

This woman says that sick women should not fail to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she did.

Mrs. A. Gregory, of 2355 Lawrence St., Denver, Col., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I was practically an invalid for six years, on account of female troubles. I underwent an operation by the doctor's advice, but in a few months I was worse than before. A friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it restored me to perfect health, such as I have not enjoyed in many years. Any woman suffering as I did with backache, bearing-down pains, and periodic pains, should not fail to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, obstructions, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Registering His Kick.

The battle seemed to be going against the pugilist with the wide smile and the athletic chin.

Suddenly he stepped forward, between rounds, and raised his hand to command silence.

"I want to call the attention of this crowd," he shrieked, "to the fact—for I believe it to be a fact—that my antagonist has more money than I've got! I expect to win this fight, but if I don't win I want to call this crowd to witness that I lose it because the referee, the time-keeper, all the attendants, including my seconds and backers, together with everybody in this pavilion, gatekeepers and all, have been shamefully and infamously bribed to beat me!"

Then came the call of time, and with a wild howl of despair he plunged into the fight again.—Chicago Tribune.

BAD ITCHING HUMOR.

Limbs Below the Knees Were Itchy
—Feet Swollen—Sleep Broken—Cured in 2 Days by Cuticura.

"Some two months ago I had a humor break out on my limbs below my knees. They came to look like raw, beefsteak, all red, and no one knows how they itched and burned. They were so swollen that I could not get my shoes on for a week or more. I used five or six different remedies and got no help, only when applying them the burning was worse and the itching less. For two or three weeks the suffering was intense and during that time I did not sleep an hour at a time. Then one morning I tried a bit of Cuticura. From the moment it touched me the itching was gone and I have not felt a bit of it since. The swelling went down and in two days I had my shoes on and was about as usual. George B. Farley, 50 South State St., Concord, N. H., May 14, 1907."

THE HORSEMEN.

A veterinary surgeon pronounced a hunter to be afflicted with an incurable disease.

Asleep in "Little Italy."

A school teacher in the Italian quarter of an American city told her children the story of the fox and the grapes. Tony was especially delighted with the story, and eagerly sought his chum, Joe, who was in another class. By good luck, the teacher overheard Tony's visit.

In his excited, broken English he told the fable much as it was written, until he came to the end. This was his rendering of the climax:

"De olde fox he say, 'Da grape no good, anyhow; alla sour. I guess I go getta de banana.'"

SEEMED WORSE EVERY DAY.

A Dangerous Case of Kidney Complaint and How It Was Checked.

Mrs. Lucy Quebeck, Mechanic St., Hope Valley, R. I., says: "Eight years ago I contracted severe kidney trouble and my back began to ache continually. Every day it seemed to grow worse. The least pressure on my back tortured me, and I could not stoop without a bad twinge. The kidney secretions passed irregularly with pain, and I bloated badly. My head swam and spots fitted before my eyes. One doctor said I was incurable. However, I found prompt relief when I started using Doan's Kidney Pills, and the troubles I have related gradually disappeared."

Divine Inspiration.

Emile, the little daughter of a clergyman, pranced into her father's study one evening while the reverend gentleman was preparing a lengthy sermon for the following Sunday.

She looked curiously at the manuscript for a moment and then turned to her father.

"Papa," she began, seriously, "does God tell you what to write?"

"Certainly, dearie," replied the clergyman.

"Then why do you scratch so much of it out?" asked Emile.

Slilage in Steer Feeding.

The use of silage in feeding steers while fattening is growing in favor steadily, and especially where lands are high priced and when feeding stuffs generally are high. There has been a good deal of prejudice against silage among extensive feeders, but as they are induced to try it so do they become converted to its use.

In feeding experiments conducted at the Missouri Station in 1906-7 with steers weighing about 800 pounds each at the beginning, those fed silage ate less dry matter than those fed whole stover or shredded stover, and gained in weight, while the dry stover lots lost. The same sort of results were also secured from feeding silage stover compared with air-dried material.

Professor Plumb, of the Ohio Agricultural College, has this to say on the subject:

"If silage is fed under cover, and to cattle not wallowing in mud or oozy manure, then good results will generally come from its use. However, hay or other dry roughage should also be fed. Silage fed twice a day and hay once should give good results. When cattle are being finished for shipment, then the amount of silage fed should be reduced and the dry roughage increased, this to prevent much shrinkage in shipping. However, in what is known as ration feeding, but little shrinkage is apt to occur from the use of the silage. In experiments with steers fed different rations at the Virginia Station, those fed silage showed no appreciable shrinkage in the market over those fed exclusively dry feed."

