Go! For Nebraska.

A paper, entitled the Nebraska Democrat, is now published at Nebraska City. It is destined to be one of the greatest towns in Nebraska. The Fremont County Journal says:—"Already claims have been made upon all lands in Nebraska Territory, within five miles of Nebraska City site. This speaks loudly for the importance attached to this embryo city. We do not consider, however, those who have thus made claims have any right upon the soil, and we think their action in the premises entirely too hasty, and calculated in a measure to retard the ratification of the treaties at Washington.

[From the Chicago Tribune, Feb. 24.]

We yesterday received a letter from "Captain D. S. Wiche, of the Rocky Mountains," informing us that he would visit our city in a very few days, for the purpose of raising a company of young men to go immediately to the Territory of Nebraska, now holding so prominent a place in the public attention, for the purpose of settling and laying claim to some of the most valuable land in the West. The company should be ready to march by the first day of April next. Their outfit should consist of one good rifle, plenty of ammunition, and a good hunting knife for each person. But very little clothing in the opinion of the captain, will be required. The valiant captain informs us that he is a mountaineer, and is thoroughly acquainted with the country from the mouth of the Big Platte river to the Yellow Stone river, and from little river down to the Sargeant Hills. He is well acquainted with most of the Indian tribes of this section of the country, and can speak their language fluently. The trip will occupy from three to five months. The captain describes the country through which the expedition will pass as one of the most beautiful portions of the Great West. It abounds with elk, deer, bears, and buffalos. The forests are majestic, and the prairies enchanting.

Brady was the First to establish the Superiority of American daguerreotypes. At the World's Fair, in Hyde Park, London, 1851, he received the prize medal for the best pictures; also at the Crystal Palace in New York, he was awarded the prize medal. Many improvements have been introduced, and his portraits, taken at 359 Broadway, over Thompson's Saloon are unequalled in all the points which constitute a faultless picture.

"It is the song my mother sings,
And gladly do I list the strain;
I never hear it but it brings
The wish to hear 't sung again."

One of the most Affecting Exhibitions of art ever seen is the Old Arm Chair Daguerreotypes, in a series of exquisite pictures by ROOT, of No. 363 Broadway. CRYSTAL PALACE.

TO THE STOCKHOLDERS OF THE ASSOCIATION FOR the Exhibition of the Industry of All Nations:—Gentlemen—The papers have informed the public of the partial want of pecuniary success which has thus far attended your enterprise, and of the wish felt by some of you to place it in the hands of men experienced in conducting popular exhibitions. I desire to lay before you a proposal which I hope may meet your views; but as your committee are on Tuesday evening to report their nominations for directors for the ensuing year, and as the election of the board occurs next Monday, it is impossible for me, ignorant of your names and addresses, to reach you by the ordinary means. I therefore beg leave to communicate to you through the channel by which I have received information, my proposal.

First—I will buy the Crystal Palace and its appurtenances, out and out, from you, at a fair price, to be settled between us on further and more complete communication—provided you can assign to me your lease.

Or, second—I will purchase the whole or a major part of the stock, provided that, in the latter case, the management of the exhibition shall be placed under my control for the ensuing year.

It will be my plan to continue the exhibition for the same general purpose as heretofore, but in a way to obtain satisfactory pecuniary results. I am ready to give assurance that this proposal is made in good faith, and will be so carried out; and shall be glad to communicate with any of you more fully than I can now do respecting the particular means by which the exhibition can, in my judgment be rendered as successful as it has been brilliant. Those who consider the proposal favorably, or wish to arrange for the sale of their stock, may call upon or address me at Academy Hall, No. 663 Broadway. JOSIAH PERHAM.
