evidently determined—in spite of the Africanization of Cuba—resolutely determined, to keep on the right side of John Bull. The new treaty upon the fisheries and British colonial reciprocities is a proof of it; and our Premier's last recommendation of an appropriation of some three hundred thousand dollars to buy out the real estate and fixtures of the Hudson's Bay squatters in the Territories of Oregon and Washington, is conclusive of a most beautiful state of friendship between our whole Cabinet and the British Minister. The rant and cant of the Washington Union, threatening a war against the combined land and naval forces of Spain, England and France, on the Cuba question, was all humbug. It was simply intended to frighten Queen Isabella into the sale of the island to Mr. Soulé; and having failed, the expedient has been abandoned. We shall have no war with England anyhow, if our Cabinet can prevent it. John Bull may Africanize Cuba, seize the whole of Central America, and still we are safe.

Indeed, the occasion is inviting to England to seize upon Cuba itself; for with three or four Generals in the Cabinet who have been in the wars, and several warlike Colonels in the Kitchen Cabinet, this administration is as harmless as that of General Taylor. The purchase of the possessory rights of the Hudson's Bay Company on our side of the Oregon line, may be a very good thing; but in connection with the fisheries and reciprocity treaty, and with the rejection of Major Borland's Central American treaty, it dishes young America. Sir Henry Bulwer was right, and John Bull knows how to take advantage of a "weak administration." Marcy has got a new pair of breeches. There can be no doubt about it. The fishery treaty is to be ratified; the Hudson's Bay Company will be bought off; our Northern boundary is to be surveyed and marked all the way through to the Pacific, so that no occasion for trouble with England hereafter may exist. "Peace hath its victories no less renowned than war." Our Premier is evidently on the side of England against Russia. Let us "rejoice at the beams of peace."

THE HALF-AND-HALF HOMESTEAD BILL—RIVERS AND HARBORS.—We published yesterday from the National Intelligencer, a synopsis of the Homestead bill, in the transmogrified form in which it passed the Senate the other day. It is a funny specimen of a bill, "neither fish, flesh, nor good red herring," but a dish of salmagundi made up of all three. It comprehends three or four great principles, to wit:—

1. A reduction or graduation of the prices of the public lands.

2. Pre-emption rights, giving the first right to the States respectively in which the public lands may lie, to the whole of them, at the reduced and graduated prices.

3 Pre-emption grants of land to States for railroads and canals, at the reduced and graduated prices.

4 Pre-emption rights to hold good for five years to actual settlers, heads of families, for one hundred and sixty acres each, at the lowest reduction of twenty-five cents per acre, or twelve and a half cents for such lands as may have been in the market over twenty years.

Upon the whole the bill is admirably framed for the benefit of the railroad land jobbers, and speculators generally, and for the delusion of the poor squatters; for while the actual settler is limited to one hundred and sixty acres, the speculator may buy ten thousand or ten millions of acres, according to the funds which he may be able to command.

The bill, as thus modified by the Senate, has yet to be concurred in by the House and by the President before it can become a law. It is very likely the House will concur, if they are not too much pre-occupied with patent monopolies and special stockjobbing land grants. Quite likely, too, the President will cheerfully sign the bill, if passed in its new shape, because the doctrine of reducing and scaling the prices of the public lands was approved by Gen. Jackson, recommended by James K. Polk, and advocated by Captain Tyler himself, if we are not mistaken; and by other orthodox democratic authorities, to say nothing of the Baltimore platform. The great object of the Senate in this matter, appears to have been a compromise with the candidates and advocates of free farms on the one side, and with the administration on the other; and if the adjustment which they have passed is satisfactory to both parties, it is a great achievement, unquestionably. We are inclined to submit in patience to the action of the House upon this free-farm question; but upon another subject—that of rivers and harbors—we are somewhat concerned. The Executive has warned the Senate, through his organ, of the folly of passing the appropriations for our rivers and harbors; and we shall not feel perfectly secure of the independence of the Senate until they have passed the bill, in spite of the threats of a veto.

Meantime, we suggest to our reporters and correspondents at Washington the expediency of giving at least a brief synopsis or explanation of the provisions of every important bill, particularly as it may be passed by either branch of Congress. As we approach the close of the session it becomes necessary to keep a vigilant eye upon the proceedings of our spoilsmen at Washington. We desire to inform the people especially of all the spoils conspiracies and projects against the treasury and the public domain, as they may be brought in or carried through either house. Let us be fully posted up as we go along.

OUR DIRTY STREETS.—Will Mr. Glazier look after the contractors in the upper wards of the city? Many of the streets have not been touched with a broom for six months. According to the new contracts every street in the city is to be cleaned at least once a week. Is Mr. Glazier in town?

WATERING PLACES—RECREATIONS FOR THE PEOPLE.—All the lucky ones (i. e. those who have both time and money to spare) have now left the city, and are enjoying sea-bathing and the dolce far niente at some luxurious watering place. Perhaps some are boating with a delicious breeze—others may be fishing along the banks of a cool refreshing stream—others, again, are reading, or loitering, or flirting in some shady retreat. Distance, perhaps, lends an additional enchantment to the view; but, certainly, shut up here in this musty, dusty, steamy city, our souls are consumed with envy at the very idea of other people enjoying themselves in such weather.

