THE CANADA BANK FORGERY CASE—DECISION RENDERED, AND THE ACCUSED PARTIES REQUIRED TO FIND BAIL.

Before Justice Stuart.

As we anticipated, the magistrate yesterday announced his decision in the alleged Canada bank forgery case pending against Daniel W. Van Aernam, Jabez L. White, P. W. Sawin, and John W. Abell, who stand charged with forging and uttering a draft on the Hamilton Exchange Bank, Hamilton, Madison county, by which means the Bank of Montreal was defrauded out of $5,000. Justice Stuart read the decision in the presence of the defendants' counsel; but from its extreme length we are compelled, for want of space, to omit its publication. The Justice has evidently bestowed considerable time in search of the legal matter on which he has based his opinion; and in making a final disposition of the case, he draws some what of a distinction between the conduct of John W. Abell and that of the other defendants. He infers that Abell might have been imposed upon and persuaded to sign his name to the drafts, without any guilty knowledge, and in that event he intended to make a distinction, and not to require so large an amount of bail from Abell as he intends to exact from the other three defendants. The accused are held by the magistrate to answer a charge of forgery alleged to have been perpetrated in this city. At present the magistrate has not fixed any specific amount of bail. Van Aernam is the only one that is at present contained in custody. He was arrested a few days ago on the authority of President Pierce under the Ashburton treaty, instituting an inquiry into the charge of forgery. The case was taken before Judge Morris, of the Supreme Court, before whom the investigation is now pending.

COMMON COUNCIL.—At the meeting of the Common Council on Tuesday evening, the Committee on Sewers presented a bill, to be submitted to the Legislature, entitled "A bill for the construction of works having for their object the drainage of Jersey City." It comprises the system of sewerage adopted by the Common Council, and gives the Water Commissioners power to construct those works accordingly, the Commissioners to have a lien upon the property benefitted thereby, the same as in case of an assessment for street improvements. It gives them the right to collect tolls upon the canal, and compel them to build bridges and keep them in repair. After some debate the chairman of the committee was directed to present the bill to the Legislature.

BRIDGES.—The Common Council on Tuesday night repealed the ordinance requiring the stages to follow their licensed route, and authorized the proprietors to take up and set down passengers where they please.

PUPILS OF YATES ACADEMY EXPELLED FOR ATTENDING DANCING SCHOOL.—Some eight pupils have been expelled from Yates Academy, Orleans county, for attending a dancing school. The pupils were residents of Yates, and were attending the academy under the direction of their parents. A meeting of the inhabitants of the town was held a short time since, to take into consideration the alleged illegality of the expulsion. It is claimed that the trustees of the academy have transcended their powers in expelling the pupils, inasmuch as the academy is a public institution, sustained by state moneys, and is under the care and supervision of the Regents of the University. We learn that the matter is to be brought before the Regents.—Rome Sentinel, Feb. 7.

BLOWING UP THE ICE IN THE MISSISSIPPI.—Several experiments have been made within the past three or four days to see whether it may be practicable to open a channel across the river for the ferry boats, by blowing up the ice with powder. A two-gallon keg, filled with powder, was sunk to the depth of twelve or fourteen feet, near the Illinois shore, opposite Pine street, and it was fired by means of a blasting fuse, run through a copper tube. The explosion produced no effect except cracking the ice for some distance around, and making a loud report. Another attempt was made on this side of the river, with little better success.—St. Louis Republican, Feb. 1.

The Land of Gold.—No. 6.

In vain they "prospected" each dreary ravine;
In vain they explored where no white man had been;
The riches they fondly expected to clasp,
Like the "Will-o'-the-wisp," still eluded their grasp.

And so will a really good portrait elude you, until you go to BOOT, No. 363 Broadway, whose work has just borne off the prize at the World's Fair. Judge for yourself. Gallery open free, day and evening.

New Invention in Daguerreotyping.—This important invention to facilitate the production of pictures, consists in the peculiar construction of a double or treble working camera, to take two or three pictures at once, by BERRA & CO., the twenty five cent picture makers, No 289 Broadway.
