W. C. GRIFFITH, 148 Fulton street.

W. J. SHARP WOULD RESPECTFULLY INFORM THE public that he has made extensive arrangements, in order to supply the increasing demand on his establishment for tables. He has also spared neither pains nor expense for the many improvements which he has introduced in billiards; and he would especially inform the public that he has purchased, at a great expense, the exclusive right of manufacturing the Holman cushion, patented May 4, 1858, which is now considered by the greatest living players to be the best, most durable, most correct, and most scientific cushion ever invented. Notwithstanding the numerous puffs that are daily advertised about so called patents, which are no improvements, but mere clap traps to seduce the uninitiated and unwary, hundreds of such cushions have already been removed, and replaced by Holman's patent. W. J. Sharp feels confident that his tables are of the most superior quality, not only on account of his long experience as a practical billiard maker, but because he superintends his own business, and sees that no material of inferior quality is used in the construction of his work. Satisfied with light profits as his business increases, he trusts that his reputation as a manufacturer will amply repay him in the end.
As a proof of the respectable patronage received, he need only refer to a few of the many of the finest billiard rooms in the world which he has furnished, such as Webster rooms, 722 Broadway, Higham & Holman's, corner Twelfth street and Broadway; St. Nicholas Hotel, Stevens' House (formerly Delmonico's, St. John's Park Hotel, Hungerford House, Doane street and Hudson street, James Jack's, Third avenue and Twenty-fourth street; Ward & Sinclair's, Fourth avenue and Twenty-third street; Gramery Park Hotel, G. W. Mason's, Albany; A. Lawrence's, Geneva; J. Dunlap's, Elmira; Slight & Barnes', Buffalo, N. Y.; Page & Popple's, Buffalo; J. Scouten's, Johnstown, N. Y. All kinds of cushions replaced by Sharp's or Holman's patent at the shortest notice. Pockets, cues, trimming, and everything in the trade forwarded with despatch. All orders promptly attended to. Manufactory 148 Fulton street, New York.

AMUSEMENTS.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.
ORATORIO OF THE MESSIAH,
by the
HARMONIC SOCIETY,
CHRISTMAS NIGHT, DEC. 25, 1858.
It has become a standing rule of this society to perform this, the most sublime of Handel's Oratorios,
EVERY CHRISTMAS NIGHT.
In selecting the solos for this performance it has been the aim of the committee to procure those whose voices and styles adapted to the interpretation of oratorio music; tenor soprano, therefore, we take great pleasure in announcing the name of Miss M. S. BRAINERD, whose pure, rich and full soprano voice and faultless style have rendered her performance of this part of the Oratorio unrivalled by any artist in this country.
For the contralto the society have engaged
MRS. H. WESTERVELT,
whose performance in the oratorio of "Elijah" last season gave such universal satisfaction, and who as a contralto in oratorio will compare favorably with any artist who has appeared before the public in many years.
The tenor part will be sustained by MR. GEORGE SIMPSON, whose beautiful voice and unaffected style, combined with a rare artistic finish, has rendered him so popular that his name as an oratorio singer among the musical public has become as familiar as household words.
The bass part has been entrusted to MR. PHILIP MAYER,
an artist who has been so long and so favorably known to the New York public that his name is a guarantee that the part will be ably and efficiently rendered.
THE ORCHESTRA AND CHORUS will number together over THREE HUNDRED PERFORMERS, under the direction of MR. GEO. F. BRISTOW, who, having devoted his energies for many years to this school of music, has, perhaps, no equal as a conductor of oratorio on this side of the Atlantic.
Tickets 50 cents; Reserved seats 50 cents extra—may be procured at Messrs. Hall & Son's, 239 Broadway, and at the office of the Academy.

BRYANTS' MINSTRELS.—MERRY CHRISTMAS. TWO performances, afternoon and evening. Wambold, Prendergast and Unsworth, in their pleasing ballads and comic songs, Jerry, Nell and Dan Bryant, with their excelsior trape, in new acts, scenes at Phalon's, Tyroleans, Christmas Festival. Afternoon performances at 2½; evening at 7½ o'clock.

CHRISTMAS, CHRISTMAS, CHRISTMAS.
The most elegant and entertaining place of resort for the holidays is the Dusseldorf Gallery.
