power rule?

That "Dutch Lunch."

Many editors, most of them of the number who, for some reason or other, did not attend the annual meeting of the Press Association, have been discussing the refreshments set up by the Sioux Falls newspaper men at that meeting and the layout has been dubbed a Dutch Lunch.

If the Argus-Leader or the Press or Peter Haas or Dan Scott will name the component parts of a "Dutch Lunch," the writer might be able to intelligently discuss the question but from the standpoint of one who whipped into the refreshments several times with pleasure, we saw nothing that looked like a "Dutch Lunch" as Webster gives it, but Webster wasn't a Dutchman; nor did we find or taste anything indicating Hollandic origin, but we did find excellent cigars, and drank a little ginger ale which was good, and we saw soda water bottles floating around among small icebergs, and a very accommodating colored "brother" did the honors for those who did not know how to open a bottle. The lunch, or refreshments, if you please, was ample, for the modern editor no longer seeks to fill up on bonzoate of soda and coal tar dyes. There might have been a few blue labels concealed under the soda bottles, but we are ready to depose and say to the best of our knowledge and belief there were none, and President Dowdell of the National quill drivers, will back our statement that there was not even a sign of Drake's Plantation Bitters or Hostetter's Stomach Regulator present. Holland Gin and "Scheidam Schnapps" would naturally be in evidence at a "Dutch Lunch," and we can prove by Charlie Hackett that no such "white wine" was in evidence, and Colonel Reeves of Groton will swear there was no sign of New England or Jamaica rum, and John Longstaff will put his hand on the book that there was neither Peach Blow or Apple Jack in the refreshment room, and Major Danforth of the Vermillion Republican will testify that he saw no corn juice or denatured alcohol, Mountain Dew or Moonshine broth, Essence of potato or rain water mixed with tobacco juice. We might summon Mark Scott to prove that there was nothing in the refreshment parlor that could be classed as a second cousin to the Limburger family or signs of the tempting little weines or saurkraut, cabbage salad or mustard, and these with pig's feet and bologna might be properly classed as dutch. Then there is the Extra Dry and Green Seal families and the unfermented charm of the grape, but Hans DeMuth will declare on oath that there was no sign of the grape family in that lunch room.

We might summon Geo. Schlosser, who carries a good old fashioned Dutch name, to prove there was no sign of a "Dutch Lunch" at all, and thus ease the abnormal imagination of Clate Tlan and other prohibitioners who were not present, but it is hardly necessary, because Bob Schaber of the Hudsonite, a distant relative of Kaiser William, only better looking, will declare on honor that he would recognize a "Dutch Lunch" if he met one on the highway, and that the man or men who call the refreshments provided for the June meeting of the editors, a "Dutch Lunch" wouldn't know the difference between a pretzel and a shrimp.

The LEADER asks the Press or the Argus Leader, Dan Scott or Peter Haas, to write out and publish a list of the good things that properly enter into the makeup of a "Dutch Lunch" and then the prohibition members of the association will not be afraid to attend the midwinter meeting at Yankton.

Only four candidates in sight at present who want to be governor.

Congress is putting tariff reductions to the President with great promptness.

The winning candidate for the senate to succeed Gamble, has not been mentioned.

The President will be condemned if he signs the various measures that congress is handing out and condemning if he don't.

Hon. O. L. Branson of Mitchell, seems like a sure winner for congress from the first district. All say he is the right man for the place, and the LEADER is of the same opinion.

Out of the 425 generals appointed to commands in the Confederate army during the civil war, only 25 are alive, and the oldest and only surviving Lieutenant General is Simon Bolivar Buckner who surrendered to General Grant at Fort Donaldson.

The apportionment law which gives South Dakota three Congressmen, has been approved by the President, and the race for the primary nomination is on.

The first district includes Buffalo, Jerauld, Sanborn, Miner, Lake and Moody, and all counties south and east of the Missouri river, and this is the district in which Mr. Branson of Mitchell is seeking the nomination for congress, and he will receive the honor at the hands of the people.

A man who is paid by the people for the services he may render them, be his position elective or appointive, by president or governor, should be within reach of the people with a recall. A good man will not be disturbed, a bad man needs the recall. No man fit to sit in judgment should object to the recall, and no law maker, who is clean, will oppose the recall. The recall sustains honest manhood. It says silently to the other class—be good, and yet Senator Crawford voted against the recall in the Arizona statehood constitution, and the people of that country want the recall. When judges become drunkards and are besmeared with corruption with why should they not be made subject to common sense treatment instead of the ancient worn out system of impeachment.

Wiped the Bacon Clean From the Platter.

Parker New Era: Editor Arthur Linn always sees or hears something interesting in his travels. Last week he was down at Lake Okoboji throwing off some of the cares of newspaper work. And the fish story he brought home with him wiped the bacon clean from the platter. A farmer down there who had a pig swallowed by a big catfish, vouched for the story, and Bro. Linn did not let any of the interesting points of the story get away in retelling it.

CORRESPONDENCE

Moe Aug. 14, 1911.

What glorious rains we have been having. Oh, no! The farmers are not grumbling. They are very thankful for what they receive.

Did you hear of anyone who was "stuck in the mud" last week? Moe is the busiest spot on earth. It grieves me to hear that "The Merry Widow" and "Chas. Nelson" are slowly starving to death for the want of proper food, so I would suggest that the boys come over to a good country where we have all kinds of good things to eat. I could find you half a dozen "cooks" that would be highly satisfactory. For further particulars write me personally, inclosing stamped envelope for reply.

The Moe store lighting plant is in the first trim again. Not even the city stores can boast a better light.

At the Luther League last night, the financial report was read for the fourth of July celebration. The total receipts were $314 and the League cleared $107.

Mildred Hegnes resigned her position as secretary of the Luther League and Ovidia Asper was elected to fill the vacancy. B. A. MANN.

Where is the "Back Chapter" scribe? Not sick, I hope, or out of the state.

While at Worthing the other day I overheard a discussion between members of the board of trade at that place which we didn't fully agree with. Rodge Donahue said that an all round Irishman was about as good a man as tramps the globe.

"What's the matter with me?" said Tiltman Mausbach. "There's not many corners on me and I'll hold up the flag for the Germans!" "What's the matter with Peter Jackson?" the black man's world beater, said Ern Madden, who had business at the elevator that called him away on the run. "Peter Jackson be—," "Hold on Rodger," remarked Col. Greene, "you stand for a square deal, don't you?" "Not with a ---," and Rodger lit a fresh cigar and gazed at Henry Bradshaw. The writer and Jim Maddison were the only Norshs present, but Jim remarked with one of those beautiful smiles that a woman loves: "You're all off. The Norshs are the

In addition, The Norshs settled England, Ireland and Scotland, Iceland and Greenland and Vinland down near Boston, and came down from Hudson bay to fish in Minnesota 100 years before Columbus was born. They colonized the Rhine country and taught the skin covered natives how to raise hops and make beer. They peopled the land of the Gauls and taught the Spaniards how to raise fine cattle, and to "hold on Maddison," said Rodger, "I thought I was Irish. Lets discuss the tariff."

The latest in this vicinity is driving cattle with an automobile. Now you auto cranks who think you are an expert at the wheel, will have to go some if you think you can beat Martin Bakken. Martin was seen the other day driving cattle down the road and a bunch of calves leading behind holding the muller so as not to scare the others ahead. After Martin drove the cattle into the yard they all turned around with a look as much as to say, "If they could speak, 'We thank you for the way you drove us. It beats running us to death with a dog.'" Martin says he is thinking of entering the automobile racing association next year and try for the silver cup. Who's next?
