vited to meet at the Tabernacle on Saturday evening, the 18th inst., at seven o'clock precisely, to utter their stern protest against the threatened breach of faith and their determined hostility to any encroachment by the slave power on the rights of free labor in the territory secured by that compact."

VALENTINE'S HISTORY OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK.—We learn with some surprise that the first edition of this work (3 000 copies) has not been exhausted, and that the author, under the present state of encouragement does not feel disposed to complete the remaining parts of the work. This is to be regretted, as the competency of Mr. Valentine, above all others, to do justice to this particular subject, is generally admitted; and it was expected that the conclusion of his labors would have given us a history of the rise and progress of this wonderful metropolis worthy of the subject, and an enduring memorial of things gone by.

Our Erie Correspondence.

ERIE, Feb. 13, 1854.

Quiet Times in Erie—Bill in Equity Against the Railroad Company—Propositions to be Brought Before the Legislature—Proceedings in the Criminal Court—Presentment and Indictments—Motion to "Quash," &c

With the exception of proceedings in the criminal court against railroad directors and employés, nothing worthy of note has transpired here since the departure of Gov Bigler. Quiet continues to prevail, and good order is the order of the day. There appears to be a general determination to seek a legal adjustment of the difficulties which still exist between the people and the railroad company. It is conceded that the Legislature and the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania must settle the controversies—the former by such action as may be necessary in relation to the road from Erie to the Ohio State line, and the latter by a decision upon the bill in equity now pending in that court against the Erie and Northeast Railroad Company, and which seeks the forfeiture of its charter on various grounds of alleged fraud in its original organization and subsequent proceedings, abuse of its privileges, violations of law, &c.

The Supreme Court is not now in session, but will assemble on the first of March, at which time the case will probably be argued.

Meantime the proceedings of the Legislature will be watched with extreme solicitude. The road built by the Franklin Canal Company along the lakeshore from Erie west to the State line, being now in the possession of the State authorities, the final disposition which may be made of it becomes a matter of great importance to all interests. Several propositions will be presented upon the Legislature the principal of which are the following:—

It is proposed to charter a new company, with power to purchase the present road and build another if a purchase cannot be effected. This charter would be given upon condition of extending the road to the harbor of Erie, and prohibiting a connection with any road running eastwardly, except of the six feet or four feet eight inch track.

Another proposition is to give to the Sunbury and Erie Railroad Company the right of extending its route along the Lake shore to the Ohio line. This it is believed by many, would give to Philadelphia an advantage over New York and Boston, in securing the trade of the West, and will probably be strongly supported by the Philadelphia members.

Another suggestion is that the State shall become the owner of the road, by paying the stock and bond holders in five per cent State securities, and that a perpetual lease shall then be executed to the Cleveland and Painesville Company, thus giving a continuous road, under the same management, from Cleveland to Erie which is a very important object to the company just named. The proposition is understood to come from that interest, and there will be a great effort to secure the adoption of it or a similar measure. It may be proper to mention in this connection what may not be generally known, namely, that the Cleveland and Painesville company owns nearly all of the stock of the Franklin Canal Company, and is therefore in every way deeply interested in the legislation which shall be had on the matter.

It is not likely that the State will undertake to retain and manage the work, although some of the members of the Legislature are known to favor that plan. The State has already more public works under its care than it can manage with advantage, and although some of those patriotic citizens who are always ready to serve their country for a quid pro quo might thereby secure good places as superintendents, collectors, &c., it is not at all likely they will be gratified.

In the Court of Quarter Sessions of Erie county, which held its session here last week, Hon. J. Galbraith, presiding Judge, the Grand Jury made the following presentment:—

The Grand Inquest of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that now is inquiring in and for the body of the county of Erie, on their oths and affirmations respectively do present—That the railroad track and embankments constructed and maintained by the Erie and Northeast Railroad Company on and across Parade street, German street Peach street, and Holland street, and the bridges so erected and maintained by said company over French street and State street, in the city of Erie, (said streets being common public highways of said county,) are respective ly common public nuisances, and greatly impede and obstruct the free use of said streets as public highways."

Signed by J. M. White, Foreman of the Jury, and twenty one others.

A similar presentment was made of the railroad crossings at Harbor Creek; and on these several presentments indictments were drawn by the District Attorney, and by the same Grand Jury immediately passed upon and found to be "true bills," and so returned. The several cases were then continued until the May sessions the defendants giving bail for their appearance at that time.

There are eight indictments in all, and the defendants named in them are Dean Richmond, John A Tracy Milton Courtright J. H. Walker Prescott Metcalf, Dexter Rich, Thos. Dolson, and Joe Lowe The five first named are directors of the Erie and Northeast road.

On Friday the counsel for the defendants made a motion to "quash" six of the indictments, for the following reasons:—

"First—The indictments purport to be founded on the presentment to this Court by the Grand Jury to this term, when in fact such presentment was made not upon the knowledge of the Grand Jury or any member thereof, but upon the representations made by witnesses who were admitted before the jury to testify.

"Second—Because the whole matters complained of in the indictments are already and for some weeks past have been at issue and pending in the Circuit Court of the United States for the Western district of Pennsylvania, and in the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania."

This motion raises two legal questions which will be argued on the 4th of March next.

The Circuit Court of the United States, the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, the Quarter Sessions of Erie county, the State Legislatures of this State, Ohio and New York and Congress (to say nothing of several Justices of Peace,) having taken these difficulties in hand, I think I am safe in venturing an opinion that they will either be speedily adjusted or badly mixed up. G.

Albany Street Trinity Churchyard.—Mr. Editor:—What possible advantage do the advocates of this measure expect to gain? While the necessities are less, there are already more openings into Broadway in the vicinity of Trinity Church than on the opposite side Besides, from the nature of the ground Thames and Rector streets are so steep that many carmen prefer going round by the battery rather than traverse them with heavy loads; consequently, these streets are rarely ever crowded. Now observe—the proposed street when completed will differ in grade from Rector or Thames street only the fraction of one foot in the whole line, as shown by the certificate of an engineer and surveyor. It will therefore add nothing to the convenience of the public. We do not hesitate to say, from a careful survey of the premises, that all this parade about public good is a mere pretence. There is a more powerful motive actuating the disinterested gentlemen viz., private gold—the lust of gain has created all this clamor. We trust, therefore, that this crowning act of infamy of an infamous Council will be forever rebuked by the reformed body that an outraged and indignant public have put in their places. A VOTER.

THE PHYSICIAN WHO IS ENGAGED TO THE daughter of a retired merchant, living in ——, who would have married her had it not been for the interposition of her father, wishes to know if she retains that love for him which she has hitherto manifested; and if she does, to favor him with a reply to this advertisement directed as her previous letters have been, as he believes her liberty to be restricted, she had better assume another name. The letters that have been written to her since the 6th of this month have probably fallen into the hands of her father, judging from a letter he has written to him. In case it might be necessary, I would state that the character of this physician stands unblemished, and worthy of the daughter of any merchant. It would be esteemed a favor if any communication in reply to this would be sent before the expiration of a week. C——N B. K——R.
