Col. S. B. HAYMAN, commanding 37th regt. N. Y. V.

THE THIRTY-SEVENTH REGIMENT, N. Y. V. (IRISH RIFLES),

Col. Hayman, of the regular army, commanding, was the first Irish regiment of volunteers in the field, and has only nine months' longer to serve, having been sworn in as a two years' regiment. This gallant regiment, one of the earliest in action, has been through all the battles of the army of the Potomac. It had the honor of turning the fortunes of the day in our favor at the battle of Williamsburg, and has taken an active part in the following engagements, viz.—Munson's Hill, Occoquan, Mason's Neck, Williamsburg, Fair Oaks, Malvern Hill, and in all of the seven days' fighting before Richmond. It was the regiment that held Fairoax Station during the battle of Bull Run, and was honored by General McDowell in his report as having kept possession of the station for twelve hours after the defeat, and for having brought away from there all the ordnance and quartermaster's stores, and retiring in good order along the line of railway. For ten weeks after the battle it had the honor of holding the line of the enemy without losing a man.

Through the kind exertions of Judge McCunn, its late colonel, a fund has been created for the widows and orphans of the members of this regiment. Judge McCunn has also procured situations for all the wounded soldiers who have been unable to return to the seat of war. The Judge takes as much pride and interest in the regiment now as if he were still its leader. No other regiment in the field is so favored as the Thirty-seventh; and ever since its organization all the promotions has been from the ranks. Men now enlisting will receive all the bounty, both State and federal, and have only nine months to serve. Headquarters of the regiment No. 421½ Broadway. Judge McCunn will be found at the recruiting station every day from 4 to 5 o'clock P. M., and will be glad to see a large number of his Irish-American friends come to join this gallant corps, the old Republican Rifles of '51-2 and '53. Besides, one year's training in the field by Colonel Hayman and his officers is at least equal to four years' cadetship at West Point, and where is the noble young Irish-American who would not be a military cadet? Let such, if any can be found, hold down his head and deny his race and nationality. The regiment is blessed with one of the noblest chaplains in the army—the Rev. Father Tissott, S. J.—who attends to all wants of the men in corresponding, &c.

Senior Captain and Recruiting Officer.
