ARRIVAL OF THE ILLINOIS.

Interesting from the West Coast of America.

Affairs in the Republic of Ecuador.

The Revolutions in the United States of Colombia.

&c., &c., &c.

The steamship Illinois, Captain Babcock, from Aspinwall on the 17th instant, at ten P. M., with specie and passengers, arrived at this port yesterday morning.

She left at Aspinwall the steamship Champion, Captain Jones, awaiting the United States mails and passengers from San Francisco.

On the 20th inst., at three P. M., she passed the steamer Ocean Queen, bound to Aspinwall.

The following is her

SPECIE LIST.

From San Francisco—$20,000, to order.
From Aspinwall—$4,000, to Colgate & Hoffman.

By the arrival of the Illinois we have late and interesting news from Ecuador and the United States of Colombia, which will be found detailed in the letter of our Panama correspondent.

Porter Patterson, of the Illinois, has our thanks for the prompt delivery of correspondence and late papers.

Our Panama Correspondence.

PANAMA, Feb. 16, 1864.

ECUADOR.

The Pacific Steam Navigation Company's steamer Talca, Captain Chambers, from Guayaquil and intermediate ports, arrived at Taboga on the 11th inst. at ten A M. The dates from Guayaquil are to the 24 inst. She brings the following cargo for New York:—100 bales of bark, 73 bales of cotton, 21 bales of tobacco, 55 bags of cocoa, 295 packages of india rubber, 80 hides and 15 barrels of oil.

The news from Ecuador is but of small importance or interest. Matters are becoming tranquil once more since the declaration of peace, and it is thought a general improvement will take place, as every one appears sanguine of a long cessation of quarrelling and strife. President Moreno, who it was thought would vacate his position as President of the republic, had every intention of doing so in favor of Senor Gomez de la Torre; but his determination was changed on receiving many requests and petitions from the people to remain at the head of the government, and he yielded to their desires. Antonio Flores, who had been to Lima for the purpose of endeavoring to raise a loan to carry on the war, had failed in his mission and returned to Guayaquil. Fortunately, the necessity for the loan had ceased to exist.

The report which went on by the last steamer, that the French Charge d'Affairs at Quito has demanded his passports and withdrawn from the country, and that trouble between France and Ecuador was probable, turns out to be only partially true. The Charge has withdrawn from Quito, but only on account of the illness of his wife, who was unable to endure the climate. There is nothing else the matter. The most friendly relations continue to exist between the two governments, and when the Charge left Quito he was accompanied some distance on his way by President Moreno. This is all that I have been able to glean worth mentioning from all the journals and private advices respecting affairs in Ecuador.

UNITED STATES OF COLOMBIA.

We have some later intelligence from the interior that confirms, in all respects, the information I have before sent you of the complete success of the insurgents in the province of Cauca, and the death of some of the principal officers of the government in the battle of Mariquita, that occurred on the 14th of December. When the rebels had gained possession of their province they opened negotiations with the governments of the adjoining ones, assuring them they had no intention of invading their neighbors; but, notwithstanding these assurances, they crossed the frontier of Cauca, and succeeded in defeating the forces of that State. After this affair they fell back across the borders into their own State. The insurgents style themselves the "restauradores" of the old "New Granada" and the power of the church.

We have heard nothing of Mosquera since he retreated; or, begging his pardon, fell back across the frontier of Ecuador. It is time we should hear of his being among the rebels; for every one, except Mosquera's warm admirers and a few whitewashed American Colombians, is confident that the rebellion in his rear was the sole cause of his treaty of peace with Ecuador, and his rapid falling back into his own country. Much anxiety is felt to see what the result will be when he once attacks them. Some surmise that he will experience more trouble than he imagines in quelling the disturbance, and some sanguine spirits go so far as to think he may be driven to the wall, and the authority of the priesthood once more established in what would then be the republic of New Granada once more.

PANAMA.

