Wickedness in Boston—Women Sinning and Men Flogging—Punishment in the Cars—Municipal Politics—Nominations—Rumored Suicide—Removals from Office—The Sheriffs of Worcester and Middlesex—District Attorneys—Hatters' Festival.

The very deuce seems to have gotten into some of our citizens. Boston folks are said to be full of notions, but now they are illustrating their notions by very singular actions. The town is as full of scandal just now as ever was the Chronique Scandaleuse itself. Two young fellows, of the names of Coburn and Dalton have given occasion for abundance of talk. They are married to sisters, pretty young women, of the name of Give, daughters of a respectable merchant. For some reason or other, these married gentlemen inveigled to their residence, on Shawmut avenue, first a lawyer, of the name of Porter, whom they beat; and then a clerk, of the name of Sumner, whom they also beat, "only more so." They suspected the misused gentlemen of having taken "improper liberties" with their wives, as if there were any "liberties" of a proper character to be taken with a woman! There has been no end of talk about this business. On account of their assault on Porter, Coburn and Dalton were put under bonds on Tuesday to stand trial, the bonds being $800 in each case, an amount universally pronounced to be too small. But the attack on Sumner was not then known, or the bail would probably have been fixed at a much higher figure.

Some of the letters said to have been written by one of the ladies to Mr. Porter, have been published. They are inexpressibly silly, and bear no resemblance to those of either the genuine or the mock Heloise.

A warrant was issued last night for the arrest of Coburn and Dalton, on the charge of having assaulted Mr. Sumner. The latter gentleman is a relative of Senator Sumner, and if he has been guilty of anything improper, it must have been under such circumstances as Lady Booby brought to bear upon Joseph Andrews, but not in that case with success.

Another case is somewhat rougher. A gentleman went to New York in company with a lady who was not his wife, though the association may have been one of complete innocence. But the gentleman's wife was suspicious of "something;" on hearing how her husband was accompanied, she telegraphed to New York, requesting some of her friends there to let her know when and how the couple should start for home. They were so thoughtless as to comply with her not unnatural request; and when the unsuspicious couple arrived at the station here, may be they were not received with full dishonors! There was "a regular time" then and there, and what occurred was a strong proof of the truth of the total depravity doctrine. The lady, who supposed herself injured, took measures to injure her rival, much after the fashion that ladies pursued in Fielding's time, when the softer sex were found to strike the hardest blows, if that great master's pictures of life can be relied upon. The courts have not been troubled about this affair.

A third case of fighting and so forth, is enveloped in still greater mystery than either of the others. The story goes that a couple of four "first men" was so forgetful of his duty as to engage in an intrigue with a handsome woman in Worcester, and that, as a consequence of such "error of judgment," he was set upon in the cars, while on his way to New York, and severely beaten. Details unknown, and probably will remain so, as all the parties are of "the first respectability."

Our annual lecture season opens richly. Every year people say that the business is over done, and that there must soon be an end to it; but so far from that being the case, each succeeding year sees it increased. Horace Mann lectured before the Mercantile Library Association on Wednesday evening, and opened the Anti-Slavery course the next evening. He is sharp as ever, and his lectures much reminded his hearers of the famous "captatores verborum" controversy with Webster, Felton, and other clever disputants. Mr. Wise has been invited to lecture before the Mercantile Library Association, but has declined to do so, because of the pressing demands on his time. His letter does not much resemble that which he wrote to Dr. Stone and his associates. There are some things in it which have made many desirous to see the invitation that was sent to him, which, it is thought, must have been of a "pro-slavery" character. The new Governor's letter is of a very "national" tone. He is very anxious to see "the devoted States of Hancock and Washington" once more acting together. Perhaps they may unite in the work of elevating him to the Presidency, but I rather think they will not. Mr. Hunter would make a splendid run here. He is just the sort of man to take the bulk of our people; so that if Virginia and Massachusetts are to come together again the senator—not the Governor—should be nominated for the Presidency by the democrats. Not that any one here supposes Mr. Hunter to be favorable to anti-slavery ideas, but that he is believed to be a States Rights man in something more than the mere name.

Mr. Milburn, the blind preacher, is to lecture here, and fifty more celebrated persons. The courses of lectures provided in some other places are by no means inferior to those which we are to have in Boston.

The democrats of the Second district have chosen two gentlemen of the name of Lord and Hathaway, delegates to their National Convention. Mr. Lord I don't know. Mr. Hathaway is a hunker of "the most straightest sect." Neither gentleman, so far as I know, is an office holder, and it is rather astonishing, considering that there are several fat offices in the district, that the managers should have contented themselves with electing private citizens. A gentleman in our city, who holds a four thousand dollars per annum "sit," who is something of a wag, being asked if he was not going as a delegate to Cincinnati, said that he had come to the conclusion that it would be better to elect a few persons who held no offices, and so he should not press his "claims."

