Champ Clark.

This great big smooth faced genial southern gentleman delivered a lecture in Augustana college chapel last Friday evening to an appreciative audience.

The editor of the LEADER enjoyed a pleasant half hour with Mr. Clark at the Rudolph before the lecture and gleaned some interesting facts concerning the struggle over the house rules which make Mr. Cannon a dictator.

"Mr. Cannon and his rules committee have the power to sweep a man off the floor while he is speaking, if they so desire," said Mrs. Clark.

"The chances for a democratic majority in the next house is very favorable, in fact, I think it is assured." "In that event you will be Mr. Cannon's successor," we remarked.

"That's just what is going to happen," said Mr. Clark and he smiled like a man who could almost reach out and grasp that famous order keeping bit of wood.

Champ is a most genial gentleman and a thoroughly posted parliamentarian, a strong man on the floor and a fighter.

"When Gaines was the democratic leader he had to be absent from the house for some time," said Champ, "and asked me to become leader in his absence. I told Mr. Gaines that if I became the leader Joe could not swing his old gavel around and say '231 present,' when the point of no quorum was raised. If he tries that old gag on me there will be a fight, but he never tried it, and I guess Gaines must have given him a pointer."

"I take it, after reading Cannon's speech at Elgin, Illinois, the other day that Joe is thoroughly mad. Such a speech by him at such a time is surprising to say the least. Joe has undertaken to read Senator Cummins and other prominent republicans out of the party because they oppose his methods. Joe has made a serious mistake and such a speech will make us surgers everywhere and is not hurting the democrats any. When Joe gets mad he gets reckless and swears and plunges around in furious temper."

"Yes, this is my first visit to South Dakota and your country looks as good as Missouri. When I speak tonight I will have spoken in every state but five—North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Wyoming and Washington, and I go from here to Grinnell, Iowa, then down into Oklahoma, and then soon to Washington where I expect the liveliest session of congress ever had. He swings his gavel around and then announces '231 present.' That's his favorite number and it generally goes."

"No," said Mr. Clark, "I hardly look for such radical action as the unseating of Cannon, even if we had the votes to do it with. It would be unprecedented in the history of the house and is not likely to ever happen, unless unforeseen events take place. If Joe should be convicted of entering into a deal with Tammany to corrupt legislation in New York as charged by Parsons, there is no telling what might take place, but I do not expect Joe will be unseated."

"The chances for a democratic majority in the next house is very favorable, in fact, I think it is assured." "In that event you will be Mr. Cannon's successor," we remarked.

for years, and if there is any fighting I expect to be in the middle of it," then we wished him good night and success on his lecture tour.

Cook's Conquest of the Pole.
The LEADER has secured Dr. Cook's full history of his wonderful and heroic trip to the pole and it will be published in weekly chapters. Two chapters have already been printed and it makes mighty good reading.

The third chapter appears this week. Read them all and you will have a correct idea of the hardships of such a trip. The LEADER is the only paper in the county authorized to print this wonderful story, as it is copy-righted by the New York Herald and sold on special contracts.

There is nothing too good for LEADER readers and this Cook story proves it.

Fact Worth Remembering.
The stealing of a horse is a criminal offense and criminal offenses are looked after by States Attorney Carlson. He makes it his special business to apprehend and punish every party committing an offense in Lincoln county. If anyone in Lincoln county, hereafter, has a horse stolen, communicate with or call upon the States Attorney and he will catch the thief. He has the power of the state behind him and telephones are numerous.

Nels O. Hoel and wife came up from Eden for a Sunday visit with Mr. and Mrs. Ole Grevios.

"Whatever is worth doing at all, is worth doing well," is a maxim that is true as it is old. The lines of this adage have been closely followed by W. F. Mann, the producer of "Tampst and Sunshine" and the result is as near a perfect play as it is possible to get. The very height of stage realism is getting as near to nature as the laws of mimicry will permit and this has been the sole object of the author of this really splendid play.