We are still under martial law; but a stranger would not be aware of the fact were it not for the afternoon parade of our "corps d'Afrique" and the evening drum and bugles, varied occasionally with music from the most terribly discordant band it has ever been my bad fortune to encounter. The people of this city imagine all this to be glorious; they look with pride and admiration upon the battalion—as they term it—of forty or fifty men, who daily go through the "pomp and circumstance of glorious war," and imagine that we of Colombia, but we of Panama especially, are by far the greatest and most powerful people on the face of the earth. It was my luck to see our demoralized army rush pell mell into Washington after the first battle of Bullrun; but the most disorganized Fire Zouave, after their severe tussle (as they told it) with the Black Horse cavalry, that I then saw, was a princely looking soldier compared with those who form the Home Guard of Panama. I have seen an old fashioned militia training, when broomsticks were used for muskets; but they were soldierlike in comparison to our "dress parades." These affairs are so absurd that I frequently turn out of their way for fear of bursting with a laugh as the column passes me, and thereby offending the dignity of the unbleached American in command.

Last Sunday we had mass solemnized in two of the churches by two priests who have taken Mosquera's sash, and, as a natural consequence, the bells were going it like mad, and a stranger would have imagined there was a great conflagration in either the city or suburbs. The true Catholics among the better class of the community failed to attend, for the reason that they considered the services of no value, on account of the priests having acknowledged an authority higher than that of the church.

I am in expectation daily of hearing that Semmes and the Alabama are in the Pacific Ocean, burning and destroying as usual. His having been among the East India Islands is known all over India and China, and his business there will soon be over in consequence. His next point will be in this vicinity. The commerce of the Pacific Ocean has heretofore been undisturbed by rebel cruisers. Hence Rip Van Winkle Welles and his cunning little Fox thinks there is no necessity of increasing the number or class of vessels of our squadron in these waters. This pair of worthies, now given to ship racing, will find, as usual, when too late, that the Pacific Ocean can be visited by Semmes as well as any other part of the world, and that the finest field now open to him will be sure to be taken advantage of by this active man. He made a mistake in capturing the Ariel, and may attempt to redeem the error by getting possession of one of the steamers from San Francisco. He must be in want of funds, and a million and a half in gold would supply his wants for a long time, and buy coal wherever he can find it. Some such disaster I am looking for; that it has not occurred before is the only matter for surprise. When it comes what a row there will be, and how the question of "Who's to blame?" will go the rounds of all the public journals.

This question can be answered by the two words, "Navy Department," the establishment that has now in the Pacific Ocean the following squadron to guard the commerce and the interests of the United States:—Steam sloop Lancaster, twenty-two guns (flagship), at Acapulco; steam sloop Narragansett, seven guns, in the North Pacific; steamer Saginaw, three guns, on the coast of Mexico; steam frigate Saranac, ten guns, undergoing repairs at Mare Island; sloop-of-war (sailing), twenty-two guns, South Pacific, and sloop-of-war Cyane, twenty guns, in Panama harbor. The Alabama can run away from the Lancaster, Narragansett and Saranac; she can whip or run away from the Saginaw, and the sailing vessels she cares nothing for in any manner, unless she should by accident find herself directly under their broadsides. The merchants, underwriters and others of New York and other places had better examine this list of our squadron in the Pacific Ocean, and its armament and class of vessels. Once having a knowledge of it, they must not wonder if the Alabama or other rebel cruisers should make their appearance here and use up the little commerce we have left. It will require three months to get other vessels here, even if Rip Van Winkle and Renard can be aroused to the necessity. In that time the mischief may all have been done; but the force needs increasing anyhow. So let additional vessels of the proper kind be sent at the earliest possible moment—the Kutaw among the number.

Her Britannic Majesty's paddle wheel steam sloop-of-war Devastation, six guns, has arrived from the coast of Mexico, bringing four hundred thousand dollars in specie for England. She relieves the screw frigate Bacchante, Captain McKenzie, which vessel will sail soon for England via Valparaiso and Rio Janeiro.

The French screw frigate Pallas and the steam gunboat Dismant have sailed for the coast of Mexico, to enforce the blockade of the Pacific ports of that country.