The Know Nothings have nominated Charles C. Conley as a candidate to fill the vacancy in the Boston battalion of representatives. They dropped both the gentlemen who were "tied up" on the 6th. Unless the parti-hued opposition should come out strongly, Mr. Conley may be considered as good as elected.

The Know Nothings will hold a convention to nominate a candidate for Mayor, on the evening of the 27th. Mr. B. L. Allen is now prominently named for the candidacy. Several of the present Aldermen have been nominated for re-election. They don't amount to much, any way. There is always something pretty about municipal offices. The whigs are keeping up the fire about expenditures, but nobody cares a sixpence what they may say about that subject or anything else. They are amazing smart fellows, with an amazing small influence. Their cries make one think of the exclamation of the old gentleman in Alabama, who found himself in pretty much such a condition as the whigs now are. He was "on a time," with a number of others, and in their wagon was a large demijohn full of the juice of corn, when the whole concern was tumbled over the brow of a precipice. As they went over, the venerable boy bellowed, "save, oh save—the jug!" The whigs seem more concerned about "the jug" than about anything else.

A committee of persons, who have kindly taken it upon themselves to save the city the trouble of thinking for itself, have got up a ticket for Mayor and Aldermen, which is to be submitted to a popular meeting for ratification. This ticket is headed by Mr. A. H. rice, a whig, for Mayor. Five of the nominees for Aldermen are democrats, two are republicans, and five are whigs. This is neither more nor less than an attempt to apply the old coalition mode of action to the politics of the city, with the intention of getting the city government once more back into whig hands. The least possible infusion of republicans is allowed, although that party is quite as strong in Boston as the democrats. One of the republicans and one of the whigs have declined. The republicans do not like what has been done.

Mr. Kilbourn, a merchant, is supposed to have committed suicide, because he is missing, and left word that he was about to jump off Cambridge bridge. People who are really about to take that leap in the dark which may cause so much light to be thrown on certain great questions, do not talk about it. They do it, and leave the talking to be done by others. He had been engaged in speculations. His name has been mixed up with the Grocers' Bank smash, but I don't see that there was any real connection between them.

There may be some removals from office made by Gov. Gardner previous to the new year, but I doubt it. The Inspector of Fish was not removed because of his republicanism, but until recently no successor could be agreed upon. The Sheriff of Worcester is understood to be a doomed man, but I have good reason for believing that Col. Keyes will remain Sheriff of Middlesex. He voted for Gov. Gardner. The District Attorneys of the counties named have not been removed, as reported.

The talk here about the next Presidential election is all for Crittenden and Gardner, for the American candidates.

The hatters celebrated the anniversary of St. Clement, their patron, yesterday. They had a very fine time of it, at Cochituate Hall. The National Hatters' Association is a branch of the Grand Association of Hatters in England, and our society is a branch of the national body. It numbers about one hundred members, and does a great deal of good. The English association is almost three centuries old. ALGOMA.

Governor Gardner at Work with the Guillotine—More Heads to Come Off, &c., &c.

Boston, Nov. 24, 1855.

Governor Gardner and the Council are now progressing in the good work of decapitating the free soil office holders appointed last year, and who proved false to Americanism at the recent election. In addition to the fish inspector, (Mr. Atwood,) recently removed, and several district attorneys who dreamed themselves safe, it is rumored that D. S. Jones, Warden of the State Prison, is in the same category, and must walk the plank. How this gentleman should have failed to support for re-election the Governor who appointed him is quite incomprehensible, as the emoluments of his office are equivalent to $8,000, with patronage in appointing under officers to good salaries only second to that of the Governor. Weather fine, and the Council in session. D. T. T.

Singular and Fatal Railroad Accidents.—On the morning of the 19th, Jeremiah Jacoby was killed near Hamburg, Berks county, (Pa.) by a rail car. He left one track to avoid a train and was hit by another passing in an opposite direction, and instantly killed. An acquaintance of his, named Philip D. Miller, assisted in arranging the corpse, and then proceeded to the town with his team, where he related the occurrence, and remarked that nobody would ever catch him upon the railroad in so careless a manner. Having done his business in town, he returned to the place where his friend's remains were, and as he was about to cross the track to the house, he was admonished by a waving of hands to stop, as a train was coming. He did not heed this warning, but drove upon the track and was killed, near the spot from whence a few hours before he had assisted in removing the body of his friend.

ADVERTISEMENTS RENEWED EVERY DAY.
