SUPPLEMENT TO THE HERALD.

NEW YORK, SUNDAY, APRIL 24, 1864.

to an octoroon, niece of a well known rebel corsair. The appearance of the "poetry" in the columns of the Nassau Guardian led to a horse whipping affair, in which "the money man" was whipped:—

AGNES ST. CYR—A STORY OF NASSAU.

Miss Agnes St. Cyr
Was a sweet little dear,
Like midnight her eyes, and her voice as clear
As the notes of the lark in the morn lay
Pouring in the sky to the dawning day.
Sunshine and mirth in her smile were wed,
And the rose's blush on her cheek was spread;
While her heart was as light and free from care
As the gauzy dresses she used to wear.
When she was poor, no lovelier maid
Ever tempted the dangers of Abel's blockade;
But wealth brings changes, 'tis often said,
And "Aggie," so gentle and humble of old,
Had now grown naughty and sneeringly cold.

One night, alas!
She stood at the glass,
Unloosing her tresses of raven hair
In a manner exceedingly debonaire,
Plucking the ornaments out of their place,
While the flush of excitement mantled her face,
Investing her charms with more exquisite grace;
When she suddenly frowned,
Stamped her foot on the ground,
And uttered a word which was very bad sound.
To speak she was vexed, for the pins and the rings,
The lacings, the ribbons, the hooks and the strings,
Were ugly and so polish—would n't loosen at all,
Since she came home from the Governor's ball.

Now for a digression. You'll please bear in mind
That Fortune, whom fable paints always as blind,
Had lately let all from her bountiful lap
A shower of riches on "Aggie's" old Pap;
And "Aggie," whom wealth had so suddenly raised,
Was flattered and petted, admired and praised,
Till her weak little head had become nearly crazed.
Then no wonder at all
That the Governor's ball
Claimed the charm of her presence to grace the hall;
No more wonder yet
That she should forget,
In the whirl of excitement, her home in that land
Where the Lemon of Warspites his blood dripping brand,
And the graves are as thick as the sands by the sea
Of martyrs who died that their home might be free.
Not Agnes St. Cyr,
I very much fear,
If reminded of him, would respond with a sneer,
And hold her old friends of but little worth,
Compared with the new ones that came from the North—
So refined, so select, slightly pious withal,
And so charmingly gay whenever they call;
Avoiding all topics relating to strife,
As vulgar intrusions on sociable life;
For fashion now dictates, as every one knows,
That, unlike the Turks, we break bread with our foes

But back to the story: I said she was vexed,
And uttered a word that I'm sorely perplexed
About tracing on paper, and so let it pass;
For just at that moment she looked in the glass,
And started aback with a shrill little scream,
As though suddenly woke from a horrible dream.
There—in the glass, what did she trace?
The features of her own sweet face?
Ah! no—a sight by far more dire—
A scene of slaughter, rapine, fire,
Stretched outward to her wondering eyes,
And held her spell bound with surprise.

Ah! well she knew that home again,
Its fields of plumed and waving grain,
Now strewn with dying and the slain,
And scarred with furrows deep and black
That marks the death shots' ruthless track;
While battle's dark and sulphurous breath
Draped over all the pall of death.
And there, beside her burning home,
A youth lay stretched upon the ground—
His brow dyed with the bloody foam
That oozed from many a gaping wound.
The dastard who had dealt the blow
Stood calmly by, and wiped his steel.
"One adder less," he muttered low,
And spurned the body with his heel.
Great God! that face, once glance again
Enough for any sister's eye,
The truth came crashing through her brain,
Like lightning through a cloudless sky.
"My brother!" one wild, startling shriek rang out upon the night;
"My brother!" and oblivion came to veil the ghastly sight.

But still through the gloom
Of that darkened room
A murmuring ran like the voice of doom;
It seemed to say, as it swelled and rolled,
"Agnes St. Cyr, your friends behold!"
And on through life down the valley of Time
'Twill fall on her pathway a shadow of crime;
Still onward and ever that murmur will roll,
Like the plaintive sigh of a passing soul;
Sleeping or waking, 'twill steal to her ear,
"Such were your friends," Oh, Agnes St. Cyr!

