A CARD.
The sale of the principal parts of the "Abbot Collection of Paintings," is announced for this evening, at the Derby Gallery. (It was a favorite idea of Mr. Abbot to enjoy his institution, for purposes of æsthetic culture, with copies of the great masterpieces of art in Italy. He selected the most celebrated paintings, and engaged the most eminent copyist of modern times, the Chevalier Chatelain, to make as perfect copies as could be made. It was stipulated that each copy, before it was accepted, should receive the written certificate of Prof. Agricola, President of the Society of the Belles Artes, in Italy, and of the government officer having charge of the works of art in Rome that it was a reproduction worthy to be taken to an institution in the New World, to be studied and enjoyed by those who could never see the great originals. This certificate is in the gallery. Among the subjects are the two confessedly greatest paintings in the world of art, the Transfiguration of Raphael, and the Aurora of Guido, the Madonna de Foligno of Raphael, the Annunciation of Guido and of Carlo Maratti, the Sybil of Domiminino, the Madonnas of Murillo and of Raphael, &c. The celebrated original Washington series, by Stearns, is a noticeable feature in this collection. It represents the Father of his Country as a statesman, a warrior, a farmer and a Christian. The originals and the copies of this collection are works of rare excellence.
