THE DRAFT IN NEW YORK.

Notifications and Exemptions.

THE FOURTH DISTRICT.

The Board of Enrolment for the Fourth Congressional district met again yesterday morning at the headquarters of Provost Marshal and Captain Joel B. Erhardt. The usual crowd of anxious claimants for exemption thronged the spacious halls, and notwithstanding the hours passed slowly, and their patience was well tested, they nevertheless preserved the best of feeling and order during the entire day. No cases of special interest came before the Board. During the afternoon Provost Marshal General Nugent honored Captain Erhardt with a visit, and watched the proceedings with evident interest. He expressed his entire satisfaction with the arrangements of the office. The following is the list, with the disposition of each case:—

Number of cases laid over thirteen.

THE FIFTH DISTRICT.

Captain Duffy has his headquarters at No. 428 Broome street, a building which was once occupied as a dwelling. On the lower floor some private parties transact business. The Board sit in a room upon the top story, and the unhappy conscripts—who must wait their turn—are jammed into an almost insufferable mass on two flights of narrow stairways. Our reporter endeavored to force his way through, but was compelled to back out after repeated efforts, much to the amusement of the parties who wished to present their excuses. The heat and stench arising from it were so intolerable that several were obliged to leave and take their chances at a more favorable time. The man who, after standing in such a place for half a day, can still be pronounced sound by the doctor, must have a constitution of an extraordinary character.

A large number of cases were disposed of. Numbers claimed to be aliens, others were physically incapable, and so on through the list. Several were held for service and granted furloughs of a few days, in which to prepare for war. It is to be hoped that Captain Duffy will make some arrangements by which the reporters can perform their duties.

THE SIXTH DISTRICT.

This was a very busy day at the office for the above Congressional district. During the day the sidewalk in front of the house and the staircases and passages leading to the rooms were thronged. In the clerks' office the crush was dreadful, and the guards had to be doubled at one door leading to the room where the Board sat to keep back the pressure of the crowd. This room presented a very bustling appearance from the number of persons continually arriving—some to be examined by the surgeon, others bringing in substitutes, whilst not a few made their appearance with receipts showing that the requisite number of "greenbacks" had been duly forked over. A person, whose time must have been very valuable, wanted to pass the guard to the inner room. On being prevented he said:—"I say, who's boss here? Get us the Colonel there with the shoulder straps—somebody we can talk to," concluding with the reasonable request to send him (the Colonel) into the crowd to them.

A young woman (whose husband was being passed by the Board as a substitute) appeared to caution the Board that he was married and had a family dependent on him. Some friends endeavored to arrange the matter satisfactorily; but at the time the Board adjourned it did not appear to be finally arranged. At one time both husband and wife were crying.

Mr. Smith, a fireman, appeared, but he was informed by the Board that he would be held for service; but that he could make application to the Supervisors, who would take the proper steps for his exemption.

One hundred and thirty cases were heard during the day, of which eight were held for service, twelve paid the exemption fee, fifteen furnished substitutes, eleven were discharged for non-residence, thirty one were discharged for physical disability, eleven were discharged for allegiance and six claims for exemption for the same cause were laid over for further evidence; seven were exempted for being only sons of widows, one laid over, eighteen were exempted for being over or under age, and two were exempted for being twice enrolled.

THE EIGHTH DISTRICT.

The Board of Enrolment for the Eighth district met yesterday morning, at the office of the Provost Marshal, 1,530 Broadway, for the purpose of receiving applications for exemption from the draft, in order to deal with each case according to its merits. The Board consists of Captain Benjamin F. Mallerre, Provost Marshal, Spencer Kirby, Commissioner, and Dr. George F. Woodward, surgeon. At the front door of the building a small crowd was assembled, who seemed to take much interest in the proceedings that were going on inside. No policemen were present, and everything wore a peaceable aspect. Inside the door a sentinel was posted, with his musket and bayonet placed diagonally across, to prevent the entrance of unauthorized persons. At the head of the stairs another soldier was similarly posted, with the view of preventing the applicants from crowding inconveniently into the room where the Board was sitting. The applications were very numerous, and came from persons in all sorts and conditions in life—the very poor and those who were apparently well to do in the world, the man in robust health and him upon whom disease had fastened his poisoned fangs, the youth of seventeen and the old man of sixty, aliens and citizens alike.

As may be seen by the accompanying list, the exemptions were quite numerous, so much so that it is feared this district will fall short of its quota. The work of examination is very arduous. The following is the programme:—

The men are admitted in squads. Each then presents his claim for exemption. If the claim rests on other than the ground of physical debility, he is required to produce householder witnesses to the fact. If he fails to produce them his case lies over, and he is told to call again, with his witnesses, and make affidavit to the fact or facts on which he claims to be exempted, on some day before that named in his notice. If, however, he pleads physical disability, he is taken into an inner room, and there examined, in a state of nature, by the surgeon, who thereupon declares whether he is exempt or held to service, unless, indeed, the defect is so palpable as to render so minute an examination unnecessary, in which case he is exempted at once. Dr. Woodward says that he has become so accustomed to these examinations that he can almost tell at a glance, by a man's general appearance, whether he is physically fit for a soldier or not.

The following is a list of the applicants and a statement of how their cases were severally disposed of:—

THE NINTH DISTRICT.

The examination of claimants for exemption in the Ninth Congressional district commenced yesterday at the Provost Marshal's office, corner of Broadway and Forty-seventh street. The work commenced at nine o'clock in the morning and continued until four o'clock in the afternoon, when operations ceased for the day. Captain Jenkins, the district Provost Marshal, conducted the examinations in an admiral's manner, displaying a proper degree of courtesy and consideration for the conscripts, while at the same time never varying from the strict line of his duty as an officer of the government. Mr. John M. Sands, the Commissioner, ably assisted Captain Jenkins in the discharge of his delicate duties. During the day about forty cases came up for examination, out of which in eleven cases the decisions were adverse to the claimants. The principal grounds of exemption were alienage and physical disability. We are enable to give the names of the parties examined, Captain Jenkins having refused to allow our reporter to make a record of such matters, on the ground that it was contrary to his instructions, as well as to his own ideas of propriety. Otherwise Captain Jenkins was exceedingly courteous and ready to furnish any information not of a contraband nature. One of the conscripts exempted was discharged on account of not having front teeth.