NASSAU, March 26, 1864. CANT ROUGE.

[From Harper's Weekly.]

April 20, 1864.

BY PRIVATE MILES O'REILLY.

Three years ago day
We raised our hands to Heaven,
And on the rolls of muster
Our names were thirty-seven;
There were just a thousand bayonets,
And the swords were thirty seven,
As we took the oath of service,
With our right hands raised to Heaven.

Oh 'twas gallant day,
In memory still adored,
That day of our sun-bright nuptials
With the musket and the sword!
Shrill rang the fifes, the bugles blared
And beneath a tiendless heaven
Twinkled a thousand bayonets,
And the swords were thirty seven.

Of the thousand stalwart bayonets
Two hundred march to day,
Hundreds lie in Virginia swamps,
And hundreds in Maryland clay;
And other hundreds, less happy, drag
Their shattered limbs around,
And envy the deep, long, blessed sleep
Of the battle field's holy ground.

For the swords—one night, a week ago,
The remnant, just eleven,
Gathered around a banqueting board
With seats for thirty seven;
There were two limped in on crutches,
And two had each but a hand
To pour the wine and raise the cup
As we toasted "Our flag and land!"

And the room seemed filled with whispers
As we looked at the vacant seats,
And, with choking throats, we pushed aside
The rich but untasted meats;
Then in silence we brimmed our glasses,
As we rose up—just eleven—
And bowed as we drank to the loved and the dead
Who had made us thirty seven.

The Sub-Treasury Forgeries.

UNITED STATES COMMISSIONER'S OFFICE.

Before Commissioner White.

THE CHARGE AGAINST J. R. HUNTER DISMISSED.

The examination into the Sub-Treasury forgeries was resumed yesterday morning, and resulted in the withdrawal of the charge against Mr. Hunter, the District Attorney declaring his conviction that Mr. Hunter was perfectly innocent of all knowledge of the charge brought against him.

In the course of the examination of Judge Pierrepont, counsel for the accused, proposed that counsel for the government call Mr. Hunter and propound to him, under oath, any questions they might deem proper, while defendant's counsel would not interfere, relying entirely on the integrity and innocence of the accused.

The District Attorney, after a short conference with Mr. Gerard, assented to the proposition, and Mr. Hunter was then examined.

MR. HUNTER'S TESTIMONY.

By Mr. Smith—I want to ask you whether you wrote these signatures to exhibits A and B (forged checks), or any part of the checks?

Mr. Hunter—I never did, and I never saw them till the 25th day of February; I think that was the day we discovered them.

By Mr. Gerard—Do you know or have you any idea of who wrote them?

Mr. Hunter—Not any.

Mr. Smith then addressed the Court. He was perfectly satisfied, from the evidence that has been adduced here, that Mr. Hunter is perfectly innocent of the charge laid against him, and it was desired that the case be now dismissed in such a way as shall best tend to do entire justice to Mr. Hunter, and make him some reparation for the wrong that has been unintentionally perpetrated against him.

Mr. Gerard expressed his entire concurrence in the remarks of the District Attorney.

The Commissioner said it was unnecessary for him to say that his conviction was entire in the innocence of Mr. Hunter. He was glad to see that his discharge from further suspicion and examination had been accomplished by the very frank and free admission of the counsel for the government.

The case then ended.

A New Invention.

BOSTON, April 23, 1864.

Mr. W. B. Davis, of Brooklyn, N. Y., has invented a substitute for copper on the bottoms of vessels, preventing accretions of vegetable and marine matter, also preventing rust on iron plates. The invention has been successfully tested for eight months on the bottom of the Circassian, lately returned from the Gulf.

ALBANY & SUSQUEHANNAH RAILROAD COMPANY (110 MILES LONG).

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS, FOR $1,000 00).

FOR SALE BY MARIE & KANZ,

No. 2 William street, New York.

The undersigned now offer for sale $300,000 of the First Mortgage 7 per cent Bonds of the Albany & Susquehannah Railroad Company. Extra P. Prentice, President, redeemable in New York, July 1, 1883, and convertible into stock at par within ten years.

