HORSES, CARRIAGES, &C.

A GENTLEMAN IS DESIROUS OF OBTAINING A superior Roadster, not over six or seven; gentle, handsome, sound and kind, and sufficiently fast, for which he offers in exchange either of the two following described horses, both raised and bred by him, and both perfectly sound:—First, a chestnut Gelding, thoroughbred, four years old this spring, with the requisites of beauty, strength and docility, to make him (in the hands of a horseman) as splendid a Saddle Horse as is seen on Central Park. Second, a Brown Stallion, two years this spring, of great size and promise, bred from the best trotting stock, and now fit to be broken and driven. Would exchange the two for a very superior pair of horses. No dealers need apply. Address or call at 148 Lexington avenue, corner Twentieth street.
