

In the course of the morning a letter was read from G. W. Johnson of Buffalo, enclosing $10.

A Voice—Is the writer a man or a woman.

Mrs. DAVIS.—A woman.

Mrs. E. OAKES SMITH wanted the names plainly given in full. In the beginning of our enterprise, we want all our honors and privileges. (Laughter.)

Mrs. WRIGHT, read the address of the Convention held at Westchester, Pennsylvania.

Mrs. NICHOLS, suggested that if the popular elections were not proper places for the woman to vote at, special places and days might be set a part for them.

REPORT OF THE BUSINESS COMMITTEE.

The following resolutions were then submitted by Mrs. Rose on behalf of the Business Committee, as part of their report:—

Inasmuch as many of the institutions handed down to us from the past, like heirlooms, are felt to be, though time-honored, hindrances to human progress, or to the spread of that Divine truth, which gives light to the world—Therefore,

Resolved, That it is our duty to examine these institutions and to ascertain which of them are still worthy of honor and support—which we should seek to reform, and which to cast aside.

Resolved, That it is the right of every one holding property as a citizen of the republic, to resist taxation till such time as she is fully represented at the ballot box.

FREE EXPRESSION OF OPINIONS.

It was agreed that the discussion should be open to all persons, whether opposed or friendly to this cause.

A GOOD MOVEMENT—WIRE-PULLING OF THE SEWARDITES.

It is understood that a resolution will be offered pledging the Convention to General Scott, Greeley and Seward. Agents are here working hard for this, but Gerrit Smith will oppose it.

APPEARANCE OF THE ASSEMBLAGE, ETC.

The meeting is not as yet so numerous as it was last year, but it is very orderly and enthusiastic. There are very few of the masculine gender present. There are only two Bloomers but a great many blooming pretty girls and married women, dressed in the pink of fashion. Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Oakes Smith are particularly fine.

The convention adjourned at twelve o'clock, till two in the afternoon.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Convention re-assembled at two o'clock.

GERRIT SMITH'S OPINION OF WOMEN'S RIGHTS.

GERRIT SMITH reported the following resolutions:—

Resolved, That the demand of woman is not for privileges, nor favor, nor employment, nor honors—but for rights.

Resolved, That the rights of human beings to their own persons, to their own earnings and property, and to participate in the choice of civil rulers, are rights which belong as naturally and absolutely to woman as to man.

Resolved, That we hold such woman never to consent to hold any