Crib Without a Shovel.

This grain storage house is designed to allow for handling the grain without unnecessary lifting. Grain is hauled in the upper drive and poured from the wagons into the bins, and is then removed by being drained from the bins into the lower driveway. If built upon a hillside the job of making the fills will not be serious. Even on level ground this can be done without a great expenditure of labor with the use of a road scraper.

The entire building must be raised upon piers about 4 ft. high, so that the bottom of the bins is not much lower than the bottom of the wagon box, allowing the entire contents of the bins to be drained into the wagons without lifting.—Farm and Home.

Tuberculosis in Cattle of England.

Consul Joseph G. Stephens of Plymouth, advises that the English authorities are making known through the medium of the press the disagreeable facts relative to tuberculosis in cows and phthisis in human beings in that section of England. The relation of the two is said to be a scientific fact. In many districts of Devon 25 per cent of the cows have tuberculosis. The average number of deaths from consumption among the people of the single County of Devon alone exceeds 900 per annum. In one charity organization 80 per cent of the children are suffering from this dread disease.

The Poultry House.

Now is a good time to disinfect the poultry house, so as to keep the lice from getting a mastery over you. Any kind of liquid lice killer is good to spray the house with, being sure to spray the roosts and nest boxes as well. If a cheaper disinfectant is required, a whitewash can be made of lime and water, with some crude carbolic acid in it. This proves a very good deodorizer and disinfectant, and a large quantity of it can be used without hurting the pocketbook too severely.

Lack of Material.

The laying of soft-shelled eggs is caused by lack of shell-making material, in the shape of crushed oyster shells or some other form of lime. The hens should have plenty of good grit. Half the time the fowls are left without a good supply of grit to grind the food, the natural supply being inadequate or inferior. Rice table scraps will make hens over-fat and have a tendency to cause hens to lay soft-shelled eggs.—Farmers' Home Journal.

Milk for Calves.

The calf finds in fresh milk while it is still warm with the animal heat of the cow, it is said, a constituent value not found in the milk after it is allowed to get cold. The chemist cannot define it, and it cannot be restored again by warming the milk. If every calf could be fed its milk sweet, and while it still retained its animal heat, there would no doubt be fewer cat-hammed steers going to the block.

Storing Onions.

Considerable care is necessary in storing onions through the winter without loss. They should be entirely free from dampness when put away. Store on scaffolds or in shallow bins, but never pile them.

The Horse that Pulls on His Bit.

It is claimed by one who has tried it that a driving horse that pulls on the bit can be cured by fastening a small ring on each side of the bridle and as near the brow band as possible.

Pass the Hoop through bit rings and snap them into the rings at the brow band. This, with a common jointed bit, will enable a child to hold a "puller" or hard-mouthed horse with ease under almost all circumstances. It can be used on a fast horse in double team or on both, as desired. It is cheap and easily applied and it won't make the mouth sore.

How to Raise a Barn.

A farmer near Goliad had a novel experience. A few years ago he built a small barn, and in the construction used green willow posts at the corners and along the sides. For some time nothing unusual was noticed, but after a year he saw that where he had laid the floor near the ground it was three feet above soil. He discovered that the willow posts, instead of being dead, were alive, had taken root and were growing. In their upward movement they had carried the barn along. Last spring the barn was on stilts 9 feet high, and he put in a new floor and surrounded the posts with siding, thereby making a two-story affair. There is now a space of 9 inches between the floor and the ground, and the owner expects to have a three-story barn in the course of time.—Goliad (Texas) Guard.

Value of Potatoes as Food.

According to statistics obtained, it appears that potatoes constitute about 13 per cent of the total food consumed by the average family. They are essentially starchy and eaten alone would furnish a very one-sided badly

COMPOSITION OF THE POTATO.

A, fat; b, crude fibre and other carbohydrates; c, exclusive of starch; d, protein; e, ash.

balanced diet that would prove unwholesome to most people. As indicated in the illustration the edible portion, is made up of 78.3 per cent water, 18.4 per cent carbohydrates (principally starch), 2.2 per cent protein, 0.1 per cent fat, and 1 per cent ash or mineral matter. These figures represent general averages from which there are wide variations in individual specimens. When potatoes are eaten with meat, eggs, or fish, which are essentially nitrogenous foods, a well-balanced diet is obtained.