Her Britannic Majesty's steam frigate Tribune, Captain Lord Gifford, is now hourly expected from Callao, en route for the North Pacific.

The United States ship St. Marys, Captain Middleton, when last heard from, was at Valparaiso, but expected to sail in a few days for the island of Juan Fernandez, having Mr. Nelson, our Minister to Chile, as passenger. The reason of this visit is not known; but it is supposed that it is possibly the intention of our government to establish—with the consent of the government of Chile—a depot of supplies for the South Pacific squadron at that point. A very good idea when we have a squadron to supply.

A little smallpox still remains on the Isthmus, but the quantity is so very small that it is never spoken of. The weather now is glorious. Nothing could be finer; but we have to make the most of it while it lasts, for its lifetime is short.

Our Aspinwall Correspondence.

ASPINWALL, Feb. 17—2 P. M.

The opposition steamer America has arrived. The passengers—four hundred and fifty in number—are now landing, and will leave in a few moments for Aspinwall. They will leave there in the Illinois this evening, and probably beat the mail line to New York twenty-four or forty eight hours.

A great improvement was made this time in landing the passengers. No delay was experienced in the first place, and fine, large awnings were provided to shelter them from the rays of the sun.

The America did not stop at Acapulco, and passed the St. Louis to the northward of that port.

PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN.

Movement in West Virginia for Secretary Chase.

At a meeting held on the 22d inst. the following resolutions were passed unanimously by the National Chase Club, of Claysville, West Virginia:—

Whereas, the recent demonstrations throughout the country, apparently instigated by those holding or seeking office from the present administration, give evidence of a concerted movement to secure the re election of Mr. Lincoln to the Presidency, and whereas, we do not believe that a perpetuation of his power is calculated to meet as fully as needed the stern yet delicate emergencies of the period, therefore be it resolved:—

1.—That the country, in our judgment, demands a change of administration, such as will secure a more vigorous and economical conduct of the war against the rebellion, and a treatment of the subject of slavery which will result in its abolition.

2.—That the unconditionally loyal men of the nation have thus far sustained Mr. Lincoln as the head of the government with all their energies, without indulging in the just criticism his course has provoked, fearing that such criticism might weaken his efficiency as President; but that it is now time for them to express their conscientious convictions and no longer leave the world to suppose that, because they have cordially supported him while in office, they are, therefore, pledged to his continuance in it for all time to come.

3.—That while he shall have our hearty support to the last hour of his official existence, we still consider it our solemn duty to procure the election in his place of some man more positive and courageous in character, who shall be able to bring the war to a speedy close; and afterwards to inaugurate such statesmanlike measures of peace as will enable the people to endure the enormous financial burdens which a weak policy has already imposed.

4.—That the apparent popularity of the President is, in the main, the result of the silence of those opponents of his measures who have supported them through excess of loyalty while they have charitably overlooked his faults and concealed his weakness, and that an honest expression of public sentiment will show his record to be vulnerable in every point and utterly beyond successful defence.

5.—That we believe either Hon. S. P. Chase, Major General Fremont, Major General Butler, Major General Banks, or Major General Grant, to be far preferable as a presidential candidate to Mr. Lincoln; but our judgment is in favor of a civilian rather than a soldier.

6.—That Salmon P. Chase, from his avowed principles, his union of intellectual and moral qualities, his character as a statesman, and his consistent and irreproachable record, is our first choice for the next President, and that we pledge ourselves to use all honorable means to secure his election to that office, and invoke the earnest co-operation of all who value principles more than men and who esteem country as more sacred than party.

7.—That a copy of these resolutions be sent to all the leading newspapers in the United States, with a request to publish the same. M. P. SCHOOH, Chairman.
M. P. KINSHAN, Secretary.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

The announcement of the death of J. S. Edwards in yesterday's HERALD was false. As he was married at the time specified, some person doubtless considered that a very brilliant way of advertising it.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

FRIDAY, Feb. 26—6 P. M.