The bonds are in sums of $1,000 each, coupons payable January 1 and July 1, in New York city. They are executed to Daniel Drew and Alfred Van Santvoord, Trustees, and are secured by a mortgage which covers the whole of the said road, including the right of way, necessary real estate, superstructure, franchises and appurtenances belonging to, or to belong to the company, and is the first and a preferred lien thereon, except that one other mortgage directed by a special act of the Legislature of the State of New York to be executed to the city of Albany, to secure the payment of the principal and interest of $1,000,000 of bonds to be issued by the said city as a loan in aid of the said road, which two mortgages are by the terms of the said act entitled to an equality of lien.

The length of road is 110 miles, entirely within the State of New York, extending from the city of Albany to Binghamton, on the Erie Railway, through a rich and productive region, forming valuable connections with other railroads at its two termini, and opening another avenue from the coal regions.

The first division of 33 miles, from Albany to Schoharie, has recently been opened for business; that portion from Schoharie to Oneonta, Otsego county, 45 miles, has been let and is now in progress; the balance is nearly ready for letting, and proposals are now advertised for grading and building 30 miles beyond Oneonta. The cost of the first division, including rolling stock, is about $1,000,000, in addition to which $300,000 have been expended on the balance of the line; total expended to 1st January, 1864, $1,345,496. The means of the company to complete the road, including what is already expended, are $2,000,000, individual and town subscriptions to the stock, of which $1,140,000 have been already paid in; $1,000,000 first mortgage bonds, $1,000,000 Albany city loan, and $500,000 appropriated by the State of New York, and payable one-half when the road is completed to Cobleskill, 40 miles, the balance when completed 50 miles to Oneonta; total $4,500,000. Estimated cost of the road when completed, $4,500,000, or about $32,000 per mile. The joint mortgagees to secure the bonds issued by the company, and the bonds to be issued by the city of Albany, together $2,000,000, constitute a total lien of $14,500 per mile.

UNITED STATES 10-40 BONDS.

These bonds are issued under the act of Congress of March 3, 1864, which provides that all bonds issued under this act shall be EXEMPT FROM TAXATION by or under any State or municipal authority. Subscriptions to these bonds are received in United States notes or notes of National Banks. They are TO BE REDEEMED IN COIN, at the pleasure of the government, at any period not less than ten nor more than forty years from their date, and until their redemption FIVE PER CENT INTEREST WILL BE PAID IN COIN, on bonds of not over one hundred dollars, annually, and on all other bonds semi-annually. The interest is payable on the first days of March and September in each year.

Registered Bonds are recorded on the books of the United States Treasurer, and can be transferred only on the order. Coupon Bonds are payable to bearer, and are more convenient for commercial use.

Subscribers to this loan will have the option of having their Bonds draw interest from March 1, by paying the accrued interest in coin—(or in United States notes, or the notes of National Banks, adding fifty per cent for premium,) or receive them drawing interest from the date of subscription and deposit.

As these Bonds are exempt from municipal or State taxation their value is increased from one to three per cent per annum, according to the rate of tax levied in various parts of the country.

At the present rate of premium on gold they pay over eight per cent interest in currency, and are of equal convenience as a permanent or temporary investment.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as the various descriptions of United States Bonds. In all other forms of indebtedness the faith or ability of private parties or stock companies, or separate communities only, is pledged for payment, while for the debts of the United States the whole property of the country is holden to secure the payment of both principal and interest in coin.

These Bonds may be subscribed for in sums from $50 up to any magnitude, on the same terms, and are thus made equally available to the smallest lender and the largest capitalist. They can be converted into money at any moment, and the holder will have the benefit of the interest.

The fact that all duties on imports are payable in specie furnishes a fund for like payment of interest on all government bonds largely in excess of the wants of the Treasury for this purpose.

Instructions to the National Banks acting as loan agents were not issued from the United States Treasury until March 26, but in the first three weeks of April the subscriptions have averaged more than

TEN MILLIONS A WEEK.

Subscriptions will be received by the Treasurer of the United States at Washington, and the Assistant Treasurers at New York, Boston and Philadelphia, and by the First National Bank of New York, No. 4 Wall street.

Second National Bank of New York, Twenty-third street and Broadway.

Fourth National Bank of New York, Pine street.