Salt for Cows.

A supply of salt available whenever the cow wants it is necessary to maintain a high milk yield. Salt stimulates the appetite and assists digestion and assimilation, which increase the flow of the fluids of the body. Salting feeds for dairy cows once a week is not sufficient. It is a good plan to keep rock salt under shelter where the cows can get it at will and then feed loose salt once a week in separate compartments will not eat too much.

How Seeds Are Scattered.

Dr. Howard, secretary of the American Society for the Advancement of Science, writing of the manner in which seeds are carried to great distances by birds, recites an experiment of Darwin which had a curious result. Adhering to the leg of a wounded partridge, Darwin found a ball of earth, weighing six and a half ounces. From the seeds contained in this ball he raised thirty-two plants, belonging to five distinct species.

Wounds on Trees.

No artificial medium can be applied to the surface of a tree wound which will induce it to heal more quickly. The activity of the healing process depends upon the character and position and the time of the year when the wound is made, rather than upon protective coverings, but where a large surface of heart wood is exposed it is advisable to protect it from decay by a coat of white lead or other satisfactory covering.

The Potato.

Recently, in Hartz, Germany, a monument was found bearing this inscription: "Here, in the year 1747, the first trials were made with the cultivation of the potato." By the way, when Frederick II. introduced the potato into his domain his subjects did not like it; they refused to be bothered with it, and the emperor had to force them to cultivate it.

How to Grow Peanuts.

Peanuts only thrive in a warm climate. The plant requires a limey, sandy loam, and yields from two bushels of pods planted an acre to as much as 40 or 50 bushels of pods and two tons of straw. The seed is planted about one inch deep in rows from 28 to 36 inches apart, and from 12 to 16 inches in the row.

Hauling Crops.

Inquiries conducted in over 1,000 counties of the United States by the Department of Agriculture indicate that the average length of haul of crops over country roads is 12.1 miles, the average weight of the load 2,002 pounds and the average cost per mile 25.2 cents, or about $3 per load, the figures being based on the cost of labor, feed, wear, etc.

In Tying Chickens.

When manhandling chickens do not tie several of them together. They get the string twisted around their legs and it cuts them. Take the chickens to town in a coop, or some other humane way. They are in absolute torture when several are tied together.

Whiskey for Rheumatism.

The increased use of whiskey for rheumatism is causing considerable discussion among the medical fraternity. It is an almost infallible cure when mixed with certain other ingredients and taken properly. The following formula is effective: "To one half pint of good whiskey add one ounce of Toris Compound and one ounce of Syrup Sarsaparilla Compound. Take in tablespoonful doses before each meal and before retiring."

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Castor Oil. Castor Oil is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Castor Oil, being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Castor Oil is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Real War.

As the late Lord Wantage, V. C., K. C. B., was a soldier of experience and valor, his description of a battle, taken from his letters from the Crimea and incorporated into Lady Wantage's recently published biography, may be considered accurate.

"A battle," he wrote, "is the most exciting thing in the world. I think—much more exciting than one usually imagines, and as for all the nonsense the newspapers write about unbroken lines and columns, it is all stuff. "Those who funk lie down or get out of fire, and in a charge if you get ten or twelve men to follow you, it is as much as you can do. As for colonels or mounted officers, one never sees them, or takes any notice if one does. In fact, it is just like boys snowballing one another at school."

There could not well be a simpler account of a battle. It is as free from stock phrases as if it had been written by Grant. And it may be added that Lord Wantage was of the type of un-faded great soldier, of which Grant was an example.

A Man Asleep.

His mouth and vest were open, and he breathed like a second-hand bicycle pump, writes O. Henry in his inimitable way in Everybody's. I looked at him and gave vent to just a few mutings. "Imperial Caesar," says I, "asleep in such a way, might shut his mouth and keep the wind away."

A man asleep is certainly a sight to make angels weep. What good is it to his brain, muscle, backbone, nerves, fluency, and family connections? He's at the mercy of his enemies, and no one so of his friends. And he's about as beautiful as a cab-horse-leaving at the Metropolitan Opera House at 12:30 a. m. dreaming of the plums of A. J. A. Now, a woman asleep you regard as different. No matter how she looks, you know it's better for all hands to let her be that way.