A large number of persons who invested in stocks last week in anticipation of a rise have satisfied themselves that the top has been reached, and, actuated by the impression that the new loan, if authorized by Congress, will divert capital from the Stock Exchange and cause it to set in the direction of the new five-forty bonds, are now as eager to realize as they were but a few days since to purchase. Compared with the highest cash sales at the first board on Thursday, New York Central declined 1¾, Erie Railroad 3, Erie preferred 1½, Hudson River 6½, Harlem 4½, Reading 2½, Illinois Central 1, Cleveland and Pittsburg 1¾, Galena and Chicago 2¼, Cleveland and Toledo ⅝, Chicago and Rock Island 2¼, Milwaukee and Prairie du Chien 2½, Pittsburg and Fort Wayne ⅝, Alton and Terre Haute ⅛, Chicago and Northwestern 1⅞, Pacific Mail 8, Cumberland Coal 3, Canton Company ⅝, and Quicksilver Mining 7. In the afternoon the market rallied, and prices took a strong upward turn. The closing prices were for New York Central 135½, Erie 116⅝, Hudson River 158⅝, Harlem 132¾, Reading 129⅝, Michigan Central 141, Michigan Southern 99¾, Illinois Central 134¼, Chicago and Northwestern 53¼, Fort Wayne 98⅝, Chicago and Rock Island 118⅝, Galena and Chicago 117, and Cleveland and Pittsburg 115⅝.

The following table compares the quotations for the leading railway shares at the first meeting of the Board of Brokers to-day with the prices obtained on Friday of last week:—

	Feb. 19.	Feb. 26.
New York Central	135	134½
Erie	124⅝	116
Erie preferred	109	104½
Hudson River	148	155½
Harlem	115	130
Reading	128	128½
Michigan Central	136⅝	138¾
Michigan Southern	97½	97
Illinois Central	134⅝	133½
Cleveland and Pittsburg	117⅝	115
Galena and Chicago	121⅝	119¾
Cleveland and Toledo	147⅛	146
Chicago and Rock Island	123	118
Toledo and Wabash	59½	61
Pittsburg and Fort Wayne	92½	99¾
Alton and Terre Haute	64	69
Chicago and Northwestern	51⅝	52
Pacific Mail	216	226
Cumberland Coal	62⅝	66¼
Canton Company	42⅝	47½
Quicksilver Mining	61⅝	62⅝

The following were the quotations to-day for government securities:—

Five-twenty coupons	107
Five-twenty registered	107⅛
Coupon 6's of 1881	111
Registered 6's of 1881	111
One year certificates	99⅝
Coupon 5's of 1874	98
Seven and three-tenths Treasury notes	111
United States 6's of 1865	137

Gold continued inactive. The opening price was 158⅝; but it afterwards fell to 158¼ asked and 158 offered. An effort was made on the part of speculators early in the afternoon to put up the premium; but the attempt met with no response, and the quotations continued to hang on the above figures.

The new loan, or supplementary bill, introduced in the House of Representatives on Thursday by the Committee of Ways and Means, as we understand it, restricts the Secretary of the Treasury from putting the whole of the nine hundred million loan on the market before the 1st of July next; but it lies thereof it authorizes him to negotiate two hundred millions of that amount, to meet the necessary expenses of the government during the remainder of the present fiscal year. It also allows the payment of the principal to be made at any time after five years, instead of ten, the time fixed in the original bill; and it empowers the Secretary to award to Jay Cooke & Co., of Philadelphia, or some other lucky banking firm, the sum of one million of dollars for their services in receiving subscriptions to the loan. In other respects the supplementary bill does not differ materially from the first section of the act of March 3, 1863, which authorizes the ten-forty nine hundred million loan. The money market is now in the proper condition for the reception of these proposed new bonds, and no doubt they will be readily taken at five per cent interest, payable in coin, which, at the present rate of premium on gold, is equal to eight per cent in currency.

The Assistant Treasurer reports to-day as follows:—

Amount on hand	$33,622,354
Receipts from customs	514,000
From other sources	1,816,144
Total	$40,852,498
Payments	1,851,254
Balance	$39,001,244

The deliveries of the bonds of the five-twenty loan are now being made to January 14.