Fashionables must be off—neither gods nor men can stand any longer this intense, this suffocating heat. They must raise the necessary funds—beg, borrow, or steal, if that should be necessary—and follow their friends. This will be a mere act of self-preservation, for the weather almanacs have prophecied that no thermometer will be long enough to mark the degree of heat that we are to experience during the month of August. Heaven grant that the Zadkiel's prophecy falsely; but people say that Zadkiel's prophecy has never been known to err. Hence, we say that is impossible.

Having borne as much as any Christian (who claims no affinity with the race of salamanders) can be expected to bear, let the distracted citizen, if he would not frizzle out, take up a number of the HERALD, and he will find therein, under the advertising heads of "Summer Retreats," "Excursions," and "Travellers' Guide," what will cool his heated brain. If he be rich, his thoughts, preceding his steps, will probably turn to the White Mountains, Newport, or Cape May; or, perhaps, to some place where dancing and convivial assemblies find, even at this season, their votaries among the gay and the fashionable. Fair faces, too, will draw many to Newport, Saratoga, or Lebanon Springs. If, on the contrary, like many others, the purse of the would-be traveller is not as full as he could wish, there are plenty of excursion trips at his command, varying in price from six cents up to fifty. Here is one to Coney Island, in the "new and splendid steamer Norwalk"—a locality where you can enjoy the most delicious bathing; or, if you should prefer it, why not steam down to the fishing banks, in the Laura Knapp, which leaves every day in the week? Then, for six cents you can sail around the bay, stopping at any of the landing places on Staten Island that you choose. None can deny the fact of this being cheap travelling. If business nails you to the desk during the week, there are Sunday trips in the direction of every point in the compass. Here is one advertised for the head of the Sound; there is another for Guttenberg, and the Sunday boat on the Hudson proposes to stop at all the intermediate landings between this city and Albany. In short, the pleasure trips held out to us are as numerous as they are tempting. Large and commodious hotels will be found at most of these watering places; and if the traveller should fancy New Jersey, we can recommend the Degroot Mansion House at Keyport, the River-side Mansion at Red Bank, and the Ocean House at Shrewsbury as very agreeable summer retreats.

It is only a wonder to us that with such advantages before them so many of our working and business population are found idling away their Sundays in town, or recklessly and wickedly spending their money in the foul, pestiferous dens and grog-shops of the city.

Reese & Co., the Original 25. Daguerreotype depot, established 1843, by the present proprietor, continues the picture business on the European plan with increased facilities taking 600 portraits daily by Holmes' patent double camera, two at a sitting. Rooms No. 289 Broadway, next to Irving House.

INDEPENDENT LODGE NO. 186, OF F. AND A. M.—The punctual attendance of the members is respectfully requested on their next regular communication on Monday, July 24, as business of special importance will be brought before their notice. WM. BELL, W. M. JOHN W. DARLEY, Secretary.

TO THE PUBLIC.—OWING TO THE DECEASE OF Dr. George March Wadsworth, the business of manufacturing Marsh's Pain Reliever will hereafter be carried on by Miss Jane McCollister, 237 Washington street, New York, where it can be had wholesale and retail. All persons imposed to for pain reliever and other medicines compounded by Dr. Wadsworth, will make payment to her, as she is the only one authorized to receive them. W. WADSWORTH, (Signed,) JANE M. COLLISTER.

CURE FOR CHOLERA.—The above medicine, Marsh's Pain Reliever, is perhaps the best medicine to be found in cases of cholera attack. Every family ought to be supplied with it. Always on hand at 237 Washington street, and at the principal drug stores.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE NEW YORK HERALD.—Sir—I noticed in your columns of yesterday a report of a judgment obtained against me before Justice Willis, of the Sixth District Court, for taking illegal fees as constable, and the recovery of a penalty in three times the amount. Believing the statement to have been made by Robert Shannon, the counsel for plaintiff, through personal animosity, and with a view to injure my character and business reputation, I feel called upon, in justice to myself, to state that the charge is utterly false, and that no judgment in the case in question has been rendered against me, as can be shown by reference to the docket of the court. BENJAMIN J. CARR, Constable of the Sixteenth ward.

THE FIREMEN.

AT A MEETING OF ASTORIA HOOK AND LADDER Co. No. 1, held on Friday, July 21, it was unanimously Resolved, That this company entertain a high sense of their obligations to the members of Engine Co's Nos. 45 and 67 and Hose Co. No. 48, of Yorkville for the timely aid rendered them in arresting the progress of the conflagration in this village on the morning of the 20th inst., and that they tender them their hearty thanks for the same. Resolved, That in the cheerfulness with which their brother firemen on that occasion hastened to their assistance, in the untiring energy and devotion to duty displayed during the fire, and in the courtesy and good feeling which marked their intercourse with them, this company recognise the characteristics of the true fireman, which have made the name of the New York Fire Department so honored one wherever it is known. Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions, signed by the officers of the company, be transmitted to the companies above named, and be published in the New York Times, Herald, and Mercury. HENRY J. MABBLIT, Foreman. JOHN J. WHITEHEAD, Asst. Foreman. WM. MULLIGAN, Secretary.
